Śrī Kṛṣṇa-karṇāmṛta

by Śrīla Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura

Text 1*

cintāmaṇir jayati somagirir gurur me śikṣā-guruś ca bhagavān śikhi-piṣcha-mauliḥ yat-pāda-kalpataru-pallava-śekhareṣu līlā-svayamvara-rasam labhate jayaśrīḥ

cintāmaṇiḥ jayati—all glories to Cintāmaṇī; soma-giriḥ—Somagiri (the initiating guru); guruḥ—spiritual master; me—my; śikṣā-guruḥ—instructing spiritual master; ca—and; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; śikhi-piṣcha—with peacock feathers; mauliḥ—whose head; yat—whose; pāda—of the lotus feet; kalpataru—like desire trees; pallava—like new leaves; śekhareṣu—at the toenails; līlā-svayam-vara—of conjugal pastimes; rasam—the mellow; labhate—obtains; jaya-śrīḥ—Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī.

All glories to Cintāminī and my initiating spiritual master, Somagiri. All glories to my instructing spiritual master, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who wears peacock feathers in His crown. Under the shade of His lotus feet, which are like desire trees, Jayaśrī (Rādhārāṇī) enjoys the transcendental mellow of an eternal consort.

asti svastaruṇī-karāgra-vigalat-kalpa-prasūna-plutam vastu prastuta-veṇu-nāda-laharī-nirvāṇa-nirvyākulam srasta-srasta-niruddha-nīvi-vilasad-gopī-sahasrāvṛtam hasta-nyasta-natāpavargam akhilodāram kisorākṛti

asti—there is; svastaruṇī—damsels of heaven; kara-agra—fingertips; vigalat—falling; Kalpa—of desire trees; prasūna—flowers; plutam—covered; vastu—an entity; prastuta—famed; veṇu-nāda—flute sound; laharī—waves; nirvāṇa—transcendental beatitude; nirvyākulam—carefree; srasta-srasta—repeatedly falling; niruddha—held up; nīvi—undergarments; vilasad—shining; gopī—milkmaids; sahasra—thousands; avṛtam—surrounded; hasta—into the hads; nyasta—placed; nata—of the surrendered souls; apavargam—liberation; akhila—of all; udāram—most munificent; kiśora—of an adolescent boy; akṛti—having the appearance or form.

There is an entity who has the appearance of an adolescent boy, and who is being inundated with desire-tree flowers falling from the fingertips of the damsels of heaven. That boy is completely carefree, situated in transcendental beatitude, as He sends forth waves of sound from His famed flute. He is encircled by thousands of effulgent milkmaids, whose garments are becoming loose again and again (from their extreme pleasure at hearing the flute) and who are trying to hold them up. That adolescent boy, the pinnacle of munificence, places liberation from birth and death into the hands of His surrendered devotees.

cāturaika-nidāna-sīma-capalāpāṅga-cchaṭā-mantharam lāvanyāmṛta-vīci-lolita-dṛṣam lakṣmī-katākṣādṛtam kālinḍī-pulināṅgana-praṇayinam kāmāvatārāṅkuram bālamnīlam amīvayam mahurima-svārājyam ārādhnmaḥ cātura—amicableness, amorous restiveness; eka—only; nidāna—cause of existence; sīma—limit; capala—flickering; apāṅga—sidelong glances; cchaṭā—the many; mantharam—becomes or makes languid; lāvanya—beauty; amṛta—nectar; vīci—waves; lolita—moving; dṛṣam—eyes; lakṣmī—Radharani; katākṣa—sidelong glances; adṛtam—attentively worshiped; kālinḍī—the Yamunā (daughter of Mount Kalinda); pulina—the bank; āṅgana—the milkmaids; praṇayinam—enjoys pastimes with; kāma—supramundane love; avatāra—the incarnation; āṅkuram—source or root; bālam—adolescent boy; nīlam—dark blue; amī—is; vayam—by us; madhurima—love's sweetness; svārājyam—unrestricted dominion; ārādhnmaḥ—worshiped.

We worship that dark bluish young boy, in whom culminate the principal stimuli for amorous love, who causes Rādhā to become languid with the beauty of His dancing sidelong glances, and who in turn becomes languid with love when Śrī Rādhā and Her friends cast their sidelong glances at Him. That boy's beauty, like waves of nectar, engenders an extreme thirst in the eyes of Rādhā and Her companions, and, conversely, their nectarous beauty makes Him thirsty to see them. He is affectionately worshiped by Rādhā's wistful glances, and He enjoys loving pastimes with Rādhā and Her friends on the bank of the Yamunā. We worship that young bluish boy, the source of the god of love, who has attained unchallenged dominion over love's sweetness.

bharottamaṅsa-vilāsa-kuntala-bharam mādhyama-magnānanam pranmīlan-nava-yauvanam pravilasat veṇu-pranādamṛtam āpīna-stana-kuḍmalābhir abhito gopībhir ārādhitam jyotiś cetasi naś cakāstu jagatām ekābhirāmādbhutam bharottamaṅsa—peacock feather; vilāsa—charming; kuntala—lock of hair; bharam—wearing; mādhyama—sweetness; magna—steeped; ānanam—face; pranmīlat—manifesting; nava—fresh; yauvanam—youthfulness; pravilasat—shining forth brightly, revealing itself; veṇu—of the flute; pranāda—murmur or sound of rapture; amṛtam—nectar; āpīna—udderlike; stana—breasts; kuḍmalābhiḥ—with buds; abhitaḥ—on all sides; gopībhiḥ—the milkmaids of Vraja; ārādhitam—adore, worship; jyotiḥ—the effulgence, i.e., Kṛṣṇa; cetasi—in our hearts; naḥ—of us; cakāstu—let it shine; jagatām—in the universe; eka—the only;

abhirāma—enjoyer or source of enjoyment; adbhutam—wonderful, amazing.

Let the effulgence personified (i.e., Kṛṣṇa) shine within our hearts. He is wearing a bright peacock plume on His head, His face is steeped in sweet beauty, His fresh youthfulness is bursting forth, and His flute is pouring out murmuring, nectarous sounds of rapture. On all sides the milkmaids of Vraja, who have blooming, budlike breasts, worship Him in adoration. Indeed, He is, amazingly, the only enjoyer and the only source of enjoyment in the entire universe.

madhuratara-smitāmṛta-vimugdha-mukhāmburuham mada-śikhi-piṣcha-lāṣchita-manojṣa-kaca-pracayam viṣaya-viṣāmiṣa-grasana-grḍhnuni cetasi me vipula-vilocanam kim api dhāma cakāstu ciram madhuratara—very sweet; smita—smiles; amṛta—the nectar; vimugdha—very charming; mukha—the face; amburuham—the lotus; mada—proud; śikhi—peacock; piṣcha—feather; lāṣchita—decorated; manojṣa—charming, pleasing; kaca—locks of hair; pracayam—profusion; viṣaya—that which binds the mind; either worldly objects of attachment or Kṛṣṇa Himself; viṣa—poison, or pain of separation from Kṛṣṇa; amiṣa—meat, or any coveted thing; grasana—to swallow; grḍhnuni—greedy; cetasi—mind; me—my; vipula—wide, like long lotus petals; vilocanam—eyes; kim api—indescribable; dhāma—embodiment of brightness; cakāstu—let it shine; ciram—forever.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa's eyes are long like petals of a blooming lotus, and His very charming lotuslike face is made all the more charming by His extremely beautiful and sweet, nectarous smiles. His profuse curling locks look delightful with their decoration of a proud peacock's tail-feather. Let Him, the embodiment of all effulgence, forever shine within my heart, which is (outwardly) greedy for the poisonous meat of sense objects, [or (inwardly) greedy for the beauty of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, a beauty that binds the devotee's mind and causes burning pain at the time of separation from Him.]

mukulāya-māna-nayanāmbujam vibhor muralī-nināda-makaranda-nirbharam mukurāyamāna-mṛdu-gaṇḍa-maṇḍalam mukha-paṅkajam manasi me vijṛmbhitām mukulāya—buds; māna—resembling; nayana—eyes; ambujam—lotus; vibhor—of the Lord; muralī—flute; nināda—sound; makaranda—nectar, honey; nirbharam—full of; mukurāya—mirror; māna—resembling; mṛdu—delicate; gaṇḍa—of the cheeks; maṇḍalam—the orbs; mukha—face; paṅkajam—the lotus; manasi—heart, mind; me—my; vijṛmbhitām—open within.

May the lotus of my Lord's face blossom within [the lake of] my mind. The eyes of that face resemble lotus buds, being half-closed, and the delicate mirrorlike orbs of its cheeks are puffed with the nectarous honey of the flute-sound.

Text 7

kamañiya-kiśora-mugdha-mūrteḥ kala-venu-kvañitādr̥tānanendoḥ mama vāci vijṛmbhitām murārer madhurimṇaḥ kañi-kāpi kāpi kāpi

kamañiya—enrapturing; kiśora—adolescent; mugdha—artless; mūrteḥ—the figure; kala—melodies; venu—flute; kvañita—sounding; adr̥ta—worshiped; ānana—face; indoḥ—the moon; mama—my; vāci—words; vijṛmbhitām—let there be expressed; murāreḥ—who is irreproachable and very beautiful, or the enemy of the Mura demon; madhurimṇaḥ—of the sweet beauty; kani—a small particle; ka api—even a particle; ka api—of a particle; ka api—of a particle.

Let my words express even a tiny particle of a particle of a particle of the luscious beauty of Murāri, whose artless adolescent figure enraptures me, and whose moon-face is worshiped by the soft melodies of His flute.

Text 8

mada-śikhaṇḍi-sikhaṇḍa-vibhūṣaṇam madana-manthara-mugdha-mukhāmbujam vraja-vadhū-nayanāsjana-raṣjitaṁ vijayatām mama vāñmaya-jīvitam

mada—of the impassioned; śikhaṇḍi—peacock; śikhaṇḍa—the feathers; vibhūṣaṇam—decorated; madana—Cupid, or love; manthara—languid; mugdha—charming, artless; mukha—face; ambujam—lotus; vraja-vadhū—the wives of Vraja (the milkmaids); nayana—from the eyes; asjana—collyrium; raṣjitaṁ—decorated; vijayatām—all glories; mama—my; vāñmaya—of words; jīvitam—the life.

All glories to [Kṛṣṇa] the life of my words! The collyrium from the eyes of the young girls of Vraja decorates His charming lotus face, which is languid with love, and an impassioned peacock's feather adorns His head.

pallavāruṇa-pāñi-paṅkaja-saṅgi-venu-ravākulaṁ phulla-pāṭala-pāṭali-parivādi-pāda-saroruham ullasan-madhurādhara-dyuti-maṣjarī-sarasānanaṁ ballavī-kuca-kumbha-kuñkuma-paṅkilaṁ prabhum āśraye

pallava—like twigs; aruṇa—reddish; pāñi—hands; paṅkaja—lotus; saṅgi—in contact; venu—flute; rava—sound; ākulaṁ—agitated; phulla—fully blossomed; pāṭala—blossom; pāṭali—the pāṭali flower; parivādi—reproach; pāda—feet; saroruham—lotus; ullasan—joyful; madhura-adhara—of sweet lips; dyuti—the glow; maṣjarī—blossoms; sarasa—amiable, luscious; ānanaṁ—face; ballavī—of the milkmaids; kuca—breasts; kumbha—pitcherlike; kuñkuma—kunkuma powder; paṅkilaṁ—muddied up; prabhum—the Lord; āśraye—I take shelter.

I take shelter of the Lord [Kṛṣṇa], who becomes agitated with passion when He hears the sound of His own flute, held in His lotus hands, which resemble newly sprouted reddish twigs. His lotus feet reproach fully blossomed pāṭali flowers with their beauty, and His amiable face sends forth blossoms of brilliance from His delightfully sweet lips. He is smeared with the kuṅkuma powder from the milkmaids' pitcherlike breasts.

apāṅga-rekhābhir abhaṅgurābhir anaṅga-rekhā-rasa-raṣjitābhiḥ anukṣaṇam ballava-sundarībhir abhyarcyamānam vibhum āśrayāmaḥ apāṅga—from the corners of the eyes; rekhābhiḥ—direct glances; abhaṅgurābhir—unbroken; anaṅga—Cupid ("the bodiless one"); rekhā—direct; rasa—with emotion; raṣjitābhiḥ—ruddy; anukṣaṇam—at every moment; ballava—of the cowherd men; sundarībhiḥ—the beauties (i.e., the milkmaids of Vraja); abhyarcyamānam—who is always worshiped; vibhum—of the Lord; āśrayāmaḥ—I take shelter.

I take shelter of my Lord [Kṛṣṇa], whom the beautiful milkmaids worship at every moment with unbroken sidelong glances from eyes tinged red with passion.

Text 11

hṛdaye mama hṛdya-vibhramāṇām hṛdayam harṣa-viśāla-lola-netram taruṇam vraja-bāla-sundarīnām taralam kiṣcana dhāma sannidhattām hṛdaye—to the heart; mama—my; hṛdya—in the hearts; vibhramāṇām—confusions; hṛdayam—knower of the hearts (of the milkmaids); harṣa—extreme pleasure; viśāla—wide open; lola—wantonly restless; netram—the eyes; taruṇam—a youth; vraja—of Vrndavana; bāla—young; sundarīnām—of beautiful women; taralam—moving to and fro, or the central gem of a necklace; kiṣcana—inexpressible; dhāma—effulgence; sannidhattām—come near.

Let that effulgent youth [Kṛṣṇa] come near to my heart. His wantonly restless, wide-open eyes are full of joy, and, being fully aware of the hearts of the beautiful young girls of Vraja, He fills them with the fluttering confusions of love. ??He is fickle, yet He is like the central jewel in the necklace of the milkmaids.

nikhila-bhuvana-lakṣmī-nitya-līlāspadābhyām kamala-vipina-vīthī-garva-sarvaṁ kaṣābhyām praṇamad-abhaya-dāna-prauḍhi-gāḍhāḍṛtābhyām kim api vahatu cetah kṛṣṇa-pādāmbujābhyām nikhila—all; bhuvana—the worlds; lakṣmī—beauties (i.e., the mildmaids); nitya—eternal; lilāḥ—pastimes; padābhyām—home; kamala—lotus; vipina—vīthī—thickets or clusters; garva—pride; sarvam—all; kaṣābhyām—break down; praṇamad—those who bow down (i.e., His devotees); abhaya—fearlessness; dāna—giving; prauḍhi—assurance; gāḍha—excessively; adṛtābhyām—worshiped; kim api—something in expressible, inexpressible bliss; vahatu—attain; cetaḥ—my mind; kṛṣṇa—of Kṛṣṇa; pāda—the feet; ambujābhyām—lotus.

Let my mind attain some inexpressible beatific bliss from [thinking of] Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, which are the home of the eternal pastimes of the most beautiful maidens in all the worlds, which destroy the pride of whole clusters of lotuses, and which are highly esteemed for their great eagerness in providing safety for the Lord's humble devotees.

prati-pada-lalitābhyām pratiyahaṁ nūtanābhyām prati-muhur adhikābhyām prasphural-locanābhyām pravahatu hṛdaye naḥ prāṇa-nāthaḥ kiśoraḥ praṇaya—by love (for Rādhā); pariṇatābhyām—become full, developed; śrī—of beauty; bhara—excessive; alambanābhyām—the abode; prati—every; pada—step; lalitābhyām—acquired charm and elegance; prati—every; ahan—day; nūtanābhyām—fresh, novel; prati—every; muhur—moment; adhikābhyām—more and more; prasphuram—sparkling; locanābhyām—the eyes; pravahatu—continue to attain (a place); hṛdaye—in hearts; naḥ—of us; prāṇa—of life; nāthaḥ—the Lord; kiśoraḥ—the fresh youth (Kṛṣṇa).

May the Lord of our life, that young boy [Kṛṣṇa], shine incessantly within our hearts. His eyes, full of love for Rādhā, are the abode of infinite beauty. Every day they appear newer and newer, at every step they increase their charm and elegance, and at every moment they sparkle more and more brilliantly.

mādhurya-vāridhi-madāmbu-taraṅga-bhaṅgiśṛṅgāra-saṅkulita-śīta-kiśora-veṣam āmanda-hāsa-lalitānana-candra-bimbam ānanda-samplavam anu plavatām mano me mādhurya—of sweetness; vāridhi—ocean; mada—passion; ambu—water; taraṅga—waves; bhaṅgi—breaking; śṛṅgāra—passionate ecstasy; saṅkulita—distress; śīta—cools; kiśora—of a youth; veṣam—the appearance; āmanda—very mild; hāsa—by the smile; lalita—sweetened, made charming; ānana—face; candra—moon; bimbam—the orb; ānanda—bliss; samplavam—a flood; anu—along; plavatām—may float; manaḥ—mind; me—of me.

May my mind float along in the flood of bliss emanating from Kṛṣṇa's moonlike face, made charming by a very mild smile. Kṛṣṇa has the appearance of a young boy, and, beautified by the waves of His passionate ecstasy breaking in the ocean of sweetness, He soothes all distress.

avyāja-maṣjula-mukhāmbuja-mugdha-bhāvair āsvādyamāna-nija-veṇu-vinoda-nādam ākrīdatām aruṇa-pāda-saroruhābhyām ārdre madīya-hṛdaye bhuvanārdram ojaḥ avyāja—open, not deceitful; maṣjula—lovely; mukha—face; ambuja—lotus; mugdha—amiable, charming, artless; bhāvair—emotions, ecstasies; āsvādyamāna—eagerly tasted; nija—His own; veṇu—flute; vinoda—playing; nādam—sound; ākrīdatām—may it play; aruṇa—reddish; pāda—feet; saroruhābhyām—by the lotus; ārdre—moistened; madīya—my; hṛdaye—in the heart; bhuvana—the universe; ārdram—moistening; ojaḥ—force (of the overflowing current of bliss emanating from Kṛṣṇa's moonlike face).

Let the force [of the flood of bliss emanating from Kṛṣṇa's face], which saturates the whole universe, play within my heart, which is moistened by contact with Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, by the display of charming, artless emotions on His open, lovely lotus face, and by the melody of His flute, which is relished by Rādhā.

Text 16

*maṇi-nūpura-vācālam
vande tac caraṇam vibhoḥ lalitāni yadiyāni
lakṣmāṇi vraja-vīthiṣu*

maṇi—jeweled; nūpura—anklets; vācālam—sound, tinkle; vande—I bow down; tad—those; caraṇam—the feet; vibhoḥ—of the Lord; lalitāni—decorate; yadiyāni—whose; lakṣmāṇi—the marks (of the feet); vraja—of Vṛndāvana; vīthiṣu—the paths.

I bow down to the feet of Lord Kṛṣṇa, whose jeweled anklets tinkle and whose footprints decorate the paths of Vraja.

Text 17

mama cetasi sphuratu vallavī-vibhor maṇi-nūpura-praṇayi maṣju śiṣjitam kamalā-vanecara-kalinda-kanyakākalahaṁsa-kaṇṭha-kala-kūjitāḍṛtam

mama—in my; cetasi—mind; sphuratu—let there by manifested; vallavī—of the milkmaids; vibhoḥ—the master; maṇi—jeweled; nūpura—anklets; praṇayi—provided with; maṣju—sweet; śiṣjitam—jingling; kamalā—of Kamalā (Rādhā); vanecara—lotus—filled ponds; kalinda—kanyakā—the daughter of Mount Kalinda (i.e., the Yamuna River); kalahaṁsa—white swans; kaṇṭha—in the throats; kala—warbling cries; kujita—melodious; āḍṛtam—worshiped, accorded welcome.

May the sweet jingling of the jeweled anklets of Kṛṣṇa, the master of the milkmaids, be manifest in my mind. Kamalā's [Rādhā's] white swans swimming in the lotus-filled ponds of the Yamunā accord that sweet jingling a warm welcome with the melodious warbling from their throats.

Text 18

muralī-rava-taralī-kṛta-muni-mānasa-nalinam mama khelatu mada-cetasi madhurādharam amṛtam taruṇa—like the sun; aruṇa—red; karuṇāmaya—full of compassion; vipulāyata—broad, wide open; nayanam—eyes; kamalā—Rādhā; kuca—breasts; kalaśi—pitcherlike; bhara—heavy; vipulī—pressing; kṛta—caused; pulakam—standing of the hairs on end; muralī—flute; rava—sound; taralī—loose, liquified; kṛta—made; muni—of the sages; mānasa—the minds; malinam—lotuses; mama—my; khelatu—play; mada—intoxicated with glee; cetasi—mind; madhura—sweet; adharam—lips; amṛtam—(filled with) nectar.

May Kṛṣṇa's nectar-filled sweet lips play in my mind, intoxicated with delight. His broad eyes, reddish like the rising sun, are full of compassion, His hair is standing on end because of touching Kamalā's [Rādhā's] heavy, pitcherlike breasts, and He has melted the lotuslike hearts of the sages with the sound of His flute.

Text 19

harṣākula-vraja-vadhū-madhurānanendoḥ ārabdha-veṇu-ravam ārta-kiśora-mūrter āvirbhavantu mama cetasi ke 'pi bhāvāḥ āmugdham—of the completely charming one; ardha—half-closed; nayana—eyes; ambuja—lotus; cumbyamāna—as if kissing; harṣa—with joy; ākula—agitated; vraja-vadhū—the wives of Vraja (i.e., the milkmaids); madhura—sweetly beautiful; ānana—faces; indoḥ—moon; ārabdha—commencement; veṇu—flute; ravam—sounding; ārta—assumed; kiśora—youth; mūrteḥ—form; āvirbhavantu—may there appear; mama—in my; cetasi—mind; ke api—some; bhāvāḥ—ecstatic states.

May there appear in my mind some of the ecstatic states of very charming Śrī Kṛṣṇa. As He glances at the milkmaids' sweet moonlike faces, agitating them with joy, He seems to be kissing them with His half-closed eyes. As He begins sounding His flute, He assumes the attitude of an adolescent youth.

punaḥ prakṛti-cāpalam praṇayinī-bhujā-yantritam mama sphuratu mānase madana-keli-śayyotthitam kala—soft sound; kvaṇita—sounding; kañkaṇam—bracelets; kara—by the hand; niruddha—grasped; pīta—yellow; ambaram—cloth; klama—fatigue; prasṛta—disheveled; kuntalam—hair; galita—slips; barha—peacock; bhūṣam—plume; vibhoḥ—of the Lord; punaḥ—again; prakṛti—natures; cāpalam—fickle; praṇayiṇī—of the beloved; bhujā—by the arms; yantritam—held; mama—my; sphuratu—let it manifest; mānase—in the mind; madana—amorous; keli—play, pastimes; śayya—the bed; utthitam—rising.

May there awaken in my mind a vision of the Lord arising from the bed of amorous play. The bracelets of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa tinkle softly, and Kṛṣṇa's yellow cloth is grasped by Them both. Their hair is disheveled from fatigue, and Kṛṣṇa's peacock plume slips from His hair. Again Their fickle, playful natures manifest, and at last Rādhā holds Kṛṣṇa with Her arms.

stoka-stoka—drop by drop; nirudhyamāna—although held back, or as if held back; mṛdula—softly, gently; prasyandi—oozes; manda—gentle; smitam—smile; prema—transcendental love; udbheda—rising; nirargala—uncheckable; prasṛmara—streaming forth; pravyakta—evident; roma—hair standing on end; udgamam—appearing; śrotum—in order to hear; śrotra—to the ear; manaḥ—the mind; haram—pleasing; vraja—vadhū—the wives of Vraja (i.e., the milkmaids); lilā—playful; mithaḥ—mutual; jalpitaḥ—talks; mithyā—false; svāpam—sleep; upāsmāhe—we worship; bhagavataḥ—the Lord; kṛīḍāni—playfully; mīlan—closed; dṛśaḥ—with eyes.

We worship Lord Kṛṣṇa, who is mischievously keeping His eyes closed, pretending to sleep, in order to hear the milkmaids' playful talks, which are so pleasing to the ear and mind. Though Kṛṣṇa is trying to restrain Himself, a gentle smile trickles from His lips drop by drop, and He cannot check the rising tide of love, which causes His hair to begin standing on end.

When will the time come when that merciful boy Kṛṣṇa will look upon me with His playful lotus eyes, which are soothing and cooling with loving emotion, reddish at the corners and dark bluish at the irises, and wonderfully rolling and dancing?

bahula-cikura-bhāram baddha-picchāvataṁsam capala-capala-netraṁ cāru-bimbādharoṣṭham madhura-mṛdula-hāsam mandaroddhāra-līlam mṛgayati nayanam me mugdha-veṣam murāreḥ bahula—thick; cikura—locks; bhāram—having a large quantity; baddha—tied; piccha—peacock feather; avataṁsam—adorned; capala—capala—very unsteady, quickly moving; netraṁ—eyes; cāru—fascinating, lovely; bimba—red (like bimba fruits); adhara—oṣṭham—upper and lower lips; madhura—sweet; mṛdula—gentle; hāsam—laughter; mandara—Mount Mandara; uddhāra—lifting; līlam—pastime; mṛgayati—searching for; nayanam—eyes; me—of me; mugdha—enchanted, artless; veṣam—appearance; murāreḥ—Murari.

My eyes search for that enchantingly adorned one, Murari, whose thick locks bear a peacock plume, and whose gaze darts here and there very quickly. His lovely lips are red like bimba fruits, and with His sweet, gentle laughter he seems to be churning [the ocean of my heart] with Mount Mandara.

kam api kamalāpāṅgodagra-prasaṅga-jadam jaganmadhurima-parīpākodrekaṁ vyaṁ mṛgayāmahe bahula—thick, dense; jalada—clouds; cchāyā—effulgence; coram—stolen; vilāsa—playing; bhara—much; ālasam—languid; mada—impassioned; śikhi—peacock; sikhā—feathers; līlā—playful; uttaṁsam—crest; manojsa—fascinating; mukha—face; ambujam—lotus; kam api—someone; kamalā—Rādhā; apāṅga—sidelong glances; udagra—upward—pointing; prasaṅga—long contact; jadam—stunned; jagat—the universe; madhurima—sweetness; parīpāka—perfection; udrekaṁ—excess; vyaṁ—we; mṛgayāmahe—search for.

We are searching for that person who has stolen the effulgence of thick clouds, who has grown a bit languid from playing so much, who wears a crest made from the playful feathers of an impassioned peacock, whose lotus face is so fascinating, who has become stunned by long and close contact with the upward-pointing sidelong glances of Kamalā (Rādhā), and who is the very overabundance of perfection of all the sweet beauty in the universe.

anāmṛṣyam vācā muni-samudayānām api kadā darīdṛṣye devam dara-dalita-nīlotpala-rucim* parāmr̥ṣyam—sought for; dūre—further away; pathi pathi—(further and further) along the path; munīnām—of the sages; vraja—of Vraja; vadhū—the wives (i.e., the milkmaids); dṛṣā—to the eyes; dṛṣyam—visible; śaśvat—always; tribhuvana—in all three worlds; manah—minds; hāri—stealing (i.e., enchanting); vanam—face; anāmṛṣyam—not found or described; vācā—in words; muni—of sages (like Vyāsa, etc.); samudayānām—multitude; api—indeed; kadā—when; darīdṛṣye—I shall see; devam—that God; dara—a little; dalita—opened; nīlotpala—blue lotus; rucim—luster.

When shall I see to my hearts content my Lord (Kṛṣṇa), for whom the sages must always search further along the path, but whose face, which enchants all the three worlds, is always visible to the eyes of the milkmaids of Vraja? When shall I see Him, whose luster resembles a slightly open blue lotus bud, and who is always beyond the reach of the words of the great sages like Vyāsa?

narmāni veṇu-vivareṣu niveśayantam dolāyamāna-nayanam nayanābhirāmam devam kadā nu dayitam vyatilokayiṣye*

līlā—sportive; ānana—face; ambujam—lotus; adhīram—fickle; udīkṣamānam—looking out; narmāni—amorous joking; veṇu—flute; vivareṣu—holes; niveśayantam—reveals; dolāyamāna—rolling; devam—the Lord (Kṛṣṇa); kadā—when; nu—indeed; dayitam—my darling; vyatilokayiṣye—I shall see.

When shall I see my darling Lord (Kṛṣṇa), who is so fickle yet so delightful to my eyes? His eyes are rolling, and as He looks out from His sportive lotus face He sends a song of loving jokes through the holes of His flute.

rajyan-mṛdu-smita-mṛdūllasitādhārāṃśu rākendu-lālita-mukhendu mukunda-bālyam* lagnam—clings; muhur—constantly, again and again; manasi—mind; lampāṭa—debauchee; sampradāya—tradition; lekha—drawings; avālehini—fond (of tasting dainties); rasajṣa—those knowledgeable of the taste; manojṣa—enraptures;

veṣam—appearance; rajyan—reddened; mṛdu—gentle; smita—smile; mṛdu—ullasita—softly glowing, or kunda flowers; adhara—aṃsu—lip—rays, or teeth; rāka—indu—full moon; lālita—cherished; mukha—indu—face like a moon; mukunda—of Mukunda; bālyam—adolescent loveliness.

The adolescent loveliness of Mukunda, whose appearance enraptures the connoisseurs, clings to my mind, which is always fond of drawings from the libertine tradition. His moon-face is cherished by the moon itself, and the softly glowing rays of his lips redden His gentle smile [or, His kunda-flower-like teeth are reddened by the effulgence of His gentle smile].

kala-ninada-galad-amṛta-ghana-sarasi deve sahaja-rasa-bhara-bharita-dara-hasita-vīthī-satata-vahad-adhara-maṇi-madhurimaṇi liye

kara—hands; kamala—lotus; dala—petals (i.e., petallike fingers); kalita—held; lalitatarā—very melodious; varṣī—of the flute; kala—warbling; ninada—sounds; galad—oozing; amṛta—of nectar; ghana—deep; sarasi—lake; deve—my Lord; sahaja—natural; rasa—of mellow, of tastiness of love; bhara—great quantity; bharita—filled with; dara—gentle, slight; hasita—laughter; vīthī—series; satata—constantly; vahad—bearing; adhara—lips; maṇi—rubylike; madhurimaṇi—sweetness, sweet beauty; liye—I am absorbed.

I am lost in thoughts of my Lord, who is a deep lake of nectar trickling forth as the very melodious warbling of His flute, which He holds with His lotus-petallike fingers. I am absorbed in thoughts of the sweetness of His ruby-red lips, which bear a constant series of tender laughs filled with an abundance of His innate loving mellows.

mada-mudita-mṛdu-hasita-muṣita-śaśi-śobhāmuhur-adhika-mukha-kamala-madhurimaṇi līye* kusumaśara—he who shoots flower arrows (i.e., Cupid); śara—arrows; samara—in the battle; kupita—provoked; mada—ardent; gopī—the milkmaids; kuca—breasts; kalaśa—jar—like; ghuṣṛṇa—sandalwood; rasa—paste; lasad—shines; urasi—chest; deve—my Lord; mada—amorous; mudita—delightful; mṛdu—gentle; hasita—smile; muṣita—stolen; śaśi—moon; śobhā—splendor; muhuh—at every moment; adhika—increasing; mukha—face; kamala—lotus; madhurimaṇi—sweet beauty; līye—I am absorbed.

I am absorbed in thinking of my Lord. His chest shines with the sandalwood paste from the pitcherlike breasts of the ardent milkmaids, who have been incited to amorous battle by Cupid's flower arrows, and the sweet beauty of His lotus face is magnified at every moment by His gentle smile, which is full of passionate delight and which has stolen the splendor of the moon.

ānamrām—curved; asita—dark; bhruvoḥ—eyebrows; upacitām—furnished abundantly with; akṣīna—thick; pakṣmā—eyelashes; aṅkureṣu—like sprouts; ālolām—rolling; anurāginoh—passionate; nayanayoḥ—eyes; ārdṛām—full of feeling; mṛdau—gentle; jalpīte—speech; ātāmrām—very red; adhara—of the lips; amṛte—nectar; madakalām—soft, slurred; amlāna—clear; vaṁśī—of the flute; svaneṣu—deep notes; āśāste—desires; mama—my; locanam—eye; vraja-śiśoḥ—Vraja's child (Kṛṣṇa); mūrtim—the form; jagat—the universe; mohinīm—enchanter.

My eye desires to see the form of the young child of Vraja, who enchants the whole universe. His dark eyebrows are curved, His blossoming eyelashes quite thick, His rolling eyes full of passion, and His gentle speech saturated with feeling. His nectarous lips are very red, and He sounds low, clear, soft notes on His flute.

O girlfriend, who is this slowly coming along the path to Mathurā? His head is adorned with a peacock feather, and His body is more captivating than an emerald column. His eyes are rolling, and His face is beautified by the sweetness of His wonderfully fascinating smiles. His words, with their natural boyishness, are very soothing, and His natural grace would win praise from an elephant in rut.

bāhū daurhṛda-bhājanam mṛga-drśam mādhyura-dhārā-kirau vaktram vāg-viṣayātilaṅghitam aho bālam kim etan mahah*

pāḍau—feet; vāda—in a contest; vinirjita—completely defeated; ambuja—vanau—a cluster of lotuses (on a pond); padmālaya—Lakṣmī, who rests on a lotus; ālabitau—taken shelter; pāṇī—hands; veṇu—flute; vinodana—playing; praṇayīṇau—expressing love; paryāpta—seats; śilpa—artistic; śriyau—beauty; bāhū—arms; daurhṛda—of the object of desire; bhājanam—vessel; mṛga-drśam—the doe-eyed (milkmaids); mādhyura—sweetness; dhārā—flood; kirau—diffusing; vakram—face; vāg—viṣayā—words' scope (ability to describe); atilaṅghitam—beyond; aho—oh; bālam—in the form of an adolescent youth; kim—what; etat—this; mahah—luster.

Oh, what is this luster in the form of a young boy! His feet, having in a contest totally conquered clusters of lotuses, are the shelter for Lakṣmī-devī. His hands, which express His love while playing the flute, are seats of artistic beauty. His arms, diffusing a flood of sweetness, are the vessel of desire's fulfillment for the doe-eyed milkmaids. And His face-ah, His face is beyond words.

etat—this (face of Kṛṣṇa's); nāma—indeed; vibhūṣaṇam—adorned; bahumatam—sufficiently, abundantly; veśāya—ornamentation; śeṣaiḥ—further (ornamentation); alam—no need; vaktram—face; dvi—tri—two or three; viṣeṣa—special; kānti—glow; laharī—waves; vinyāsa—arrangement; dhanya—making lovely; adharam—lips; śilpaiḥ—wealth of artistic attributes; alpa-dhiyām—(those of) little understanding; agamyā—not comprehended; vibhavaiḥ—manifestations; śṛṅgāra—amorous; bhaṅgī—gestures; mayam—full of; citram—wonderful; citram—amazing; aho—oh; vicitram—so amazing; aha ho—oh, oh; citram—very wonderful; vicitram—very amazing; maha—luster.

Indeed, His face, abundantly adorned with lovely lips that possesses two or three specially arranged waves of luster, needs no other ornament. The wealth of His artistic attributes and amorous gestures are beyond the understanding of fools. Oh, oh, oh, how wonderful, how amazing, how every, very wonderfully amazing is this splendor [in the form of the young boy Kṛṣṇa]!

mādhuryeṇa—with sweet tenderness; dviguṇa—doubly; sīśiram—refreshing; vaktra—face; candram—moon; vahnatī—bearing; vamśī—flute; vīthī—holes; vigalad—oozing; amṛta—nectar; srotasā—current; secayantī—sprinkling; mat—my; vāñinām—words; viharāṇa—scope; padam—ground; matta—mad; saubhāgya—luck; bhājām—possessing; mat—my; punyānām—virtuous merit; pariṇatīḥ—(reached a) culmination; aho—oh; netrayoḥ—eyes; sannidhatte—appears before.

Oh! My good deeds have reached their culmination: Kṛṣṇa has appeared before my eyes! The moon of His face is made doubly refreshing by its sweet tenderness, and He sprinkles me with the current of nectar dropping note by note from the holes of His flute. He is the object of my words, which, though mad, are fortunate [to be describing Him].

*śṛṅgāra-rasa-sarvasvam
śikhi-piccha-vibhūṣaṇam aṅgī-kṛta-narākāram
āśraye bhuvanāśrayam*

śṛṅgāra—conjugal; rasa—mellow; sarvasvam—the be—all and end—all; śikhi—piccha—peacock feather; vibhūṣaṇam—adorned; aṅgī—form; kṛta—accepted; nara-ākāram—a human being; āśraye—I take shelter; bhuvana—of everyone in the universe; āśrayam—the shelter.

I take shelter of [Kṛṣṇa], who is the shelter of everyone in the universe, who has the form of a human being, who is adorned with a peacock feather, and tho is the be-all and end-all of the conjugal mellow.

ke 'yam kāntiḥ keśava tvam mukendoḥ ko 'yam veśaḥ kāpi vācām abhūmiḥ se 'yam so 'yam svādatām aśjaliḥ te bhūyo bhūyo bhūyaśas tvām namāmi

ke—what?; ayam—this; kāntiḥ—bright glow; keśava—O Keśava; tvam—of Your; mukha—indoḥ—face like a moon; kaḥ—what?; ayam—this; veśaḥ—whose appearance; ka api—even; vācām—words; abhūmiḥ—beyond the scope; se ayam—that (glow); saḥ ayam—that (appearance); svādatām—let them be relished; aśjaliḥ—with folded hands; te—unto You; bhūyaḥ—again; bhūyaḥ—again; bhūyaśaḥ—again; tvām—unto You; namāmi—obeisances.

O Keśava, what is this bright glow of Your moon-face? What is this appearance of Yours, which is beyond description? Let that [glow] and that [appearance] be relished [by Yourself or by those souls competent to do so]. I simply bow down before You again and again, and yet again.

vadanendu-vinirjitaḥ śaśī daśadhā deva padam prapadya te adhikam śriyam aśnutetarām tava kārūṇya-vijṛmbhitam kiyat

vadana—indu—face like the moon; vinirjitaḥ—having been conquered; śaśī—the moon; daśadhā—dividing into ten parts (the toenails of Kṛṣṇa); deva—O Lord; padam—Your feet; prapadya—taken shelter; te—Your; adhikam—greater; śriyam—beauty, brightness; aśnutā—gaining, enjoying; itarām—than before; tava—Your; kārūṇya—of mercy; vijṛmbhitam—slight spreading; kiyat—how great!

O Lord, the moon, having been conquered by Your moonlike face, has taken shelter at Your feet and split into ten parts—that is, Your toenails—thereby gaining much greater brilliance and beauty than before. O Lord, how great is even a slight manifestation of Your mercy!

vācām avāci nanu parvaṛi parvaṛīndoḥ tat kim bruve kim aparaṁ bhuvanaika-kāntam kṛṣṇa tvad ānanam anena samam nu yat syāt*

tat—that; tvat—Your; mukham—face; katham—how; iva—like; ambuja—lotus; tulya—equal; kakṣyam—similarity; vācām—by words; avāci—unspeakable; nanu—certainly; parvaṛi—on the new—moon day; parvaṛi—īndoḥ—the new moon; tat—that; kim—what; bruve—I say; kim—what; aparam—else; bhuvana—in the universe; eka—only; kāntam—loveliness; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; tvat—Your; ānanam—face; anena—other; samam—equal; nu—certainly; yat—to that; syāt—be.

O Kṛṣṇa, how can anyone compare Your face to the lotus? And as for the moon—it attains a simply unmentionable state on the new-moon day. So what else can I say? What other thing in the universe could possibly equal the loveliness of Your face?

īśāna—deva—the Lord; carakṇā—the feet; bharaṇena—with adornments; nīvī—wealth, capital; dāmodara—of Dāmodara; sthira—lasting; yaśaḥ—fame; stabhaka— bouquet; udgamena—with the production; lilāśukena—by Līlāśuka (Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura); racitam—composed; tava—for Your; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; deva—O Lord; karṇa—amṛtam—the ear's nectar (nectar for the ears of Kṛṣṇa); vahatu—may it flow, may it continue to exist; kalpa—a day of Brahmā; śata—antare—for one hundred; api—indeed.

With the production of this bouquet of verses, which has the lasting fame of Dāmodara as its capital and which adorns īśānadeva's lotus feet, Līlāśuka has written about You, O Lord Kṛṣṇa, this nectar for Your ears. May it continue to flow (to be heard, chanted, and sung) for one hundred days of Brahmā.

anugraha-dviguṇa-viśāla-locanair anusmaran mṛdu-muralī-ravāmṛtaiḥ yato yataḥ prasarati me vilocanam tatas tataḥ sphurau tavaiva vaibhavam anugraha—with mercy; dviguṇa—doubly; viśāla—expanded; locanair—eyes; anusmaran—constant remembrance; mṛdu—gentle, soft; muralī—flute; rava—low sounds; amṛtaiḥ—nectar; yataḥ—wherever; yataḥ—wherever; prasarati—wanders; me—my; vilocanam—vision; tataḥ tataḥ—there; sphuratu—You may manifest; tava—Your; eva—certainly; vaibhavam—beauty, sweetness, wealth.

O Kṛṣṇa, always remembering the nectarous, low, soft sounds of Your flute, as well as Your eyes, doubly expanded with mercy, I pray that wherever my sight shall wander, You will always manifest Your beauty, sweetness, and opulence before me.

śrī-kṛṣṇa-karṇāmṛtam samāptaḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-karṇāmṛtam-the nectar for Kṛṣṇa's ears (the literary work by that name); samāptaḥ-ends.

Śrī-Kṛṣṇa-karṇāmṛta ends here.
