Sri Brhad-Bhagavatamṛta

Part One:

Sri Bhagavata-krpa-nirdhara (The Search For the Lord's Mercy)

Chapter One: Bhauma (The Earth)

jayati nija-padābja-prema-dānāvātīrṇo vividha-madhurimābdhiḥ ko 'pi kaiśora-gandhiḥ gata-parama-daśāntam yasya caitanya-rūpād anubhava-padam āptam prema gopīṣu nityam

jayati-all glories; nija-own; pada-feet; ābja-lotus; prema-pure love; dana-gift; avātīrṇaḥ-descended; vividha-various; madhiurima-sweetnesses; abdhiḥ-ocean; kah api-someone; kaisora-of youth; gandhiḥ-with the fragrance; gata-attained; parama-the supreme; dasa-state; antam-final; yasya-of whom; caitanya-of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu; rūpat-from the form; anubhava-of direct perception; padam-the state; āptam-attained; prema-pure love; gopīsu-among the gopīs; nityam-eternal.

Glory to He who is a great ocean of many sweetnesses, who is scented with the fragrance of youth, and who, in the form of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, descended (to this world) to give pure love for His own lotus feet and to personally taste the perfect eternal love felt by the gopīs.

Text 2

śrī-rādhikā-prabhṛtayo nitarām jayanti gopyo nitanta-bhagavat-priyatā-prasiddhaḥ yāsām harau parama-sauhṛda-mādhurīṇām nirvaktum iṣad api jātu na ko 'pi śaktaḥ

śrī-radhika-Śrīmatī Radharāni; prabhṛtayaḥ-beginning with; nitaram-completely; jayanti-glories; gopyaḥ-to the gopīs; nitanta-great; bhagavat-to the Supreme Personality of Godhead; priyataḥ-deariness; prasiddhaḥ-celebrated;

yasam-of whom; harau-for Lord Hari; parama-transcendental; sauhṛda-of friendship; madhurīnām-of the sweetness; nirvaktum-to describe; isat-a little; api-even; jātu-at any time; na-not; kaḥ api-anyone; śaktaḥ-is able.

Glory to the gopīs headed by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, who are famous as the beloveds of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and the sweetness of whose intimate friendship with Lord Hari no one will ever have the slightest power to describe.

Text 3

sva-dayita-nija-bhāvaṁ yo vibhavya sva-bhāvāt su-madhuram avatīrṇo bhakta-rūpeṇa lobhāt jayati kanaka-dhāmā kṛṣṇa-caitanya-nāmā harir iha yati-veśaḥ śrī-śacī-sūnur eśaḥ

sva-own; dayita-of His beloved devotees; nija-for Himself; bhavam-ecstatic love; yaḥ-who; vibhavya-perceiving; sva-own; bhavat-from love; su-great; madhuram-sweetness; avatīrṇaḥ-descended; bhakta-of a devotee; rūpeṇa-in the form; lobhat-out of eager desire; jayati-all glories; kanaka-of gold; dhama-with a great splendor; kṛṣṇa-caitanya-Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya; nama-bearing the name; hariḥ-Lord Hari; iha-here; yati-of a sannyasi; veśaḥ-in the garb; śrī-saci-of Śrīmatī Sacī; devi sunuḥ-the son; eśaḥ-He.

Glory to Lord Hari who, seeing the very sweet love His dear devotees bear for Him, eagerly descended (to this world) in the form of a devotee, who is now splendid as gold, who is dressed as a sannyāsī, who is the son of Śrīmatī Sacī-devī, and who bears the name Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya.

Text 4

jayati mathurā-devī śreṣṭhā purīṣu manoramā parama-dayitā kaṁsārāter jani-sthiti-rañjitā durita-haraṇān mukter bhakter api pratipādanāj jagati mahitā tat-tat-kṛīḍā-kathās tu vidūrataḥ

jayati-all glories; mathura-devi-to Mathura-devi; śreṣṭha-the best; purīṣu-among cities; manorama-beautiful and delightful; parama-most; dayita-dear; kaṁsa-arateḥ-of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the enemy of Kāṁsa; jāni-of the birth; sthita-with the place; rañjita-beautified; durita-sins; haraṇat-removing; mukte-of liberation; bhakteḥ-of devotional service; api-also; pratipadanat-because of the establishment; jagati-in the world; mahita-glorified; tat-tat-various; kṛīḍa-of transcendental pastimes; kathaḥ-the narrations; tu-indeed; vidūrataḥ-a little distant.

Glory to Goddess Mathurā, the best and most beautiful of cities, most dear to Lord Kṛṣṇa, beautified with His birth-pastime, the place where His pastimes are narrated eternally, the place that, because it removes all sins and grants liberation and devotional service, is eternally glorified in this world.

Text 5

jayati jayati vṛndāraṇyam etan murāreḥ priyatamam ati-sādhu-svānta-vaikuṅṭha-vāsāt ramayati sa sadā gāḥ pālayan yatra gopīḥ svarita-madhura-veṇur vardhayan prema rāse

jayati-all glories; jayati-all glories; vṛndaraṇyam-to Vṛndavana; etat-this; mura-areḥ-of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the enemy of the Mura demon; priyatamam-the most dear; ati-very; sādhu-pure; sva-anta-within; vaikuṅṭha-in Vaikuṅṭhaloka; vasat-than the residence; ramayati-delights; saḥ-He; sadā-eternally; gāḥ-the surabhi cows; palayan-protecting; yatra-where; gopīḥ-the gopīs; svarita-sounded; madhura-the sweet; veṇuḥ-flute; vardhayan-increasing; prema-the pure love; rase-during the rasa dance.

Glory, glory to Vṛndāvana forest, the place dearer to Lord Kṛṣṇa than the transcendental realm of Vaikuṅṭha, the place where Lord Kṛṣṇa eternally protects the surabhi cows, and where, sweetly playing the flute, He arouses the pure love of the gopīs in the arena of the rāsa dance.

jayati taraṇi-putrī dharma-rāja-svasā yā kalayati mathurāyāḥ sākhyam atyeti gaṅgām murahara-dayitā tat-pāda-padma-prasūtām vahati ca makarandam nīra-pūra-cchalena

jayati-all glories; taraṇi-of the sun-god; putri-to the daughter; dharma-rāja-of Yamarāja; svasa-the sister who; kalayati-sees; mathuraya-of Mathura; sakhyam-friendship; atyeti-attains; gaṅgam-the Ganges; murahara-to Lord Kṛṣṇa, the killer of Mura; dayita-very dear; tat-of Him; pada-feet; padma-from the lotus; prasutam-born; vahati-carries; ca-also; makarandam-nectar; nira-of water; pura-of a stream; chalena-on the pretext.

Glory to the Yamunā River, which is the daughter of the sun-god, the sister of Yamarāja, the friend of Mathurā, superior to the Ganges, and very dear to Lord

Kṛṣṇa, and which flows with what seems to be water but is actually the nectar of the lotus flower of Lord Kṛṣṇa's feet.

Text 7

govardhano jayati śaila-kulādhirājo yo gopikābhirudito hari-dāsa-vāryaḥ kṛṣṇena śakra-makha-bhaṅga-kṛtārcito yaḥ saptāham asya kara-padma-tale 'py avatsīt govardhanaḥ-to Govardhana Hill; jayati-all glories; saila-of mountains; kula-of the community; adhirājaḥ-the king; yaḥ-which; gopīka-by the gopīs; abhiruditaḥ-proclaimed; hari-of Lord Hari; dasa-of all the servants; varyaḥ-the best; kṛṣṇena-by Lord Kṛṣṇa; sakra-of Indra; makha-the sacrifice; bhaṅga-breaking; kṛta-done; arcitaḥ-worshipped; yaḥ-which; sāpta-seven; aham-for days; asya-of Him; kara-hand; padma-lotus; tale-on the surface; api-also; avatsit-rested.

Glory to Govardhana Hill, the king of mountains, the hill the gopīs declared was the best servant of Lord Hari, the hill personally worshiped by Lord Kṛṣṇa when He stopped the indra-yajña, the hill that for seven days rested on Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus hand.

Text 8

jayati jayati kṛṣṇa-prema-bhaktir yad-aṅghrim nikhila-nigama-tattvaṁ gūḍham ajñāya muktiḥ bhajati śaraṇa-kamkā vaiṣṇavais tyajyamānā japa-yajana-tapasya-nyāsa-niṣṭhām vihāya

jayati-all glories; jayati-all glories; kṛṣṇa-for Lord Kṛṣṇa; prema-pure love; bhaktiḥ-devotional service; yat-of which; aṅghrim-the feet; nikhila-all; nigama-of Vedic literatures; tattva-the truth; gūḍham-hidden; ajñāya-understanding; muktiḥ-liberation; bhajati-worships; saraṇa-to take shelter; kama-desiring; vaiṣṇavaiḥ-by the devotees; tyajyamāna-rejected; japa-mantra-chanting; yajana-Vedic sacrifices; tapasya-austerity; nyasa-niṣṭham-faith; vihaya-abandoning.

Glory, glory to devotional service in pure love for Kṛṣṇa. Rejected by the devotees, finally understanding the confidential secret of all Vedic knowledge, and abandoning all trust in mantra-chanting, Vedic sacrifices, and severe austerity, liberation now worships the feet of devotional service. Liberation now yearns to take shelter of the feet of devotion.

Text 9

jayati jayati nāmānanda-rūpaṁ murārer viramita-nija-dharma-dhyāna-pūjādi-yatnam katham api sakṛd āttam muktidaṁ prāṇinām yat paramam amṛtam ekaṁ jīvanam bhūṣaṇam me

jayati-all glories; jayati-all glories; nāma-holy name; ānanda-bliss; rūpaṁ-form; murārer-of Lord Kṛṣṇa; viramita-stopped; nija-own; dharma-conventional religious duties; dhyāna-meditation; pūjā-worship; ādi-beginning with; yatnam-endeavor; katham api-somehow; sakṛd-once; āttam-spoken; mukti-liberation; dam-giving; prāṇinām-to the living entities; yat-which; paramam-supreme; amṛtam-nectar; ekaṁ-only; jīvanam-life; bhūṣaṇam-treasure; me-my.

All glories, all glories, to the all-blissful holy name of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, which causes the devotee to give up all conventional religious duties, meditation, and worship. When somehow or other uttered even once by a living entity, the holy name awards him liberation. The holy name of Kṛṣṇa is the highest nectar. It is my very life and my only treasure.*

Text 10

namaḥ śrī-kṛṣṇacandrāya
nirupādhi-kṛpā kṛte yaḥ śrī-caitanya-rūpo 'bhūt tanvan prema-rasaṁ kalau

namaḥ-I offer my respectful obeisances; śrī-kṛṣṇacandrāya-to Śrī Kṛṣṇacandra; nirupādhi-without limit; kṛpā-mercy; kṛte-granting; gaḥ-who; śrī-caitanya-of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu; rūpaḥ-in the form; abhūt-became; tanvan-spreading; prema-of pure love for Lord Kṛṣṇa; rasaṁ-the nectar; kalau-in the age of Kali.

Obeisances to boundlessly merciful Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇacandra who, appearing as Śrī Caitanya, distributed the nectar of pure love of God in the age of Kali.

Text 11

bhagavad-bhakti-sāstrāṇām
ayaṁ sārasya saṅgrahaḥ anubhūtasya caitanyadeve tat-priya-rūpataḥ

bhagavat-to the Supreme Personality of Godhead; bhakti-describing devotional service; sastrānām-of the scriptures; ayam-this; sarasya-of the nectar; sangrahaḥ-collection; anubhūtasya-directly perceived; caitanyadeve-in Lord Caitanyadeva; tat-of Him; priya-dear; rūpataḥ-from the form.

This book is bhakti literatures' essence, which was revealed by the Lord who is dear to the heart.

Note: The Lord who is dear to the heart is Nanda's son, who plays the flute and whose handsome form gracefully bends in three places. By His mercy He appeared in the heart and revealed the truth of devotional service.

Another interpretation is "Caitanyadeve" is "Lord Caitanya Mahāprabhu" and "rūpa" is Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī". Then the phrase becomes "which was revealed by Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī, who is dear to Lord Caitanyadeva".

gopālaiḥ-by the cowherds; kriyamānam-performed; me-for me; nyahan-stopping; pujaṁ-the worship; cirantanīm-long-eṣtablished; akhandam-the entire; khandava-Khandava; akhyam-named; me-to me; priyam-dear; dahitavan-burned; vanam-the forest.

He stopped the cowherds' traditional worship of me, and He burned to the ground the Khaṇḍava forest, which is so dear to me.

Text 21

trailokya-trāsa-kṛd-vṛtravadhārtham prārthitaḥ purā audasinyam bhajams tatra prerayām āsa mām param

trailokya-the three planetary systems; trasa-fear; kṛt-creating; vṛtra-of Vrtrasura; vadhā-the killing; ārtham-for the purpose; prārthitaḥ-prayed; pura-formerly;

audasinyam-indifference; bhajan-manifesting; tatra-in that matter; prerayām āsa-sent; mām-me; param-then.

When I begged Him to kill the demon Vṛtra, who had terrified the three worlds, the Lord was not willing to do anything. He told me to kill the demon myself.

utsadya mām avajñāya

I continually think: "I am the great spiritual leader, the supreme controller, and the grandfather of this universe. I was personally born from the lotus flower sprouted from the navel of Lord Kṛṣṇa. I am a performer of great austerities. I am a great devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa." In this way Lord Kṛṣṇa's illusory potency Māyā destroys me with intense pride. In addition to that I am always angry, overwhelmed by the endless duties I must perform to maintain the universe.

When the Lord, in His form of Śrī Nṛsimha, killed that demon, I and my companions, staying far away out of fear, spoke many eloquent prayers to the Lord, but He refused to recognize us even with a momentary sidelong glance. Later, during the coronation ceremony of Mahārāja Prahlada, He kindly approached me and angrily ordered: "Do not give any more benedictions like this to the demons!" In spite of this order I have since given many benedictions to Rāvaṇa and many other demons. Whose tongue has the power to describe the sins of Rāvaṇa?

śrī-parīkṣit-Śrī Parīkṣit; uvāca-said; bhagavantam-Lord; haram-Śiva; tatra-there; bhava-with ecstatic love; aviṣṭataya-with the condition of being filled; hareḥ-for Lord Kṛṣṇa; nṛtyantam-dancing; kīrtayantam-glorifying; ca-also; kṛta-performed; saṅkarṣaṇa-of Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa; arcanam-worship; bhṛsam-greatly; nandīśvara-with Nandīśvara; ādin-beginning; ca-and; ślāghamānam-praising; nija-his own; anugan-followers; prītya-with love; sa-with; jaya-of "victory!"; savdāni-sounds; gītā-singing; vadyāni-and instrumental music; tanvataḥ-manifesting; devīm-the goddess; ca-also; umam-Uma; praśamsantam-praising; karataliṣu-at playing the karatalas; kovindam-expert; dūrāt-from far away; dṛṣṭva-seeing; munih-the sage; hr̥ṣṭaḥ-jubilant; anamat-bowed down; vīnām-the vina; ninadayan-playing.

Seeing Lord Śiva who, rapt in love for Kṛṣṇa, was singing and dancing as He worshiped Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa, and who was also praising his followers, headed by Nandīśvara, as they were singing, playing musical instruments, and joyfully calling out, "Jaya! Jaya!", and who was also praising Goddess Umā as she was expertly playing the karatālas, the sage Nārada became happy, sounded his vīnā and bowed down to offer respect.

Text 4

bhavan-your lordship; ca-also; vaiṣṇava-of the Vaiṣṇavas; drohi-enemies; gargya-Gargya; ādibhyaḥ-beginning with; su-very; duscaraiḥ-with difficult to perform; tapobhiḥ-penances; bhajamanebhyaḥ-worshiping; na-not; avyalikamhonest; varam-benediction; dade-gave.

When Gārgya and other enemies of the Vaiṣṇavas worshiped you with severe austerities, you granted them a clever benediction that proved to be no benediction at all.

kṛṣṇasya-of Lord Kṛṣṇa; prītaye-for the pleasure; tasmāt-therefore; sraiṣṭhyamthe best; api-also; abhivañchata-desire; tat-of Him; bhaktata-the state of being a devotee; eva-certainly; caturya-viśeṣena-with great expertise; ārthita-begged; tvaya-by you.

You desire only the satisfaction of Lord Kṛṣṇa. You eloquently pray only to remain a pure devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa.

Text 27

ato brahmādi-samprārthya-mukti-dānādhikāritām bhavate bhagavatyai ca
durgāyai bhagavān adāt

ataḥ-therefore; brahma-ādi-by the demigods headed by Brahmā; samprārthya-prayed for; mukti-of liberation; dana-the gift; adhikāritam-the proprietor; bhavate-to you; bhagavatyai-to the goddess; ca-and durgayai-Durga; bhagavan-the Supreme Personality of Godhead; adāt-gave.

For this reason the Supreme Personality of Godhead gave to you and goddess Durgā the power to grant the liberation prayed for by Brahmā and the demigods.

Text 28

aho brahmādi-dusprāpe
aiśvārye saty apīdṛṣe
tat sarvaṁ sukham apy ātmyam anādr̥tyāvadhūtavat

aho-ah! brahma-for Brahmā; ādi-and the other demigods; dusprāpe-difficult to attain; aiśvārye-power and opulence; sati-being so; api-even; īdṛṣe-like this; tat-that; sarvaṁ-all; sukham-happiness; api-even; ātmyam-of the self; anadr̥tya-neglecting; avadhuta-a great saint who does not care for things of this world; vat-like.

Living as an ascetic, you have a low opinion of all the happiness found in your power and opulence, which is greater than that of Brahmā and all the demigods.

Text 29

bhāvaviṣṭaḥ sadā viṣṇor
mahonmāda-grhītavat

loka-of the world; isaḥ-the master; jñāna-of knowledge; daḥ-the giver; jñāni-filled with knowledge; muktaḥ-liberated; mukti-of liberation; pradaḥ-the giver; api-also; aham-I; bhaktaḥ-a pure devotee; bhakti-of pure devotional service; pradaḥ-the giver; viṣṇoḥ-of Lord Viṣṇu; iti-thus; ādi-beginning with; ahankriya-with false-ego; avṛtaḥ-filled.

I think that I am the master of the world, the supreme teacher, the omniscient philosopher, liberated, the giver of liberation, a pure devotee of Lord Viṣṇu, and the giver of pure devotion to others. In this way I am filled with pride.

Text 38

sarva-grāsa-kare ghore
mahā-kāle samāgate vilajje 'śeṣa-saṁhāratamasam sva-prayojanāt

sarva-everything; grāsa-devouring; ghore-terrible; mahā-great; kale-when the time; samāgate-has arrived; vilajje-I become embarrassed; śeṣa-of everything; saṁhāra-annihilation; tamasam-darkness of ignorance; sva-prayojanat-out of necessity.

When the terrible time for devouring the entire world comes, I am ashamed of my duty to destroy everything in the darkness of ignorance.

Text 39

mayi nārada varteta
kṛpā-leśo 'pi ced dhareḥ

tat-therefore; kṛṣṇa-of Lord Kṛṣṇa; pārṣada-of the associates; śreṣṭha-O best; ma-do not; mām-to me; tasya-of Him; daya-of the mercy; aspadam-the object;

viddhi-please know; kintu-however; kṛpā-of mercy; sara-of the best; bhajaḥ-the possessors; vaikuṅṭha-of Vaikuṅṭha; vasiṅṭha-the residents.

O best of Lord Kṛṣṇa's associates, don't think I am the object of His mercy. Know that the residents of Vaikuṅṭha are the actual objects of His very great mercy.

Text 43

yaiḥ sarvaṁ tṛṇavat tyaktvā bhaktyārādhyā priyaṁ harim sarvārtha-siddhaya labdhvāpaṅga-dṛṣṭyāpi nādrtaḥ

yaiḥ-by whom; sarvaṁ-everything; tṛṇa-a blade of grass; vat-like; tyaktva-renouncing; bhaktyā-with devotion; arādhyā-worshiping; priyaṁ-their beloved; harim-Lord Kṛṣṇa; sarva-all; ārtha-material benefits; siddhayaḥ-and mystic perfections; labdhva-attaining; apaṅga-sidelong; dṛṣṭya-with a glance; api-even; na-not; adṛtaḥ-respected.

Renouncing everything material as if it were only a clump of grass, with great devotion they worship their beloved Lord Kṛṣṇa. If all material benefits and yogic perfections come before them, they will not look at them, even from the corner of their eye.

Text 44

tyakta-sarvābhimānā ye samasta-bhaya-varjitam vaikuṅṭham sac-cid-ānandaṁ guṇātitaṁ padaṁ gataḥ

tyakta-abandoned; sarva-all; abhimaṅṭha-pride; ye-those who; samasta-all; bhaya-of fear; varjitam-free; vaikuṅṭham-Vaikuṅṭha; sat-eternal; cit-full of knowledge; ānandaṁ-and full of bliss; guṇa-the three modes of material nature; atitaṁ-beyond; padaṁ-the abode; gataḥ-attained.

They who are free of all pride may go to that realm of Vaikuṅṭha, which is beyond the three modes of material nature, free of all fear, eternal, and full of transcendental knowledge and bliss.

Text 45

tatra ye sad-cid-ānandadehāḥ parama-vaibhavam samprāptum sac-cid-ānandaṁ hari-sārṣṭim ca nābhajan

tatra-there; ye-those who; sat-eternal; cit-full of knowledge; ānanda-and full of bliss; dehāḥ-whose bodies; parama-transcendental; vaibhavam-opulence; samprāptum-to attain; sat-eternal; cit-full of knowledge; ānanda-and full of bliss; hari-with Lord Hari; sarstim-equal opulence; ca-and; na-not; abhajan-they have worshiped.

Their forms already eternal and full of knowledge and bliss, the devotees there do not worship Lord Kṛṣṇa to attain eternity, knowledge, bliss, or opulence equal to His.

Text 46

harer bhaktyā paramṁ prītā bhaktān bhaktim ca sarvataḥ

hareḥ-to Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhaktyā-by devotional service; param-greatly; prītā-pleased; bhaktān-the devotees; bhaktim-the devotional service; ca-also; sarvataḥ-in all circumstances; rakṣantaḥ-protecting; vardhayantaḥ-increasing; ca-also; sañcaranti-move about; yadr̥cchaya-at will.

Happy with devotional service to the Lord, protecting the devotees and preaching devotional service, they travel as they wish.

Text 47

muktān upahasantīva
vaikuṅṭhe satataṁ prabhum bhajantaḥ pakṣi-vṛkṣādi-rūpaiḥ vividha-sevayā

muktān-the souls who have attained impersonal liberation; upahasanti-mocking; iva-as if; vaikuṅṭhe-in Vaikuṅṭha; satataṁ-eternally; prabhum-the Lord; bhajantaḥ-worshiping; pakṣi-of birds; vṛkṣa-and trees; ādi- beginning with; rūpaiḥ-in different forms; vividha-various; sevaya-with services.

As, in the forms of birds, trees, and other creatures, They eternally serve the Supreme Lord in many ways in the realm of Vaikuṅṭha, they seem to mock the souls merged in impersonal liberation.

Text 48

kamalā-lālyamānānghri-

tadrk-like this; kārūṇya-of mercy; pātraṇam-of the objects; śrīmat-full of transcendental opulences; vaikuṅṭha-of Vaikuṅṭha; vasinam-of the residents; mattaḥ-than me; adhikatarah-much greater; tat-tat-various; mahima-glory; kim-what? nu-indeed; varnyatam-may be said to describe.

The glory of the opulent residents of Vaikuṅṭha, who are all the objects of Lord Kṛṣṇa's mercy, is much greater than any glory I may possess. How will it be possible for me to describe their glory?

Text 54

pañca-bhautika-dehā ye martyaloka-nivāsinah bhagavad-bhakti-rasikā
namasyā mādr̥śām sadā

pañca-of the five; bhautika-material elements; dehaḥ-who possess bodies; ye-those who; martyaloka-of the earthly planets; nivasinah-the residents; bhagavat-to the Supreme Personality of Godhead; bhakti-of pure devotional service; rasikaḥ-who are expert in relishing the nectar mellows; namasyaḥ-should be offered obeisances; mādr̥śam-by those like myself; sadā-always.

People like myself should also always bow down to offer respect to they who, although they live in the earthly planets, and although they possess material bodies made of the five elements, are expert at always tasting the nectar mellows of pure devotional service to the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

Text 55

śrī-kṛṣṇa-caraṇāmbhojār-pitātmāno hi ye kila

nārada-O Nārada; aham-I; idam-this; mānye-think; tādṛśānām-of devotees like this; yataḥ-because; sthitiḥ-the residence; bhavet-is; saḥ-that; eva-certainly; vaikuṅṭhalokaḥ-Vaikuṅṭhaloka; na-not; atra-here; vicāraṇa-doubt.

Nārada, I think that wherever devotees like this live is already Vaikuṅṭhaloka. Of this I have no doubt.

Text 61

kṛṣṇa-bhakti-sudhā-pānād
deha-daihika-vismṛteḥ teṣāṁ bhautika-dehe 'pi sac-cid-ānanda-rūpatā

kṛṣṇa-to Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhakti-of pure devotional service; sudha-of the nectar; panat-from drinking; deha-of the body; daihika-and things in relation to the body; vismṛteḥ-forgetfulness; tesam-of them; bhautika-material; dehe-in the body; api-even; sat-eternal; cit-full of knowledge; ānanda-and full of bliss; rūpata-the state of having a form.

Because they drink the nectar of pure devotional service to Lord Kṛṣṇa, and because they thus forget everything of the material body and the great host of things in relation to it, they have forms of eternity, knowledge, and bliss, even while they stay in bodies made of material elements.

maryādā-the rules of propriety; laṅghakasya-transgressing; api-even; guru-of his spiritual master; adeśa-the order; akṛtaḥ-not performing; mune-O sage; asampanna-not fulfilled; sva-own; cak-of words; jala-of the network; satya-truthfulness; tantasya-faded; yat-because; baleḥ-of Bali Mahārāja; dvare-at the door; tādr̥k-like this; avasthanam-the station; tuccha-insignificant; dana-of a gift; phalam-the result; kim-whether? u-indeed; rakṣaṇam-the protection; duṣṭa-of the demon; banasya-Bana; kim-whether? nu-indeed; mat-of me; stava-by the prayers; karitam-performed; kevalam-only; tat-to Him; mahā-very; preṣṭha-dear; prahlāda-of Prahlāda; prīti-pleasure; apekṣaya-in relation; kim-what? bruyam-shall I say; param-further; atra-here; aste-stays; gauri-Parvati; lakṣmyāḥ-of Lakṣmī; priya-the dear; sakhi-friend.

Bali Mahārāja jumped over the rules of propriety, disobeyed the order of his spiritual master, and was unable to keep his own promise. Did Lord Viṣṇu become his doorkeeper as a reward for Bali's very insignificant gift? Did the Lord protect the demon Bāṇa because of my prayers? The Lord became Bali's doorkeeper and protected Bāṇa only to please His dear devotee Prahlāda. Shall I say any more about this? After all, Lakṣmī's friend Pārvatī is here.

Note: Śiva hints that Pārvatī may become offended if Prahlāda is glorified at the expense of her friend Lakṣmī.

At that moment Prahlāda, the best of devotees, was sitting in a secluded place, his mind rapt in loving meditation on the lotus feet of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. When he saw Nārada in the distance, Prahlāda at once stood up, and when the brahmaṇa Nārada approached him, Prahlāda bowed down to offer his respects.

śrī-nāradaḥ-Śrī Nārada; uvāca-said; dr̥ṣṭaḥ-seen; cirat-from a very long time; kṛṣṇa-of Lord Kṛṣṇa; kṛpā-of mercy; bharasya-of the great; abundance; patram-the object; bhavan-your lordship; me-of me; sa-phalaḥ-fruitful; sramaḥ-the great effort; abhūt-has been; a-since; balyataḥ-childhood; yasya-of whom; hi-indeed; kṛṣṇa-for Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhaktiḥ-devotion; jāta-manifested; viśuddha-pure; na-not; kutah api-anywhere else; ya-which; asit-is.

Śrī Nārada said: Now, after a very long time, I am able to see your lordship. Now the great trouble I took to come here has borne its fruit. You are the object of the great mercy of Lord Kṛṣṇa. Since earliest childhood you have possessed a devotion for Lord Kṛṣṇa so pure it cannot be seen in any other person.

yaḥ-who; sva-own; prabhu-of the Lord; prītim-the satisfaction; apekṣya-in relation to; paitrkam-of your father; rājyam-the kingdom; svayam-own; śrī-narasimha-to Lord Nṛsimha; samstutau-in the prayers; samprārthita-prayed for; aśeṣa-of all; jana-living entities; uddhṛti-for the deliverance; icchaya-with the desire; svī-kṛtya-accepting; tat-on Him; dhyana-to meditation; paraḥ-devoted; atra-here; vartate-remain.

In order to please your Lord, and because in your prayers to Lord Nṛsimha you prayed for the deliverance of all living entities, you accepted from Him the kingdom of your father. That is why you remain here, rapt in meditation on your

yaḥ pīta-vaso-'ṅghri-saroja-dṛṣṭyai gacchan vanam naimiṣakam kadācit nārāyaṇenāhava-toṣitena proktas tvayā hanta sadā jito 'smi

yaḥ-who; pita-vasaḥ-of the Supreme Lord Narayana, who wears yellow garments; aṅghri-feet; saroja-lotus; dṛṣṭyai-to see; gacchan-going; vanam-to the forest; naimisakam-Naimisaranya; kadācit-one time; nārāyaṇena-by Lord Narayana; ahava-tositena-pleased; proktaḥ-said; tvaya-by you; hanta-indeed; sadā-always; jitaḥ-defeated; asmi-I am.

One time, as you were going to Naimiṣāranya forest to see the lotus feet of Lord Nārāyaṇa, who wears yellow garments, you accidentally met Him on the path. He challenged you to a fight, and when He was finally pleased by your strength in battle, He declared: "I am always defeated by you."

Note: This pastime is narrated in the Vāmana Purāṇa.

anaṅgī-karaṇādi ca

mahatām-of great souls; upadesasya-of the instruction; balat-by the strength; bodha-of knowledge; uttame-in the greatest; sati-when manifested; hareḥ-to Lord Hari; bhaktau-in devotional service; pravṛttānām-of those engaged; mahima-padakani-glories; ca-and; vighna-by troubles; anabhibhavaḥ-not being defeated; balesu-to children; upadesaḥ-instruction; sat-the truth; ihitam-spoken; arta-to the distressed; praṇi-living entities; daya-compassion; mokṣan-liberation; anaṅgi-karaṇa-non-acceptance; ādi-beginning with; ca-and.

When a person is instructed by great pure devotees of Lord Hari, he naturally becomes glorious. He is never defeated by any obstacles, he has the power to preach the truth of spiritual life even to children, he is compassionate to the suffering conditioned souls, and he easily rejects impersonal liberation and all other material benedictions.

kṛṣṇasyānugraho 'py ebhyo

paśya-look; me-of me; rājya-of the kingdom; sambandhat-because of the connection; bandhu-of friends and relatives; bhṛtya-of servants; ādi-beginning with; saṅgataḥ-because of contact; sarvaṁ-all; tat-of Him; bhajanam-devotional activities; linam-disappeared; dhik-fie! dhik-fie! mām-on me; yat-because; na-not; rodimi-I cry.

Look at me! I am so absorbed in ruling my kingdom and so much surrounded by friends, relatives, and servants, that I have now completely given up the worship of the Lord! Fie on me! Fie! I do not even lament for my own misfortune!

Text 29

ātma-of spiritual life; tattva-of the truth; upadeśeṣu-in the instructions; duṣpanditya-maya-miseducated; asuraiḥ-with the demons; saṅgat-because of the association; na-not; adya-today; āpi-even; me-of me; suska-dry; jñāna-of knowledge; aṁśaḥ-a fragment; apagataḥ-has left; adhamah-wretched.

When I preached the truth of spiritual life I mingled with many misled demons, and by their association I became infected with a host of dry, non-devotional theories. Even today not a single wretched fragment of those false theories has left me.

Text 31

kuto ataḥ śuddha-bhaktir me yayā syāt karuṇā prabhoḥ dhyāyan bāṇasya daurātmyam

bhavatat-there may be; bhavataḥ-of you; prasādataḥ-from the mercy; bhagavat- the Supreme Personality of Godhead; sneha-of love; vijṛmbhitaḥ-the awakening;

kila-indeed; mama-of me; tat-of that; mahima-the glory; tathā api-nevertheless;
anuḥ-very small; nava-the newer; bhaktesu-among the devotees; kṛpā-of mercy;
bhara-of the abundance; īkṣaya-by the sight.

By your lordship's mercy the Supreme Personality of Godhead may have some affection for me. Still, the glory of that affection is very insignificant in comparison to the great mercy received by even the newest devotees.

Text 37

When Nārada Muni arrived at the door, Mahārāja Yudhiṣṭhira was saying to his relatives: "Let us arrange for either a grand Vedic sacrifice, or else a terrible calamity. That will force Lord Kṛṣṇa to come here, and then we will be able to see Him." Seeing Nārada at the door, Mahārāja Yudhiṣṭhira, accompanied by his brothers, mother, and wives, at once stood up, hastily ran to him, greeted him, bowed down before him, brought him into the palace, carefully seated him on a grand throne, and brought various articles to worship him. O mother, Nārada then took the articles of worship and began himself to worship your fathers-in-law and their servants.

Even Brahmā, Śiva, and the other great demigods can only rarely see Him in a trance of meditation. The words of the Vedas describe Him. Lord Nṛsimha, Vāmana, and Rāmacandra are His plenary portions, and the other incarnations are portions of His plenary portions. Brahmā and the other demigods are considered His potencies. The illusory potency, Māyā, who creates, maintains, and destroys the material universes, is a maidservant on the pathway of His glance.

yasya-of whom; prasādam-the mercy; dharāṇi-of the earth; vilapataḥ-from the lament; kṣira-oda-of the ocean of milk; tire-on the shore; vrata-niṣṭhaya-with firm faith; sthitaḥ-standing; brahma-adaḥ-the demigods headed by Brahmā; kañcana-something; na-not; labhantaḥ-attaining; stutva-reciting prayers; api-also; upasthana-paraḥ-worshiping; samahitaḥ-assembled; brahmaṇa-by Brahmā; eva-certainly; samadhau-in meditation; khe-in the sky; jātam-produced; adhigatam-understood; hr̥di-in the heart; yasya-of whom; prakasyatam-will be manifest; ajñām-the order; sukhitāḥ-jubilant; nikhila-all; surāḥ-the demigods.

Inspired by the lament of Mother Earth, Brahmā and the demigods went to the shore of the milk ocean and, although they faithfully worshiped the Lord with prayers, they could not obtain the Lord's mercy. Then the order of the Lord was manifested in the sky, and when Brahmā understood it in his own heart, all the demigods became happy.

Text 12

kasminn api prājña-varair vivikte gargādibhir yo nibhṛtām prakāśyate

For this reason I prayed to the Lord: "O Lord, please use this Rājasūya-yajña as a trick to grant to both devotees and non-devotees faith in Your pure devotional service.

Note: The Rājasūya-yajña displayed the opulent position of the devotees. Mahārāja Yudhiṣṭhira considered that the sight of the devotees' opulence will encourage materialistic men to become devotees.

sole; saranam-shelter; hina-to the lowly; artha-the four goals of religiousity, economic development, sense-gratification and liberation; adhika-greater;
sādhakaḥ-causing to attain.

He is an ocean of great transcendental glory. Remembering Him grants all the goals of one's life. He is the only shelter of the poor and shelterless. To the humble and lowly He gives a benediction far more valuable than material piety, economic-development, sense-gratification, or liberation.

sevā-rasāviṣṭatayocyate 'jñaiḥ

kim-whether? tasya-of him; saubhagya-of good fortune; kulam-abundance; hi-indeed; vacyam-describable in words; vatulatam-madness; prāpa-attained; kila-indeed; ayam-he; evam-in this way; asaisava-since childhood; adyaḥ-beginning with; prabhu-of the Lord; pada-of the feet; padma-to the lotus flower; seva-of service; rasa-into the nectar; aviṣṭataya-by the state of having entered; ucyate-is said; ajñaiḥ-by the ignorant.

Is it possible to describe his great good fortune? Since childhood he has always been rapt in service to the Lord's lotus feet. For this reason a host of ignorant fools proclaims him a madman.

prapatti-lāmpatyā-mahattvam adbhutam ihaiva mānuṣya-vapuṣy avāpa sva-rūpam utsṛjya hareḥ sva-rūpatām

aho-ah! sadā-always; madhava-of Lord Kṛṣṇa; pada-of the feet; padmayoḥ-to the two lotus flowers; prāpatti-attainment; lampatyā-of intense, greedy desire; mahattvam-the glory; adbhutam-wonderful; iha-here; eva-certainly; manūṣya-human; vapusi-in a forms; avapa-attained; sva-own; rūpam-form; utsṛjya-abandoning; hareḥ-of Lord Kṛṣṇa; sva-rūpatām-own form.

Because he has attained the wonderful glory of always intensely desiring the Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, Uddhava has now abandoned his human material form and attained a transcendental form resembling that of Lord Kṛṣṇa.

pradyumnat-than Pradyumna; ramya-more handsome; rūpaḥ-whose form; prabhu-to the Lord; dayitataro-more dear; api-also; eṣa-he; kṛṣṇa-by Lord Kṛṣṇa; upabhuktaiḥ-enjoyed; vanya-of forest flowers; srak-with a garland; pita-yellow; patṭya-amsuka-with silken garments; maṇi-with jeweled; makara-shark-shaped; uttāmsa-earrings; hara-with necklaces; ādibhiḥ-beginning; taiḥ-with them; nepathye-in the dressing room; bhūṣitaḥ-decorated; asman-us; sukhayati-pleases; satatam-always; devai-nandanasya-of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devaki; bhrantya-by the illusion; sandarśanena-by seeing; priya-jana-of dear friends; hṛdaya-of the heart; akarṣaṇa-attracting; utkarṣa-excellence; bhaja-possessing.

Uddhava is more handsome than Pradyumna, and also more dear to Lord Kṛṣṇa. Always wearing yellow silk garments, jeweled shark-shaped earrings, garlands of forest flowers and necklaces of jewels that had all been worn at one time by Lord Kṛṣṇa, Uddhava delights us by bewildering us into thinking that instead of him we are actually seeing before us Lord Kṛṣṇa, whose handsome splendor attracts the hearts of His devotees.

Śrī Parīkṣit said: When he heard these words describing Uddhava's transcendental good fortune, Nārada Muni became very eager to go to Uddhava's home. Overwhelmed with wonderful ecstatic love for Lord Kṛṣṇa, and already knowing the way, Nārada began to walk on the path to Uddhava's place when Mahārāja Ugrasena, the king of the Yadus, said:

Sometimes he stumbled. Sometimes he fell to the ground. Sometimes he stood motionless. Sometimes he trembled. Sometimes he rolled about. Sometimes he cried out. Sometimes wept floods of tears. Sometimes he sang and danced. Sometimes in a single moment he manifested together all the symptoms of the treasure of ecstatic love.

His ancient and recent sons headed by Brahmā, His brothers headed by Balarāma, His friends headed by Śiva, His wives headed by the goddess of fortune, and even His own transcendental form are not as dear to the Lord as Uddhava is.
The Lord Himself has said this.

All of you please hear what I have heard. When He sleeps at night sometimes He sweetly and lovingly calls many cows by name and sometimes he calls His charming gopa friends. Sometimes His transcendental form bends in three places and He pretends to place the flute to His mouth. Sometimes He says, "Mother, give Me some fresh butter!" Sometimes He calls to me, "Śrī Rādhā! Lalitā!" Sometimes He says, "Candrāvalī, why?" and tugs at my garment. Sometimes, as He sleeps, He softens the pillow with many tears.

śrīmad-uttarovāca

kāminām puṇya-kartṛṇām trailokyam grhinām padam agrhaṇam ca tasyordhvam sthitam loka-catuṣṭayam

śrīmad-uttarā uvāca-Sri Uttara said; kāminām-desiring; puṇya-kartṛṇām-of they who perform pious deeds; trailokyam-the three worlds; grhinām-of householders;

padam-position; agrhanam-of they who are not householders; ca-also; tasya-of that; urdhvam-above; sthitam-situated; loka-catuṣṭayam-four worlds.

Śrī Uttarā said: Three worlds are abodes for materialistic householders who perform pious deeds. Above them are four worlds that are abodes for they who are not householders.

Note: Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the three worlds are the Bhūḥ, Bhuvaḥ, and Svaḥ planets. The householders here wish to enjoy the fruits of their work. Householders that have no material desires, by performing prescribed duties may go to Maharloka or the other higher planets, and, when their hearts are pure, may become liberated. This is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (4.24.29):

sva-dharma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān viriñcatām eti tataḥ param hi mām avyākṛtam bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavam padam yathāham vibudhāḥ kalātyaye

"A person who executes his occupational duty properly for one hundred births becomes qualified to occupy the post of Brahmā, and if he becomes more qualified, he can approach Lord Śiva. A person who is directly surrendered to Lord Kṛṣṇa, or Viṣṇu, in unalloyed devotional service is immediately promoted to the spiritual planets. Lord Śiva and other demigods attain these planets after the destruction of this material world."*

The persons who are not householders are the naiṣṭika-brahmacārīs, vānaprasthas, and sannyāsīs. The four realms they attain are Maharloka, Janaloka, Tapoloka, and Satyaloka. The ultimate fate of these renounced souls is described in śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (2.6.20):

pādas trayo bahiś cāsan aprajānām yā āśramāḥ antas tri-lokyās tv aparō
gṛha-medho 'bṛhad-vratāḥ

"The spiritual world, which consists of three-fourths of the Lord's energy, is situated beyond this material world, and it is especially meant for those who will never be reborn. Others, who are attached to family life and who do not strictly follow celibacy vows, must live within the three material worlds."*

kecit-some; kramaṇa-gradually; mucyante-become liberated; bhogān-enjoyments; bhuktvā-having enjoyed; arcir-ādiṣu-beginning with Arcirloka; labhante-attain; yatayaḥ-sannyasis; sadyo-at once; muktiṁ-liberation; jñāna-parās-devoted to knowledge; hi-indeed; ye-who.

Some, after enjoying on Arcirloka and other planets, attain liberation. The renounced souls devoted to transcendental knowledge attain liberation at once.

Note: Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Arciḥ is the demigod of fire and the other planets here are the planets in the Śisumara circle. This is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 2.2.24-31.

bhaktās-the devotees; bhagavato-of the Lord; ye-who; tu-indeed; sa-kāmāḥ-with desires; svecchayā-by their own wish; akhilān-all; bhuñjānāḥ-enjoying; sukha-bhogāḥ-happineses; te-they; viśuddhās-purified; yānti-attain; tat-padam-that abode.

The Lord's devotees that have material desires enjoy according to their own desires and when they become purified they also attain that abode.

vaikuṅṭham-Vaikuṅṭha; durlabham-difficult to attain; muktaiḥ-by the liberated souls; sāndrānanda-cid-ātmakam-filled with spiritual bliss; niśkāṁās-who have no material desires; ye-they who; tu-certainly; tad-bhaktās-devotees; labhante-attain; sadyas-at once; eva-indeed; tat-that.

The devotees that have no material desires at once attain the blissful spiritual realm of Vaikuṅṭha, which even the liberated souls cannot attain.

Note: Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī here quotes the description of Vaikuṅṭha in Śrīmad-Bhāgavam 2.2.17-18, 2.9.9-10, and 10.28.14-15.

jñāna-bhaktās tu teṣv eke śuddha-bhaktāḥ pare 'pare prema-bhaktāḥ pare premaparāḥ premāturāḥ pare

jñāna-in knowledge; bhaktās-devotees; tu-certainly; teṣu-among them; eke-some; śuddha-pure; bhaktāḥ-devotees; pare-others; apare-others; prema-in love; bhaktāḥ-devotees; pare-others; prema-parāḥ-in great love; prema-by love; aturāḥ-overwhelmed; pare-others.

Some are devotees situated in knowledge (jñāna-bhakta), some are pure devotees (śuddha-bhakta), some are devotees situated in love (prema-bhakta), some are devotees situated in great love (premapara-bhakta), and some are overwhelmed by love (premātura-bhakta).

Note: Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that here four and a half, with the jñāna-bhaktas the half, kinds of love are described. The devotion of the jñāna-bhaktas is mixed with the desire for knowledge. The knowledge here is not the pathetic liberation of the impersonalists, but rather the awareness of the glories of serving the Lord's lotus feet. Mahārāja Bharata is an example of the jñāna-bhaktas.

The śuddha-bhaktas are devoted to the nine processes of devotional service. Their devotion is not distracted by fruitive work, the desire for knowledge, or non-devotional renunciation. Mahārāja Ambarīṣa is an example of the śuddha-bhaktas.

The prema-bhaktas want only to serve the Lord's lotus feet with love. Hanumān is an example of the prema-bhaktas.

The premapara-bhaktas are the Lord's affectionate associates who by the Lord's boundless mercy are tied by the chains of affectionately gazing at the Lord, gazing at the Lord with the longings of love, friendship with the Lord, and close friendship where they joke with the Lord. The Pāṇḍavas are examples of the premapara-bhaktas.

The premātura-bhaktas are always overwhelmed by the treasure of wonderful love. Uddhava and the Yādavas are examples of the premātura-bhaktas.

Although Vaikuṅṭha cannot be attained without love for the Lord, there are varying degrees of that love. Thus the prema-bhaktas are better than the śuddha-bhaktas, the premapara-bhaktas better than the prema-bhaktas, and the premātura-bhaktas better than the premapara-bhaktas.

paryavasyati-concludes; sārūpya-sāmīpya-ādau-beginning with sarupya and samipya; ca-also; tulyatā-equality; na-not; śrūyate-is heard; param-better; prāpyam-to be attained; vaikuṅṭhād-than Vaikuṅṭha; adhikaṁ-better; kiyat-how much?

Sārūpya-mukti, Sāmīpya-mukti, and the other kinds of liberation are also all equal. What place is better than Vaikuṅṭha? The Vedas do not say.

Note: Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that sārūpya-mukti is the liberation where one attains a four-armed form like the Lord's, and sāmīpya-mukti is the liberation where one always stays near the Lord.

tat-pradeśa-viśeṣeṣu-in different places; sva-sva-bhāva-viśeṣataḥ-according to different kinds of love; sva-sva-priya-viśeṣa-āptyā-by attaining different objects of love; sarveṣām-of all; astu-may be; vā-or; sukham-happiness.

Each in his own part of Vaiṣṇava, each according to his own kind of love, and each attaining his own object of love, everyone is happy.

Note: Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Ayodhyā, Dvārakā, and the many other abodes of the Lord are situated in Vaiṣṇava. This is described in the Vedic literatures:

yā yathā bhuvī vartante puryo bhagavataḥ priyāḥ tās tathā santi vaiṣṇave
tat-tal-līlārtham ādritāḥ

The Lord's many favorite cities that rest on the earth also exist in Vaiṣṇava so the Lord may enjoy different pastimes in them.

My heart is not happy if others attain the same destination attained by the loving devotees who chant the holy names and who, indifferent to all material goals, yearn to become Śrī Rādhā's maidservants. I cannot tolerate that others attain the same destination as that attained by Nanda, Yaśodā, and their associates.

Note: Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the "others" here are the Pāṇḍavas and Yādavas.

tad-artham-for this reason; ucitam-proper; sthānam-place; ekam-one; vaikuṅṭhataḥ param-above Vaikuṅṭha; apekṣitam-in relation; avaśyaṁ-necessarily;
syāt-is; tat-that; prakāśya-showing; uddharasva-please lift; mām-me.

The must have their own place above Vaikuṅṭha. Please show it to me and rescue me.

Note: Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word "prakāśya" means "please show me by describing it" and "uddharasva" means "please rescue me from this ocean of unhappiness filled with waves of doubts and whirlpools of illusions".

The description of the glories of Goloka Vṛndāvana, which is above the material worlds, which is not destroyed at the time of cosmic devastation, and which is above even the realms of Vaikuṅṭha, is the answer to this question of Uttarā-devī.

Śrī Parīkṣit said: O mother for whom Lord Kṛṣṇa is your very life and who cannot bear separation from Him, you can ask such a question. Others cannot.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word "Kṛṣṇa-jivite" may also mean "you whom Kṛṣṇa rescued from Aśvatthāmā's brahmāstra-weapon".

That Uttarā could not bear separation from Lord Kṛṣṇa is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.10.9-10.

That Lord Kṛṣṇa is her very life and that she cannot bear separation from Him show that Uttarā is a very exalted devotee. For this reason it is proper for her, and not others, to ask this question.

Bowing down before Lord Kṛṣṇa who, holding a club and cakra, in your womb protected both you and me from the brahmāstra, who in my childhood made me search, as the great devotees do, again and again for His form in the world of men, who gave me the virtues of the great souls, who made me famous for subduing Kali, who gave me wonderful royal opulence, who filled me with despair by arranging a brāhmaṇa's curse, who in the form of His disciple told me of the curse, which I welcomed, who as Lord Vāsudeva dragged me from the blind well of my home and made me sit by the Ganges, fasting until death, who in the form of Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī taught me the truth in the assembly of sages, dispelled my fears, and delighted me, who by giving me the company of His dear devotee now makes me drink the nectar of words about Him, and who is kind without limit, I, nourished by the brāhmaṇa's words, with a single heart, at this, my last moment, will speak the answer to your question, an answer that contains the essence of all Vaiṣṇava scriptures.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these activities of King Parīkṣit are described in the following verses of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam: 1.12.9, 10.1.6, 1.12.8-9, 1.12.30, 1.12.19-25, 1.18.37, 1.19.14, and 1.19.2.

In ancient times a certain penniless brāhmaṇa who lived in Prāgjyotiṣa-pura, who had no knowledge of the scriptures, and who with the desire for great wealth daily worshiped goddess Kāmā-devī there with faith, in a dream received from the satisfied goddess a ten-syllable mantra for the worship of Lord Madana-Gopāla's lotus feet, a mantra that was spoken with instructions on its use in meditation and various kinds of worship and was like a great treasure.

with the desire; nivṛtto-renounced; abhūt-became; lebhe-attained; ca-also; hṛdi-in his heart; nirvṛtim-happiness.

By the goddess' instruction always chanting the mantra in a secluded place, he gave up all desire for wealth and became happy at heart.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that, thinking it only a dream, the brāhmaṇa did not at once chant the mantra. Only when she instructed him again, in a second dream, did he chant it.

At the Ganges' shore he saw many dutiful brāhmaṇas who were learned in all knowledge and were mostly householders.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the branches of knowledge these brāhmaṇas knew are described in the Viṣṇu Purāṇa:

aṅgāni vedāś catvāro mīmāṃsā nyāya-vistarāḥ dharma-śāstraṃ purāṇaṃ ca
vidyā hy etāś caturdaśa

The fourteen branches of knowledge are: the four Vedas, the Vedāṅgas, the Mīmāṃsā, the many nyāya-śāstras, the dharma-śāstras, and the Purāṇas.

pravṛttau-in other activities; hi-certainly; na-not; lebhe-obtained; saḥ-he; manaḥ-of the mind; balam-strength.

Attracted by the Deity's great handsomeness, he became filled with bliss. Now his heart had no power to do anything but chant.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that his heart was no longer attracted to sannyāsa, ritual bathing, or other activities.

the Yamunā; tīra-to the shore; mārgeṇa-by the path; tat-that; śrī-vṛndāvanam-to Śrī Vṛndāvana; vraja-go.

Remember, O brāhmaṇa, the words of Lord Śiva, the master of the kings of the universe and the husband of Umā. Go on the Yamunā's path to Śrī Vṛndāvana.

Not seeing anyone in that land decorated with cows, he wandered here and there. Then he heard crying east of Keśi-tīrtha.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that he did not see any people, only cows. Keśi-tīrtha is glorified in the Varāha Purāṇa, Mathurā-māhātmya:

gaṅgā-śata-guṇā proktā
yatra keśi nipātitaḥ keśyāḥ śata-guṇā proktā
yatra viśrāmito hariḥ

"Keśi-tīrtha, where Keśi died, is hundreds of times more sacred than the Ganges, and Viśrāma-tīrtha, where Lord Hari rested, is hundreds of times more sacred than Keśi-tīrtha."

Mistakenly thinking this was his worshipable Deity, in great happiness he called out, O Gopāla! and to offer respects fell as a stick to the ground.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the brāhmaṇa thought this person was Kṛṣṇa because of his dress and ornaments.

Returning to external vision, this person, who was the crest-jewel of they who know everything, could understand that this was a brāhmaṇa of Mathurā living in Kāma-deśa and engaged in the worship of Lord Madana-Gopāla. He came out from the forest grove, lifted his guest up, bowed before him, embraced him, and made him sit by his side.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this person could understand that his guest had been sent by Śrī Rādhā.

śrī-brāhmaṇa uvāca-the brahmana said; śrūtvā-hearing; bahu-vidham-many kinds; sādhyam-goals; sādhanam-methods; ca-also; tatas tataḥ-then; prāpyam-to be attained; kṛtyam-to be done; ca-also; nirṇetuṁ-to determine; na-not; kiñcit-anything; śakyate-is possible; mayā-for me.

The brāhmaṇa said: I have heard of many goals of life and many ways to attain them, but I do not have the power to determine what goal should be sought and how it is attained.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that some of the goals here are attainment of Svargaloka and attainment of impersonal liberation, and some of the methods to attain them are karma (pious fruitive work) and jñāna (philosophical speculation). The brāhmaṇa had heard of these at the Ganges' shore, at Vārāṇasī, and at other places.

evam-thus; viniścīya-thinking; mahānubhāvaḥ-very experienced; gopātmajaḥ-cowherd boy; asau-he; avadhāpya-giving attention; vipram-to the brahmana; ātma-own; anubhūtam-experience; gaditum-to relate; pravṛttaḥ-began; puraṇīkaḥ-the Puranic sages; yadvat-as; ṛṣi-to the sages; purāṇam-in the Puranas.

Thinking in this way, the very experienced cowherd boy turned to the brāhmaṇa and, as a sage speaking the Purāṇas to a company of sages, began to tell of his own experience.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes Devala Muni's definition of a sage:

ūrdhva-retās tapasy-ugro

śāpānugrahayoḥ śaktaḥ
satya-sandho bhaved ṛṣi

"A sage is one who is celibate, very austere, who eats little, controls his senses, speaks the truth, and has the power both to curse and to forgive."

The cowherd boy Gopa-kumāra said: For this there are many histories in the scriptures. Still, as I remember, I will tell the story of my own life and what I experienced in ecstatic trance.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word "moha" means "what I experienced in the trance of love for the Lord" and "ādi" means "and other very confidential topics".

tad-vākya-gauraveṇaiva mantram taṁ kevalam mukhe kenāpy alakṣito 'jasram japeyam kautukād iva

tad-vākya-gauraveṇa-out of respect for his words; eva-indeed; mantram-mantra; tam-the; kevalam-only; mukhe-on my mouth; kenāpi-by anyone; alakṣitaḥ-not seen; ajasram-always; japeyam-to be chanted; kautukāt-with eagerness or wonder;
iva-like.

Out of respect for his words this mantra alone was on my mouth. Unnoticed by anyone, I eagerly chanted it at every moment.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that he chanted the mantra silently. The word
"kautukāt" may also mean "filled with wonder".

the power; tadṛṣena-like that; ca-also; japena-by chanting; citta-of the heart;
śuddhiḥ-purification; me-of me; tatra-there; śraddhā-faith; api-also; ajāyata-was born.

By the power of that great person my heart became purified as I chanted. Then I developed faith.

O brāhmaṇa, I ate the prasādam of Lord Viṣṇu, saw the great festival of His worship, heard the glories of worshiping Him, and secretly chanted my mantra with great care. Still, from my heart the beauty of Vrajabhūmi and the happiness of playing as a cowherd boy never left my heart.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes the following verse glorifying the prasādam of Lord Viṣṇu:

ṣaḍbhir māsopavāsais tu
yat phalaṁ parikīrtitam viṣṇor naivedya-sikthānnaṁ bhuñjatām tat kalau yuge

"In Kali-yuga they who eat Lord Viṣṇu's prasādam attain the same result said to be gained by fasting for six months."

The word "kadācit" here means "awake or even asleep".

svayaṁ-personally; ca-and; kvacid-somewhere; āsaktim-attachment; akṛtvā-not doing; pūrvavat-as before; vasan-residing; japaṁ-chanting; nirvahayan-doing; bhuñje-I ate; prasādānnaṁ-prasādam food; prabhoḥ-of the Lord; param-then.

Not attached to any of this, I remained as before. I chanted my mantra and I ate the Lord's prasādam.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that by the mantra's power he remained unattached to the royal opulences there. He continued to live as an unattached, peniless person, as he had before he inherited the kingdom. He accepted only the Lord's prasādam, and that only to maintain his body.

jagad-īśvara-naivedyam sprṣtam anyena kenacit nītam bahir vā sandigdho
na bhunkte ko 'pi saj-janaḥ

jagad-īśvara-naivedyam-the prasādam of the Lord of the universes; sprṣtam-touched; anyena kenacit-by someone else; nītam-brought; bahiḥ-outside; vā-or; sandigdhaḥ-defiled; na-not; bhunkte-eats; ko 'pi-someone; saj-janaḥ-pious person.

Sometimes a pious person would not eat the prasādam of the Lord of the universes because it had been touched by someone else, or carried outside.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these bewildered brāhmaṇas were concerned that the prasādam may have been touched by a non-brāhmaṇa. The prasādam of the Lord never becomes contaminated. This is confirmed by the following words of the Viṣṇu Purāṇa:

naivedyam jagadīśasya
anna-pānādikaṁ ca yat bhakṣyābhakṣya-vicāras tu nāsti tad-bhakṣaṇe dvija

brahmavan nirvikāraṁ hi yathā viṣṇus tathaiva tat

bhakṣaṇe tad dvijātayaḥ

kuṣṭa-vyādhi-samāyuktāḥ putra-dara-vivarjitāḥ
nirayaṁ yānti te vipra
yasmān nāvartate punaḥ

"O brāhmaṇa, one should not consider whether it is proper to eat or not to eat the food, drink, or other things offered to the Lord of the universes. These offerings are spiritual as Lord Viṣṇu Himself is spiritual. Brāhmaṇas who make such distinctions in eating the Lord's prasādam become afflicted with disease and bereft of wife and children. They go to a hell from which they do not easily return."

dāru-wooden; brahma-Brahman; jagannāthaḥ-Jagannātha; bhagavān-Lord; puruṣottame kṣetre-at Puruṣottama-kṣetra; nīlācale-in Nīlācala; kṣararṇava-tīre-on the shore of the salt-water ocean; virājate-is splendidly manifest.

In Puruṣottama-kṣetra Nīlācala, by the shore of the salt-water ocean, the Lord of the universes (Jagannātha) is splendidly manifest in a spiritual form of wood.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes the Padma Purāṇa's description of Lord Jagannātha:

samudrasyottare tīre
āste śrī-puruṣottame pūrṇānanda-mayaṁ brahma
dāru-vyāja-śarīra-bhṛt

"On the northern shore of the ocean, in Puruṣottama-kṣetra, the supremely blissful Personality of Godhead pretends to be made of wood."

The Viṣṇu Purāṇa explains:

nīlādrau cotkale deśe
kṣetre śrī-puruṣottame dāruṇy āste cid-ānando jagannāthākhyā-mūrtinā

In the country of Orissa, in Nīlācala in Puruṣottama-kṣetra, the spiritual and blissful Personality of Godhead appears as the wooden Deity named Lord Jagannātha."

mahā-vibhūtimān-possessing great opulences and powers; rājyaṁ-the kingdom; autkaḷaṁ-of Orissa; pālayan-protecting; svayam-personally; vyañjayan-manifesting; nija-His own; māhātmyaṁ-glories; sadā-always; sevaka-to His servants; vatsalaḥ-affectionate.

Opulent and powerful, He personally protects the kingdom of Orissa. He is glorious. He loves His servants.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes the Tattva-yāmala:

bhārate cotkale deśe
bhū-svarge puruṣottame dāru-rūpī jagannātho bhaktānām abhaya-pradaḥ nara-ceṣṭām upādāya
āste mokṣaka-kāraḷaḥ

"In Bhārata-varṣa, in the country of Orissa, in Bhū-svarga, in Puruṣottama-kṣetra, the Lord of the universes (Jagannātha), who makes the devotees fearless, whose pastimes are like those of a human being, and who grants liberation, appears in a form of wood."

tasyānnam pācitam lakṣmyā svayam bhuktvā dayālunā dattam tena sva-bhaktebhyo labhyate deva-durlabham

tasya-of Him; annam-the food; pacitam-cooked; lakṣmyā-by the goddess of fortune; svayam-personally; bhuktvā-eating; dayālunā-merciful; dattam-given; tena-by Him; sva-bhaktebhyo-to His devotees; labhyate-is obtained; veda-durlabham-difficult for the demigods to obtain.

The goddess of fortune personally cooks for Him. When He has eaten, the merciful Lord gives His remnants, which even the demigods cannot obtain, to His devotees."

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the question may be asked: If the Lord eats the food, how is anything left? The answer is found in the word "dayālunā" (merciful). Although the Lord eats all that is offered to Him, and leaves no remnants, He mercifully makes it as full as before and then gives it to His devotees.

mahā-prasāda-samjñam-named mahāprasādam; ca-and; tat-that; sprṣtam-touched; yena kenacit-by someone; yatra-where; kutrāpi-somewhere; vā-or; nītam-brought; avicāreṇa-without consideration; bhujyate-is eaten.

These remnants, called mahāprasādam, should be eaten without considering who has touched them or from where they were brought.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes the Vedic literatures:

yad annam pacayel lakṣmīr
bhoktaḥ ca puruṣottamaḥ sprṣtāsprṣtam na mantavyam
yathā viṣṇus tathaiva tat

"The food, cooked by the goddess of fortune, that the Supreme Personality of Godhead eats, is like Lord Viṣṇu Himself. One should not consider whether some unworthy person has touched it or not."

-Vedic literature

"Whether touched by people of the lowest caste, people who have no caste, or people born of mixed caste, food once eaten by the Lord of the universes destroys all sins."

-Bhaviṣya Purāṇa

nāsti tatraiva rājendra
sprṣṭāsprṣṭa-vivecanam
yasya saṁsprṣṭa-mātreṇa
yānti amedhyāḥ pavitratām

"O king, there is no consideration whether or not some unworthy person has touched the Lord's prasādam, for by once touching it even the most unworthy person is at once purified."

-Tattva-yāmala

na kāla-niyamo viprā

aho tat kṣetra-māhātmyam gardabho 'pi catur-bhujah yatra praveśa-mātreṇa
na kasyāpi punar bhavaḥ

aho-Oh; tat-that; kṣetra-of the place; māhātmyam-the glories; gardabho-an ass; api-even; catur-bhujah-four-armed; yatra-where; praveśa-mātreṇa-simply by entering; na-not; kasyāpi-of anyone; punar-again; bhavaḥ-birth.

Oh, the glory of that place! Even an ass there becomes a four-armed resident of Vaikuṅṭha. Anyone who goes there once is never born again.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes Lord Brahmā in the Brahma Purāṇa:

aho kṣetrasya māhātmyam
samastād daśa-yojanam niviṣṭā yatra paśyanti
sarvān eva catur-bhujān

"Oh, the glory of that place of 80 miles! When one goes there he sees that everyone is a four-armed resident of Vaikuṅṭha."

Veda-vyāsa explains in the Garuḍa Purāṇa:

yatra sthitā janāḥ sarve
śaṅkha-cakrābja-pāṇayah dṛśyante divi devāś ca
mohayanti muhur muhuḥ

"When the demigods in heaven see that the people there are four-armed residents of Vaikuṅṭha holding a conchshell, cakra, and lotus in their hands, again and again they faint."

Nārada Muni says in the Bahv-ṛca-pariśiṣṭa:

catur-bhujā janāḥ sarve
dr̥śyante yan-nivāsinaḥ

"The people who live there are all seen to be four-armed residents of Vaikuṅṭha."

Veda-vyāsa also says in the same scripture:

sparśanād eva tat kṣetraṁ nṛṇāṁ mukti-pradāyakam yatra sākṣāt param brahma bhāti dārava-līlayā

api janma-śataiḥ sāgrair duri-tācāra-tat-parah kṣetre 'smin saṅga-mātreṇa jāyate viṣṇu-samam

"Touching that places gives liberation to human beings. The Supreme Personality of Godhead enjoys pastimes there, playing as a wooden Deity. By performing difficult austerities for a hundred births one is able to touch that place and become equal to Lord Viṣṇu."

praphulla-blossoming; puṇḍarīka-lotus; akṣe-eyes; tasmin-there; eva-indeed; īkṣite-seen; janeḥ-of the birth; phalaṁ-the fruit; syad-is; evam-thus; āśrauṣam-I heard; āścaryaṁ-wonderful; pūrvam-before; aśrutam-unheard.

I heard that when blossoming-lotus-eyed Lord Jagannātha is seen, the seer's birth in this world brings a wonderful result never heard of before.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes the following words spoken by Nārada Muni to Prahāda Mahārāja in the Padma Purāṇa:

śravaṇādyair upāyair yah
kathañcid dṛśyate mahāḥ

When, during great festivals, that country's king, who was a great servant of the Lord, came to see the Lord's glorious face, he brought many saintly visitors and filled the gardens. Then poor people like myself were no longer able to see the Lord whenever we wished.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the most important of these festivals was Rathayātrā. Somene may protest that this action is not proper for a saintly king. The answer is given that the king brought with him many saintly persons eager to see Lord Jagannātha. The gardens were filled with the horses and other animals of the king's entourage.

ocean; yamunātvena-as the Yamuna; nīlādri-bhogo-Nilacala Hill;
govardhanātmanā-as Govardhana.

When I yearned to see Vrajabhūmi, by Lord Jagannātha's glory the gardens there became like Vṛndāvana forest, the ocean like the Yamunā, and Nīlācala Hill like Govardhana.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this happened by Lord Jagannātha's mercy.

After asking Him, by Lord Jagannātha's order looking for the signs of a great king, the ministers crowned me.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the king's eldest son refused the kingdom, and the younger sons and other relatives were not qualified to accept it. The king's ministers asked Lord Jagannātha what should be done. Lord Jagannātha might have said to them: "My devotee Gopa-kumāra, who was born on Govardhana Hill, should be crowned king." Or then He might have said: "He on whom the signs of a great king are seen should be crowned king". Seeing the signs of a great king on Gopa-kumāra, they crowned him king. The signs of a king are described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (9.20.24) in these words:

cakram dakṣiṇa-haste 'sya
padma-kośo 'sya pādayoḥ

"Mahārāja Bharata, the son of Duṣmanta, had the mark of Lord Kṛṣṇa's disc on the palm of his right hand, and he had the mark of a lotus whorl on the soles of his feet."*

I expanded the great festivals of worshiping the Lord, and I specifically expanded the twelve great yātrās, including the yātrā to Guṇḍicā.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the twelve great yātrās, beginning with Dolayātrā, Damanakayātrā, Candanayātrā, Jalasnāyātrā, and Rathayātrā, are performed in the twelve months. The yātrā to Guṇḍicā is Rathayātrā.

That morning some priests from the temple came to my home and gave me the Lord's order in the form of Lord Jagannātha's garland. Tying the garland around my neck, and bowing down to offer respects to the cakra, I went to the country of Mathurā.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Gopa-kumāra might think: "This is just a false dream. Why, simply by words in a dream, should I leave this place and go to another?" The sudden appearance of the priests with the garland confirmed the Lord's order: "Go to Mathurā".

My longing to see Lord Jagannātha making me see everything as if it were a desert, I remembered Puruṣottama-kṣetra.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this verse may mean that gopa-kumāra saw everything as if it were a desert, or that he saw Mathurā-maṇḍala as if it were a desert. Lord Kṛṣṇa lives in Vṛndāvana eternally. This is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 4.8.42, 10.1.28, and 10.44.13.

of worship; virājitaḥ-glorious; tathāpi-nevertheless; ūrdhvataḥ-higher; lokaḥ-world; divyaḥ-splendid; tābhyām-than them; viśiṣyate-is better.

That realm, named Divya-svarga, is better than the realm of Vila-svarga, which is decorated with the forms of Lord Viṣṇu, Lord Śeṣa, and other forms of the Lord, and it is also better than Bhauma-svarga, which in its continents, countries, and other places, is splendid with festivals of worship for Lord Kṛṣṇa, who appears in many forms.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Lord Viṣṇu is the Deity of Satalaloka and Lord Śeṣa is the Deity of Saptama-pātālaloka. The word "ādi" refers to Deities described in the Rāmāyaṇa, as well as to Lord Kāpila, who is the Deity of Atalaloka, and the Rudras, who are the Deities of Vitalaloka.

The word "dvīpa" refers to continents, such as Jambudvīpa, the word "varṣa" refers to countries, such as Bhārata-varṣa, and the word "ādi" refers to other places, such as the ocean of milk. In Plakṣadvīpa the Deity is Lord Sūrya, in Ilāvṛta-varṣa the Deity is Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa, and in Bhadrāśva the Deity is Lord Hayagrīva, Thus in the different places are different forms of Lord Kṛṣṇa, as is described in the Fifth Canto of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. Divya-svarga is the abode of the demigods. The other svargas here are the other planets, below that realm.

pūrvam-before; gaṅgā-taṭa-on the shore of the Ganges; nṛpa-gr̥he-in the king's palace; yasya-of whom; dr̥ṣṭa-seen; pratiṣṭhā-established; tam-Him; śrī-viṣṇum-

Lord Śrī Viṣṇu; sura-gaṇa-by the demigods; vṛtam-surrounded; sat-eternal; cit-full of knowledge; ānanda-and bliss; sāndram-intense; tatra-there; apaśyam-I saw; rucira-beautiful; garuḍa-of Garuḍa; skandha-on the shoulders; simhāsana-on a throne; stham-situated; vīṇā-of the vina; gītam-music; madhura-madhuram-very sweet; nāradasya-of Nārada Muni; arcayantam-worshiped.

There I saw Lord Viṣṇu, His form filled with eternity knowledge and bliss, sitting on the throne of Garuḍa's graceful shoulders, surrounded by demigods, and worshiped by Nārada who very sweetly played a vīṇā. He was the same Lord I had seen before in a king's palace by the Ganges' shore.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this was the Lord four-armed form.

mahendreṇa-by Indra; arcyate-worshiped; svarga-of Svarga; vibhūtibhiḥ-with the opulences; asau-the; prabhuḥ-Lord; bhratṛtvena-as a brother; īśvaratvena-as the Lord; śaraṇatvena-as the shelter; ca-also; anu-aham-day after day.

With the opulences of Svarga, day after day Indra worshiped the Lord as his brother, master, and shelter.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī gives the pārijāta flower and the heavenly nectar as examples of the opulences of Svarga.

In my heart I thought: Indra is fortunate. Obtaining from Lord Viṣṇu fearlessness and mastery over the three worlds, he worships the Lord with celestial things, and the Lord personally accepts his offerings. Will the Lord be kind to me in this way?

With this desire I chanted my mantra and lived there.

atha-then; ekasya-of one; munīndrasya-great sage; dūśayitvā-polluting; priyam-the dear wife; balāt-forcibly; lajjayā-with shame; śāpa-of a curse; bhityā-with fear; ca-also; śakraḥ-Indra; kutrāpi-somewhere; alīyata-hid.

Then Indra, having raped the dear wife of a great sage, ashamed, and fearing a curse, hid somewhere.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this event occurred soon after Gopakumāra's desire was manifest. Indra hid in a lotus stem in Mānasa-sarovara.

Although they searched in many ways, the demigods could not find him. Because there was no king, the three worlds were overcome by calamities.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the calamities were caused by the demons.

śrī-viṣṇoḥ-of Lord Viṣṇu; ājñayā-by the order; devaiḥ-by the demigods; guruṇā-by their spiritual master; preritaiḥ-sent; atha-then; aindre-of Indra; pade-in the post; abhiśiktaḥ-crowned; aham-I; aditi-with Aditi; ādi-beginning; anumoditaḥ-pleased.

Then, on Lord Viṣṇu's order, the demigods, sent by their guru, crowned me in Indra's place. I delighted Aditi and the others.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the guru here is Bṛhaspati. Why did Indra's mother Aditi, wife Śacī, and many friends tolerate this? They were happy with this arrangement because it was the Lord's order.

Text 26

tataḥ-then; aditim-Aditi; śacīm-Śacī; jīvaṁ-Bṛhaspati; brāhmaṇān-the brahmanas; api-also; mānayan-honoring; trailokye-in the three worlds; vaiṣṇaviṁ-to Lord Viṣṇu; bhaktim-devotion; pūrṇaṁ-filled; prāvartayaṁ-I made; sadā-always.

I worshiped Aditi, Śacī, Bṛhaspati, and the brāhmaṇas. I made the three worlds always full of devotion to Lord Viṣṇu.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word "jīvam" here is a name of Bṛhaspati and the word mānayan" means "worshiping". Gopa-kumāra made the worlds more full of Viṣṇu-bhakti than they had been under King Indra.

headed; mahā-ṛṣayaḥ-the great sages; padbhyām-on foot; pāvayitum-to purify;
yāntaḥ-going; tīrthāni-to pilgrimage places; kṛpayā-mercifully; bhuvi-on earth.

Then Bhṛgu and other great sages, who were mercifully going on foot to purify the holy places of the earth, unexpectedly came to Svarga.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the sages in this group included Marīci, Aṅgirā, Pulastya and Pulaha. The great devotee Bhṛgu Muni is glorified in Bhagavad-gītā (10.25) and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (3.11.30). The Ganges and other holy places become contaminated by the very sinful people that visit them. These sages were going to purify them again with the touch of their feet.

Desiring this as I chanted my mantra, very soon I went by airplane up to that planet and there I saw all was faultless and beyond description. The happiness, opulence, and worship was not like that in the three worlds.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the happiness there is faultless because: 1. there is no fear it will perish at the arrival of Brahmā's night, 2. it is free from material rivalry, and 3. it is not a cause of future suffering. The opulence there is faultless because it is free from diminution and other faults. The worship is faultless because it is done without material motives.

drṣṭa-seen; sat-the spiritual; phale-fruit.

By staying with these sages devoted only to sacrifices, I will become lax in chanting the mantra, taught by my spiritual guru, that shows me such good results.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that from chanting this mantra came the results of kingdoms on earth, the kingship of Svarga, and the attainment of Maharloka.

To see the Lord of the universes as I had before, I wandered among the sages fixed in meditation.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that, expecting to find the Supreme Lord, as he had found Him in Svargaloka and Maharloka, Gopa-kumāra visited many places in Tapoloka. He did not find the Lord, but instead found only yogīs living alone, hardly talking to each other, and rapt in meditation.

prāyaḥ-for the most part; sarve-everyone; samādhi-sthāḥ-situated in trance; naiṣṭhikāḥ ūrdhva-retasaḥ-perfect celibates; svātmārāmāḥ-finding happiness in the Supreme; pūrṇa-kāmāḥ-all desires fulfilled; sevyamānāḥ-being served; ca-also; siddhibhiḥ-by mystic powers.

Almost always situated in ecstatic trance, finding pleasure in the Supreme, all their desires fulfilled, and served by the mystic perfections, all were perfect celibate sages.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the words "almost always" mean that sometimes they would converse amongst themselves, and sometimes they would perform external worship of the Lord.

Because of seeing their great power, I stayed among them, and because of respect for my guru's words, and also because I had seen the results it brings, I did not abandon my chanting.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Gopa-kumāra's guru had ordered him: "Never abandon your chanting".

paramātmā-the Supreme Self; vāsudevaḥ-Lord Vāsudeva; sat-eternal; cit-full of knowledge; ānanda-and full of bliss; vigrahaḥ-His form; nitantam-always; śodhite-pure; citte-in the heart; sphurati-manifests; eṣaḥ-He; na-not; ca-also; anyataḥ-any other way.

In this way, and not in another way, the Supreme Self, Lord Vāsudeva, whose form is eternal and full of knowledge and bliss, will always appear in your purified heart.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this way to see the Lord is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 4.3.23. Pippalāyana Muni here implies that because the Supreme Lord is all-pervading and is manifest only by His own wish, He cannot be seen with the eyes or other senses.

If sometimes, out of Lord for His devotee, the Lord appears and is seen with the eyes, He is actually seen with the eye of transcendental knowledge, although one may think He is seen with the physical eyes.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that someone may protest: "Dhruva, Prahlāda, and others saw the Lord with their eyes!" To answer, Pippalāyana Muni speaks this verse. He asserts that the senses are helpless without the mind.

Or if, by the power of His mercy, He is seen by the external eyes, the bliss of seeing Him is felt in the mind.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the power of the Lord's mercy is described in the following words (of Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī):

mūkam karoti vācālam
paṅgum laṅghayate girim
yat-kṛpā tam ahaṁ vande

"The Supreme Personality of Godhead has the form of sac-cid-ānanda, transcendental bliss, knowledge, and eternity. I offer my respectful obeisances unto He who turns the dumb into eloquent speakers and enables the lame to cross mountains. Such is the mercy of the Lord."*

When one sees the Lord in meditation it is as if one sees Him directly. The demigod Brahmā gives evidence for this special mercy of the Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that, seen in meditation, the Lord grants benedictions, talks with the devotee, touches him, and relates to him in many ways. Lord Brahmā's vision of the Lord is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 2.9.9, 2.9.14, 2.9.17-18, 2.9.37, 3.8.22-23, 3.8.33, 3.9.29, and 3.9.29.

It is said that the direct sight of the Lord delights the devotees, but fills Kamsa, Duryodhana, and those like them with fear and a host of faults.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that anger and envy are examples of some of the faults here.

To show the glories of devotional service, the blissful Lord delights His devotees and hides that delight from others.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that as a fire's heat is concealed by smoke, so the Lord conceals from the demons the bliss of seeing Him. This verse is explained in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 7.1.18.

The mind is able, without stopping, and as much as it wishes, to give to the Lord pure love, the most confidential of spiritual gifts.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that love for the Lord is more confidential than transcendental knowledge and renunciation. The word "aviśramam" here means "without impediment".

Pure love, which is the goal to be attained by other spiritual practices, which is the best of the best of all goals of life, which is the only powerful way to bring the Supreme Lord under one's dominion, which is only attained by the Lord's mercy, which is the only great treasure of the devotees, which is flooded with the sweetness of wonderful transcendental bliss, which is glorious beyond description, and which manifests the transformations of ecstasy, arises from the actions of the mind.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the other spiritual practices begin with trancendental knowledge and renunciation, and the goals of life are piety, sense gratification, economic development, and liberation.

Fixed in meditation, we see Him within and without. Therefore we never suffer separation from Him. That is why the Lord has gone there.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that someone may ask: "Why do the sages stay in Tapoloka if the Lord is not present?" Someone may also ask: "How can the Lord, who loves His devotees, leave that place and go somewhere else?" The answer is given in this verse.

The first one became Lord Nārāyaṇa. Another became the form of Lord Viṣṇu. Another became the Lord of sacrifices. Another assumed many different forms.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the first one was perhaps Sanaka, or perhaps another of the kumāras. The form of Lord Viṣṇu here was either Lord Upendra, whom Gopa-kumāra had seen in Svargaloka, or perhaps it was a form like His. The Lord of sacrifices is the Deity worshiped in Maharloka. The forms of Lord Nṛsimha and Lord Vāmana were among the many different forms.

Humbly bowing down, Sanaka and the other sages respectfully worshiped the elderly, supremely opulent demigod.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Brahmā's opulences included being accompanied by a great entourage. Although he had a white beard, he was not conquered by old age because, as an incarnation of the Personality of Godhead, his form was eternal and full of knowledge and bliss.

tasya-of Him; putraḥ-the son; iva-like; brahmā-Brahmā; śrūyate-is heard; na-not; hi-indeed; bhidyate-is broken; brahma-Brahmā; eva-indeed; līlayā-by pastimes; tatra-there; mūrtibhyāṁ-with two forms; bhāti-shines; naḥ-of us; matam-the opinion.

In the Śruti-śāstra it is heard that Brahmā is like the Supreme Lord's son. There is not difference. We think Brahmā playfully appears in two forms.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the two forms are four-headed Brahmā and the thousand-headed Lord of the universes.

samvahyamāna-being massaged; caraṇam-whose feet; ramayā-by the goddess of fortune; suparṇe-Garuḍa; baddha-añjalau-with folded hands; kṛta-dṛśam-seen; vidhinā-by Brahmā; arcyamānam-worshiped; bhūyo-vibhūtibhiḥ-with great opulences; amum-Him; bahu lālayantam-expressing great love; śrī-nārada-of Nārada; praṇaya-love; bhaktiṣu-and devotion; datta-placed; cittam-mind.

. . . whose feet were massaged by the goddess of fortune, who glanced at Garuḍa standing with folded hands, who was worshiped by Brahmā with great opulences and treated with great love, who placed His attention on Nārada's loving devotion,

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the first way Brahmā expressed his love was by touching the Lord's lotus hands. Nārada expressed his devotion by singing and dancing.

nidrā-of sleep; lilām-pastimes; prabhuḥ-the Lord; bheje-enjoyed; loka-of the planets; padme-in teh lotus flower; asya-His; nābhi-from the navel; je-born; sṛṣṭi-rītim-activities of creation; vidhiḥ-Brahmā; vīkṣya-seeing; sva-kṛtyāya-for his own duties; abhavad-became; bahiḥ-outside.

Then the Lord enjoyed pastimes of sleep, and at a certain time the creation was again manifest on the lotus of worlds born from the Lord's navel. Seeing this, Brahmā came out to perform his duties.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that because the Lord is spiritual He does not sleep. That is why the word “pastimes of sleep” is used. Brahmā had been in the Lord's abode. He left and went to his own abode to perform his duties in the world.

One day, hearing the people of that planet praise a person about to attain impersonal liberation, I asked them about that wonderful thing.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this person had attained liberation in Bhārata-varṣa. Gopa-kumāra asked: "What is liberation? How is it attained?"

The goddesses of the Upaniṣads, accompanied by the personified Śrutis and Smṛtis, then said: "Impersonal liberation is attained by knowledge alone. It is not attained in any other way."

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is confirmed in the Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad (6.8 and 6.15):

tam eva viditvāti-mṛtyum eti

Some Purāṇas and Āgamas then very gravely said that transcendental knowledge, which is so difficult to attain, is easily attained by devotional service to the Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Purāṇas and Āgamas, who were here accompanied by the Pañcarātras and other scriptures, are very expert in preaching the service of the Lord. The word "gāmbhīryam" here means that they spoke without wavering. Although liberation is attained by transcendental knowledge, transcendental knowledge is difficult to attain save by devotional service to the Lord.

Then some Śrutis and Smṛtis were seen to agree with that idea, that transcendental knowledge is easily attained by devotional service to the Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is confirmed by the following quotations:

bhakti-dṛḍhā bhaved yasya

Refusing to hear these words, some great Upaniṣads, along with their Agamas and other scriptures, became angry. They agreed with a more direct view.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the scriptures here are the great Upaniṣads very devoted to the glories of the Supreme Lord. The Agamas here are the scriptures that follow these Upaniṣads, and the other scriptures are some Purāṇas and other scriptures. The more direct view here is their opinion that only by devotional service can liberation easily be attained. This view is confirmed by the following quotations:

dharmārtha-kāma-mokṣākhyā puruṣārthā dvijottamāḥ

hari-bhakti-parāṇām vai
sampadyante na saṁśayaḥ

"O best of brāhmaṇas, they who are devoted to Lord Hari attain the goals of human life, namely: piety, economic development, sense gratification, liberation. Of this there is no doubt."

-Bṛhan-Nāradya Purāṇa

dharmārtha-kāmaiḥ kiṁ tasya muktis tasya kare sthitā samasta-jagatām mūle
yasya bhaktiḥ sthirā tvayi

"O Lord, liberation rests in the hand of a person devoted to You, the root from which all the universes have sprouted. What use does he have for piety, economic development, and sense gratification?"

-Viṣṇu Purāṇa

Some confidential Upanisads, along with some confidential Agamas and Purāṇas, smiled and remained silent.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and Vaiṣṇava-tantras were part of this group. Perhaps they were surprised that the Lord's glories, which are so clearly described in the scriptures, remained unknown to these so-called all-knowing sages. Therefore they were silent. Or perhaps they were silent because they were so convinced that devotional service grants liberation that they had only contempt for they who did not agree. Or perhaps they thought it not proper to reveal this confidential truth to such an unqualified audience. The truth is that pious works and rituals, cultivation of knowledge, and liberation are only steps leading to devotional service. The scriptures here thought it not the proper time to explain this.

Then the Agama-sāstras debated with the Purāṇas and Amnāyas whether or not liberation is attained simply by chanting mantras of the Supreme Lord. Not tolerating this, many Purāṇas, Agamas, and Upaniṣads covered their ears and left.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the scriptures that left were the same ones that smiled and remained silent before. They left because the discussion was not even slightly touched by the slightest scent of the great glories of devotional service to the Lord.

Then, on the mediation of the great Purāṇas and great Upaniṣads, the Agamas were declared the victors. This pleased me.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the scriptures that left were considered neutral, not taking either side, and therefore they were called to decide the case. Hearing the arguments of both sides, they decided that the winners were the Agamas, whose opinion was that merely by chanting mantras of the Supreme Lord one may certainly become liberated. Their view is confirmed by the following quotations:

gatvā gatvā nivartante
candra-sūryādayo grahāḥ

"They who go to Candraloka, Sūryaloka, and other material planets, return again, but they who chant the twelve-syllable mantra glorifying the Supreme Lord never return."

When I respectfully asked them about the truth, the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and other Agamas that teach the Vaiṣṇava conclusion, accompanied by the crowns of the Śruti, spoke.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that he asked them why they smiled, remained silent, covered their ears, and left the assembly. The crowns of the Śruti are the confidential Upaniṣads.

We, who are intent on devotional service to the Lord, have sometimes discussed impersonal liberation and its associates. We have criticized it, and we say it should be completely rejected.

Sometimes, in order to describe the glory of devotional service, we have also described impersonal liberation. Impersonal liberation does not fulfill the purpose of life. In it is not the slightest scent of happiness.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the happiness of devotional service is many millions of millions of times greater than the happiness of impersonal liberation. Actually, there is no happiness in impersonal liberation.

The happiness in impersonal liberation is like the happiness in having good health or in sleeping soundly. The ignorant call it happiness. The ignorant are pleased by it.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the happiness in good health and sound sleep are not positive happiness, but merely the absence of pain. This is seen in the statement "I slept happily. I don't remember a thing". The happiness of impersonal liberation is like that. It is only some relief from the sufferings of the world of birth and death. Impersonal liberation is described by Lord Brahmā in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.14.26.

Entering the ear, or spoken only once, even the dim reflection of the Lord's holy name brings perfect liberation.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that even if one chants as a joke, or even if one chants to mock the holy name, one still attains liberation. This is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 6.3.24:

vikruśya putram aghavān yad ajānilo 'pi nārāyaṇeti mriyamāṇa iyāya muktim

"Ajāmila, for example, was extremely sinful, but while dying he merely chanted the holy name, and although calling his son, he achieved complete liberation because he remembered the name of Nārāyaṇa."*

This is also described in the story of Satyatapā in the Varāha Purāṇa:

kiñcij jale magnaṁ japa-paramṁ brāhmaṇaṁ bhakśayitum āgatasya vyāghrasya tenaiva vyādhenā hatasyākasmād udgata-bhagavan-nāma-śravaṇenaiva muktir jātā.

Impersonal liberation may vanquish all sufferings, or it may end actions done in ignorance, or it may, by enabling one to renounce the unreal forms made by the illusory potency, give direct perception of the self to the individual spirit soul, who is really eternal, full of knowledge, and full of bliss, but the happiness it gives is very slight.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that liberation is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 2.10.6.

(The proponents of impersonal liberation) say that the pure soul is in reality quality-less, solitary, formless, inactive Brahman.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that they say Brahman has no qualities, such as mercy, is alone and does not associate with the great devotees or anyone else, does not have wonderful forms, and does not enjoy any sweet pastimes. It is the personal form of the Lord, which is eternal and full of knowledge and bliss, that is and does all this. By seeing Him one can experience happiness.

The Supreme Person, however, is the ultimate form of Brahman. He is the Supersoul. He is the Supreme controller. His form is eternal and full of knowledge and bliss. He is an ocean of glory.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these statements are confirmed in Bhagavad-gītā 10.12 and 14.27 and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.87.1.

Text 179

sa-guṇatva-with qualities; aguṇatva-and without qualities; ādi-beginning; virodhaḥ-contradiction; praviśanti-enters; tam-that; mahā-vibhūtiḥ-great opulence; brahma-Brahman; asya-of Him; prasiddha-famous; ittham-thus; tayoḥ-of them; bhidā-with the difference.

The presence and absence of qualities, as well as a host of other contradictions, are all present in Him. He is famous as the opulent Supreme Person and the Brahman. He is both.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that as many rivers flow into the ocean, so many contradictory features are present in the Supreme Lord. As the Brahman, He has no qualities, and as the Supersoul and the Supreme controller, He has qualities. Another example is that in some scriptures it is said He has no name, and in others His names are given. The Vedic literatures describe this in these words:

aprasiddhes tad-guṇānām
anāmāsau prakīrtitaḥ aprākṛtatvārūpasyāpy

arūpo 'yaṁ pracakṣāte

"Because the Supreme Lord's qualities cannot be completely known, it is said He has no name. Because the Supreme Lord's form is not material, it is said He has no form."

The Lord has spiritual qualities, but because His qualities are not material it may be said, in one sense, that He has no qualities.

Therefore, by devotional service one may see the Lord's intensely blissful, glorious lotus feet. In this way one experiences intense bliss.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the personal feature of the Supreme Lord is the origin of the impersonal Brahman. This is explained in Bhagavad-gītā 14.27 and Brahma-saṁhitā 5.40.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa's feet are the personification of happiness. They are a great reservoir of happiness. They are sweet as sugar. Impersonal Brahman has only slight happiness.

If the individual spirit soul is Param Brahman (spirit), then he must also be the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who is full of eternity, knowledge, and bliss.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (2.7.11) explains that Brahman is a feature of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. If the individual spirit souls are Brahman, then they are also a feature of the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

By the Lord's eternal potency, which is full of spiritual pastimes and opulences, and which is called Mahāmāyā and Yogamāyā, the difference between the individual spirit souls and the Supreme Personality of Godhead is established eternally.

Text 186

Therefore the devotees consider that the individual spirit souls are both different from the Lord and not different from Him. In the liberated condition the difference is prominent.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that because the individual spirit souls are Brahman they are not different from the Supreme and because they are only parts of Him they are different from Him. Even Śāṅkarācārya agrees that the liberated souls are different from the Lord, for he says:

muktā api lilyā vigrahaṁ kṛtvā bhagavantaṁ bhajanti

"Even the liberated souls have form. They worship the Supreme Personality of Godhead and enjoy pastimes with Him."

That the liberated souls worship the Supreme Personality of Godhead is also confirmed in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 6.14.5.

Although the individual spirit souls have forms that are eternal and full of knowledge and bliss, by the influence of Lord Kṛṣṇa's māyā, which places them in ignorance without beginning and makes them forget the truth, they become bewildered and wander in the world of birth and death.

Persons who yearn for Svargaloka praise the celestial worlds. In the same way persons who, because they are tormented by the world of birth and death and cannot taste nectar, yearn for impersonal liberation, again and again praise impersonal liberation.

In this, our final conclusion, which is perfectly logical, and which proclaims that the individual spirit souls and the Supreme are simultaneously one and different, there is no flaw.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that even Śaṅkarācārya admitted that the individual spirit souls are subordinate to the Supreme. Śaṅkara prayed:

saty api bhedāpagame nātha tavāham na māmakīnas tvam. sāmudro hi taraṅgaḥ kva ca na samudras taraṅgaḥ.

"O Lord, even when all differences between us have gone, still I am Yours, but You never become mine. A wave is the property of the ocean, but the ocean never becomes the property of a wave."

As the words of great souls quoted here by us are always conclusive evidence, so the actions of great souls are also evidence.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this evidence includes Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.7.10, 6.17.28, and 10.87.21, as well as the statement of Hanumān:

"I have no desire for any liberation from the bonds of birth and death that will break the relationship where You are the master and I the servant."

How can impersonal liberation be worthy of praise when even the demons, who are criticized by the scriptures, and who kill cows, brāhmaṇas and others, attain it?

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the demons' killing of others is described in the advice given by Kaiṁsa's ministers in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.4.40.

in the goal; ca-also; vaiparītyam-the opposite; kila-indeed; ucitam-appropriate.

The devotees and demons are opposite in all respects. Therefore their destinations and the ways they attain it must also be opposite.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the goal of the devotee is to love the Supreme Lord and the devotees attain it by worshiping the Lord's lotus feet. The goal of the demons is impersonal liberation and the demons attain it by following the theory of impersonalism. Sometimes anger or other vices may also lead to the devotees' goal. This is explained in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.97.23:

nibhṛta-marun-mano 'kṣa-dṛḍha-yoga-yujo hṛdi yan

munaya upāsate tad arayo 'pi yayuḥ smaraṇāt striya uragendra-bhoga-bhuja-daṇḍa-viṣakta-dhiyo vayam api te samāḥ samadr̥śo 'ṅhri-saroja-sudhāḥ

"By practicing the mystic yoga system and controlling their breath, the great sages conquered the mind and senses. Thus engaging in mystic yoga, they saw the Supersoul within their hearts and ultimately entered into the impersonal Brahman. However, even the enemies of the Supreme Personality of Godhead attain that position simply by thinking of the Supreme Lord. The damsels of Vraja, the gopīs, simply wanted to embrace Kṛṣṇa and hold His arms, which are like serpents. Being attracted by the beauty of Kṛṣṇa they ultimately acquired a taste for the nectar of the Lord's lotus feet. We can also taste the nectar of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet by following in the footsteps of the gopīs."*

This is also described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 7.1.30:

kāmād dveṣād bhayāt snehād yathā bhaktyeśvare manaḥ āveśya tad-aghamaṁ hitvā
bahavas tad-gatiṁ gatāḥ

"Many, many persons have attained liberation simply by thinking of Kṛṣṇa with great attention and giving up sinful activities. This great attention may be due to lusty desires, inimical feelings, fear, affection, or devotional service. I shall now explain how one receives Kṛṣṇa's mercy simply by concentrating one's mind upon Him."*

By devotional service to Lord Kṛṣṇa one becomes saintly. Devotional service is the best way to progress in spiritual life. By devotional service one attains the Lord's two lotus feet as the result of his efforts.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself glorifies the devotees in these words (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 9.4.63-68):

The nectar of Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet is attained only by Lord Kṛṣṇa's mercy. It is not attained by pious fruitive work, philosophical speculation, or renunciation.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.14.8, 5.19.19, 11.20.35-36, 11.20.9, and 5.5.2-3.

Pious fruitive work interferes with devotional service and dry renunciation destroys it. However, when these two are purified they help it.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī says this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.2.42, and 11.20.31-33.

Because of the Lord's mercy and the devotees' association, the self-satisfied sages abandon their faith in impersonal Brahman and enter the path of devotional service.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.19.3.

They become liberated and by the Lord's potency they attain bodies of eternity, knowledge, and bliss. With spiritual senses they serve Lord Hari.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the exalted position of the devotees is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 6.14.5.

By devotedly performing one's own religious duties one attains the purity of heart that brings the happiness of the impersonalists. By performing this external devotional service one attains a slight result, but by performing internal devotional service one attains a very great result.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that internal devotional service consists of hearing and chanting the Lord's glories.

Leaving the happiness of the impersonalists behind, the devotees worship the Lord's lotus feet without stop and quickly attain great happiness and faith in devotional service.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.14.8.

In devotional service the person who experiences, what he experiences, and the activities of the senses by which he experiences, are all manifested in many different ways.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the person who experiences is the devotee, who thinks "I am the Lord's servant", or who thinks himself related to the Lord in any one of a number of ways. What he experiences is the Lord, who manifests many very wonderful and sweet transcendental forms, pastimes, and other features. The devotee experiences through the activities of the senses, which include a host of devotional activities beginning with hearing and chanting.

Because the mind remains inactive, no happiness can be perceived in the meditative trance of the impersonalists. However, when the mind is active happiness shines through as light shines through a crystal mountain.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that in the trance of the impersonalists the mind and senses are inactive, and therefore neither happiness nor anything else can be perceived. In that state there is only void. This is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.84.29. However, for the devotees, who with love and devotion actively serve the Lord's blissful lotus feet, great happiness is experienced in the mind, intelligence, and senses.

The happiness in impersonal liberation is of only one kind, but the happiness in devotional service is of a wonderful variety of kinds. Therefore the happiness in devotional service is different from the happiness in impersonal liberation. The impersonalists cannot guess how great is the sweetness of the pastimes of devotional service to Lord Hari.

yathottaram daśa-guṇāny
aṣṭāv āvaraṇāṇi hi

brahmāṇḍāt-from the universe; koṭi-pāñcāśat-five-hundred million; yojana-a yojana is eight miles; pramitād-in measurement; bahiḥ-outside; yathā-as; uttaram-higher; daśa-by ten; guṇāṇi-multiplied; aṣṭau-eight; āvaraṇāṇi-coverings; hi-indeed.

Outside the material universe, which is four billion miles in diameter, are eight coverings, each one ten times greater than the one before.

Text 226

tāny atikramya labhyeta tan nirvāṇa-padaṁ dhruvam mahā-kāla-purākhyam yat kārya-kāraṇa-kālanāt

tāni-them; atikramya-crossing; labhyeta-is attained; tat-that; nirvāṇa-padam-impersonal liberation; dhruvam-indeed; mahā-kāla-pura-ākhyam-named Mahā-kāla-pura; yat -which; kārya-effect; kāraṇa-cause; kāraṇāt-from the absence.

Crossing these coverings, one attains eternal liberation, which is called Mahā-kāla-pura because the subtle and gross material elements are not manifest there.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Mahākāla-pura here may also be interpreted to mean the place Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna visited to rescue a brāhama's sons. The words "kārya" and "kāraṇa" may also be interpreted to mean "the material senses" and "the gross material elements".

before; yatra-where; tad-that; āsīt-was; tat-of that; gandhaḥ-the fragrance; api-also;
asti-is; na-not; kutracit-anywhere.

Śrī Gopa-kumāra said: Coming from Brahmaloka to earth, I saw that not even the slightest fragrance of what had been before still remained.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains the demigods, humans, and their abodes had all been destroyed by the influence of the time of cosmic annihilation.

vidhāya-placing; bhagavat-of the Lord; pūjām-the worship; taya-of Him; ātithyena-with being a guest; sat-kṛtaḥ-welcomed; dināni-days; katicit-some; tatra-there; bhoga-of enjoyment; artham-for the purpose; aham-I; arthitaḥ-wa requested.

Putting aside the worship of the Lord, the earth-goddess welcomed me as a guest and asked me to stay for some days and enjoy the happinesses there.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this place is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.89.47.

Text 19

mahā-great; rūpa-forms; dharaiḥ-manifesting; vāri-water; tejaḥ-fire; vāyu-air; ambaraiḥ-ether; tathā-then; ahaṅkāra-false-ego; mahadbhyām-and mahat-tattva; ca-and; sva-sva-āvaraṇataḥ-from the various coverings; arcitam-worshiped; krameṇa-one after another; matsyaṁ-Lord Matsya; suryaṁ-Lord Sūrya; ca-also; pradyumnam-Pradyumna; aniruddhakam-Aniruddha; saṅkarṣaṇam-Saṅkarṣaṇa; vāsudevam-and Vāsudeva; bhagavantam-the Lord; alokayam-I saw.

In those coverings I saw, one after another, Lord Mastya, Lord Sūrya, Lord Pradyumna, Lord Aniruddha, Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa, and Lord Vāsudeva, being worshiped by the great forms of the deities of water, fire, air, ether, false-ego, and mahat-tattva.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the deity of water worshiped Lord Matsya, and the deity of fire worshiped Lord Sūrya. In this way each element-deity worshiped a specific form of the Lord.

Text 22

sva-kāryāt pūrva-pūrvasmāt

Passing through these coverings as before, I came to the very dark covering of material energy, its dark color very pleasing to the eyes.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this covering is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.89.47.

Text 24

bhagavantam-the Lord; sahasra-a thousand; āsyam-faces; śeṣa-Śeṣa; mūrtim-form; nija-priyam-dear; nityam-eternally; arcayati-worships; premṇā-with love; dāsa-vat-as a servant; jagadīśvaraḥ-Lord Śiva, Lord of the universes.

Although he is the Lord of the universes, Lord Śiva always worships thousand-headed Lord Śeṣa with great love, as if he were His servant.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 5.17.16.

Text 67

jñātvemaṁ śivalokasya

jñātvā-knowing; imam-this; śivalokasya-of Śivaloka; viśeṣāṁ-specific; sarvataḥ-than all; adhikam-better; pramodaṁ-happiness; paramaṁ-supreme; prāptaḥ-attained; api-also; apūrṇam-not full; hr̥t-the heart; alakṣayam-I noticed.

Even though I became very happy to hear of the supreme glories of Śivaloka, still I noticed that my heart felt empty.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Gopa-kumāra still yearned to see the lotus feet of Lord Madana-gopāla.

tarhi-then; eva-indeed; bhagavān-the Lord; dūre-far away; keṣām api mahātmanām-of some great souls; saṅgīta-dhvaniḥ-the sound of singing; atyanta-very; madhuraḥ-sweet; kaścīd-something; udgataḥ-arose.

Then, O lord, from far away came the very sweet sound of some great souls singing.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word "lord" here refers to the Mathurā brāhmaṇa, who is very fortunate because he is a devotee of Lord Madana-gopāla.

Text 75

the ecstasy; pravṛttaḥ-begun; nartitum-to dance; svayam-personally.

Hearing this, Lord Śiva became plunged in an ocean of bliss and, overcome with ecstatic love, began to dance.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that he manifested the symptoms of ecstasy, such as perspiring, speaking with a choked voice, trembling, his bodily hairs standing up, and his eyes shedding tears.

Encouraged by Goddess Umā, who faithfully followed Lord Śiva's heart, and who could understand my thoughts, Gaṇeśa softly spoke.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Gaṇeśa spoke softly because he was to say something very confidential, and it was not right for Lord Śiva's followers hear it.

Gaṇeśa then showed me these many associates, who were decorated with appropriate ornaments, who charmed the eyes and heart, and who in their pastimes were entering the millions and millions of universes of millions and millions of great, lotus-faced Brahmās.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these associates of the Lord are described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.14.11, 10.87.41, and 6.16.37.

(Gaṇeśa said:) From all fears they protect devotees who, somehow even once get the slight reflection of the Lord's holy name on their tongue or the pathway to their ear. Fond only of devotional service, by their own wish they wander everywhere preaching of glorious devotional service.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī says these two verses explain why the liberated devotees of Vaiṣṇava come to the material universes.

These four, who are incarnations of the Lord in the forms of devotees, who are the best of celibate sages, and who appear to be the Lord's associates, wander about for the welfare of the worlds. They reside in Tapoloka, bringing auspiciousness to the sages who stay there bereft of Lord Nārāyaṇa's company, feeling lost and without a master.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the four sages here are the four Kumāra's, headed by Sanaka, who are devotee-incarnations of the Lord of Vaiṣṇava. They bring auspiciousness to the residents of Tapoloka by glorifying the Supreme Lord's pastimes.

How will I be able to describe Vaikuṅṭhaloka, which is filled with the limitless ultimate of all happiness and opulence, which is decorated with the pastimes of the lotus feet of Lord Nārāyaṇa, the husband of the goddess of fortune, which the devotees full of love find easy to attain, and which they whose hearts are wounded by the desire for impersonal liberation and filled with the sinful desire to become one with the Lord, find very difficult to attain?

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes the following warnings from Vedic literature:

niṣkāmeṣu-desireless; viśuddheṣu-pure; sva-dharmeṣu-in one's own duties; hi-indeed; yaḥ-who; pumān-a person; parām-great; niṣṭhām-faith; gataḥ-gone; tasmin-to him; yā-which; kṛpā-mercy; śrī-hareḥ-of Lord Hari; bhavet-is; tasyāḥ-of that; śata-guṇaḥ-multiplied a hundred times; cet-if; syāt-may be; brahmatvam-the post of Brahmā; labhate-attains; tadā-then; tasyāḥ-of that; śata-guṇāyām-multiplied a hundred times; ca-and; syat-may be; mad-bhāvam-my nature; rcchati-attains; śrīmad-bhagavataḥ-of the Lord; tasya-of Him; mayi-in me; yāvat-as; anugrahaḥ-mercy; tasmāt-from that; śata-guṇa-uttane-multiplied a hundred times; jāte-manifested; vaikuṅṭham-to Vaikuṅṭha; eti-goes; tam-to that.

A person who has great faith in the pure and desireless performance of one's own varṇāśrama duties attains the mercy of Lord Hari. If that mercy is multiplied a hundred times, one attains the post of Brahmā. If that mercy is again multiplied a hundred times, one attains my post. If the mercy I receive from the Lord is multiplied a hundred times, one attains Vaikuṅṭha.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmi explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 4.24.29. It is also described in Itihāsa-samuccaya in these words:

brahmaṇaḥ sadanād ūrdhvaṁ

tad viṣṇoḥ paramam padam

tatra gacchanti sādavaḥ

"Saintly persons free of false-ego, material possessiveness, and material duality, who devotedly engage in the yoga of meditation, and who know that the pure, eternal, splendid Supreme Brahman effulgence is beyond the realm of the demigod Brahmā, go to that effulgence.

ye 'rcayanti hariṁ viṣṇuṁ

"They who worship Lord Hari, who is known as Viṣṇu, Kṛṣṇa, Jiṣṇu, Sanātana, Nārāyaṇa, Aja, Viṣvaksena, and Caturbhujā, and who meditate on Him, the transcendental divine Person, and who remember Him, the infallible Lord, attain His eternal abode. That is the conclusion of the eternal Śruti-śāstra."

Know that impersonal liberation, sāyujya-mukti, which is which is one of the four kinds of liberation, and which is attained by sannyāsī who imagine that they are not different from the Supreme, whose hearts are withered by the great flames of sufferings in the world of repeated birth and death, who cherish what is worthless and cannot distinguish the worthless and the valuable, and whom I, by the order of Lord Kṛṣṇa, who wished to conceal the path of loving devotion to His lotus feet, cast into an ocean of illusions, is rejected by they who taste the bliss of devotional service to the Lord. You should also reject that liberation, which is a great obstacle.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the impersonal Brahman effulgence is described in the Hari-vaṁśa, where Lord Kṛṣṇa says to Arjuna:

brahma-tejomayaṁ divyaṁ mahad yad dṛṣṭavān asi ahaṁ sa bharata-śreṣṭha
mat-tejas tat sanātanam

"O best of the Bharatas, I am the divine Brahman effulgence that you see. It is My eternal splendor.

prakṛtiḥ sā mama parā vyaktāvyaktā sanātani
tām praviśya bhavantiha
muktā yoga-vid-uttamaḥ

"It is My superior potency. Although it is sometimes manifest and sometimes not manifest, it is eternal. The greatest of the knowers of yoga enter it and become liberated.

sā sāṅkhyānām gatiḥ pārtha yoginām ca tapasvinām tat-param paramaṁ brahma
sarvaṁ vibhajate jagat

"O son of Pṛthā, it is the goal of the sāṅkhya philosophers, the yogīs, and the ascetics. It is My supreme Brahman effulgence, which pervades the entire world.

mamaiva tad ghanam tejo
jñātum arhasi bhārata

"O scion of Bharata, you should know that this great effulgence is Mine."

That impersonal liberation is worthless is explained in the prayers of Lord Brahmā (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.14.4), where it is compared to the empty husks left remaining after rice is threshed.

That Lord Kṛṣṇa ordered Lord Śiva to preach the theory of māyāvāda impersonalism is described in Padma Purāṇa, Uttara-khaṇḍ:

māyāvādam asac-chāstram pracchannaṁ baudham ucyate mayaiva kalpitaṁ devi kalau brāhmaṇa-rūpiṇā

brahmaṇaś cāparaṁ rūpaṁ nirguṇaṁ vakśyate mayā sarvasvaṁ jagato 'py asya mohanārthaṁ kalau yuge

"The māyāvāda philosophy," Lord Śiva informed his wife Pārvatī, "is impious (asac-chāstra). It is covered Buddhism. My dear Pārvatī, in the form of a brāhmaṇa in Kali-yuga I teach this imagined māyāvāda philosophy. In order to cheat the atheists, I describe the Supreme Personality of Godhead to be without form and without qualities. Similarly, in explaining Vedānta I describe the same māyāvāda philosophy in order to mislead the entire population toward atheism by denying the personal form of the Lord."*

This is also described in the Bṛhat-sahasra-nāma, where Lord Kṛṣṇa orders Lord Śiva:

svāgamaḥ kalpitaḥ tvaṁ ca
janān mad-vikukhaṇ kuru

"In Kali-yuga, mislead the people in general by propounding imaginary meanings of the Vedas to bewilder them."*

dvārakā-vāsi-living in Dvārakā; vipreṇa-by a brāhmaṇa; kṛṣṇa-to Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhakti-devotional service; rasa-the nectar; arthinā-praying; itaḥ-there; nītaḥ-brought; sutāḥ-his sons; tatra-there; sa-cāturya-viśeṣataḥ-by special power.

A brāhmaṇa who lived in Dvārakā and prayed only for the encstar of devotional service, by his own mystic powers brought his sons from impersonal liberation to Dvārakā.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the wonderful loving devotion the residents of Dvārakā, who had forms of eternity, knowledge and bliss, felt for Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet completely eclipsed the happiness of impersonal liberayion. The glories of devotional service are described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.47.37, 7.1.46, and 4.29.47.

What you have just said about yourself is proper for one very dear to the Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the reference here is to Text 103, where Lord Śiva says about Vaikuṅṭha: "That realm is very difficult to attain. The liberated souls pray for it. Lord Brahmā, his sons, and I myself strive for it." Such a humble statement (that he prays to attain Vaikuṅṭha) is proper for a person who is very dear to the Lord.

Know the truth. We have come here for your sake. Hear what you should do for your own welfare: If you desire Vaikuṅṭha, then renounce everything and perform the nine kinds of loving devotional service.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word "here" means "in this realm of impersonal liberation". Renouncing everything here means renouncing even his mantra chanting. The nine kinds of devotional service begin with chanting and hearing the Lord's glories.

teṣāṁ-of them; nava-nine; prakārāṇām-kinds; ekena-by one; eva-indeed; su-sidhyati-becomes perfect; sarva-sādhana-varyeṇa-the best of all methods; vaikuṅṭhaḥ-Vaikuṅṭha; sādhya-sattamaḥ-the highest goal.

Any one of these nine kinds of devotional service is the best of all ways to attain Vaikuṅṭha, the highest goal.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that any one of the nine kinds of devotional service is better than pious work (karma), philosophical speculation (jñāna) and other spiritual methods. Vaikuṅṭha is better than sense gratification, impersonal liberation, or any other goal. This is explained in the following verses of the Brahma Purāṇa:

dikṣā-mātreṇa kṛṣṇasya
narā mokṣaṁ labhanti vai kiṁ punar te sadā bhaktyā pūjayanty acyutaṁ narāḥ

"Simply by being initiated, the devotees of Kṛṣṇa attain liberation, what to speak of they who always worship Lord Acyuta with devotion."

The glories (of Vaikuṅṭha) make the great souls reject all material results as insignificant.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the great souls here are the devotees, who relish devotional service and have the power to distinguish what is valuable and what is worthless.

When these kinds of devotional service are performed with faith, at a certain time pure love for Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet appears of its own accord.

Text 129

Devotional service performed with love cures the heart-disease that is the desire for other attainments, a disease that prevents the attainment of Vaikuṅṭha.

Text 130

yadyapy etādṛśī bhaktir

yadyapi-although; etādṛśī-like this; bhaktiḥ-devotional service; yatra yatra-wherever; upapadyate-is manifested; tat-tat-sthānam-that place; hi-indeed; vaikuṅṭhaḥ-is Vaikuntha; tatra tatra-there; eva-indeed; saḥ-He; prabhuḥ-the Lord.

Wherever devotional service is performed, that place becomes Vaikuṅṭha. There the Lord stays.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmi explains that this is confirmed by the Lord Himself in these words:

nāhaṁ vasāmi vaikuṅṭhe yogināṁ hṛdaye na ca mad-bhaktā yatra gāyanti
tatra tiṣṭhāmi nārada

"I live neither in Vaikuṅṭha, nor in the yogīs' hearts. O Nārada, I stay where My devotees chant My glories."

tathāpi-still; sarvadā-always; sāksāt-directly; anyatra-in another place; bhagavān-the Lord; tathā-so; na-not; dṛśyeta-is seen; iti-thus; vaikuṅṭhaḥ-Vaikuntha; avaśyam-inevitably; bhaktaiḥ-by the devotees; apeksyate-is in relationship.

Although the Lord is always present in other places, He is not always seen there. The devotees yearn for Vaikuṅṭha because He is always seen there.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord's wonderful handsomeness, virtues, pastimes, sweetness, and other features are not eternally visible in places other than Vaikuṅṭha.

Text 132

sarva-prakārikā bhaktis
tādṛśī ca sadānyataḥ

sarva-prakārikā-all ways; bhaktiḥ-devotional service; tādṛśī-like this; ca-also; sadā-always; anyataḥ-other; na-not; sampadyeta-is attained; nirvighnā-without obstacles; tan-niṣṭhaiḥ-by the faithful; bahubhiḥ-may; saha-with.

The faithful devotees cannot attain this kind of pure devotional service, eternal and without any obstacles, in any other place.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the words "like this" mean "performed with pure love". Because in Vaiṣṇava there are no obstacles presented by material time or other material limitations, the pure devotees there, filled with pure love and manifesting forms of eternity, knowledge, and bliss, engage in pure devotional service eternally. For this reason the devotees aspire to attain Vaiṣṇava.

Do not think devotional service is an activity of the material senses, mind, or body. It is beyond the modes of material nature. It is eternal, spiritual, and full of bliss.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that in the activities of devotional service it is not the material ears and voice that hear and chant the Lord's glories, not the material mind that remembers the Lord, and not the material body that bows down before the Lord or serves Him in other ways.

Text 134

nirguṇe-beyond the modes of nature; sac-cid-ānanda-eternal and full of knowledge and bliss; atmani-in the self; kṛṣṇa-prasādataḥ-from the mercy of lord kṛṣṇa; sphuranti-manifested; vilasati-shines; ātmabhaktānām-of the devotees; bahudhā-in many ways; mude-happily.

To bring happiness to the devotees, devotional service is splendidly manifest by Lord Kṛṣṇa's mercy in many ways to the souls beyond the modes of material nature, who have forms of eternity, knowledge, and bliss.

When, by using proper discrimination, a pure soul goes to Lord Hari's spiritual abode, the many kinds of pure devotional service are splendidly manifest in him.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that proper discrimination is described in Bhagavad-gītā 5.9.

anyathā-otherwise; itara-karmāṇi-other activities; iva-like; ete-they; api-also; syūḥ-are; na-not; saṅgataḥ-from the touch; kāya-of the body; indriya-and senses; ātma-ceṣṭātaḥ-from the activities; jñānena-by knowledge; ātmani-in the self; śodhite-purified.

In a soul by knowledge purified of material actions performed by body or senses, there is no contact with any actions other (than devotional service).

Text 137

anyebhya iva karmebhyo

anyebhyaḥ-from others; iva-like; karmebhyaḥ-actions; bhagavad-bhakti-karmataḥ-from the actions of devotional service to the Lord; viviktaḥ-alone; san-being; katham-how?; yātu-goes; vaikunṭham-to Vaikuntha; muktim-for liberation; arhati-is worthy.

How can a person who remains aloof from the activities of devotional service to the Lord, as if they were like other activities, go to Vaikunṭha? He attains impersonal liberation.

It should not be thought that the activities of devotional service are like other activities. It should not be said, with external vision, that a devotee's body or possessions are like anything else.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.2.35.

bhaktānām-of the devotees; sac-cid-ānanda-eternal and full of knowledge and bliss; rūpeṣu-in forms; aṅga-limbs; indriya-senses; ātmasu-self; ghaṭate-is; svānurūpeṣu-in own forms; vaikuṅthe-in Vaikuntha; anyatra-in another place; ca-and; svataḥ-personally.

Whether in Vaikuṅṭha or in another place, the devotees have forms, limbs, and senses that are eternal and full of knowledge and bliss.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that by the potency of the Lord's mercy a devotee's material body becomes spiritualized.

We ourselves, the Lord's associates in Vaikuṅṭha, who day and night serve Him in many ways and remain untouched by the modes of material natures, are the proof of this.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 7.1.34.

Devotional service lovingly appears before the new devotees because of the actions they perform with their senses.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these are the actions of devotional service, which begin with glorifying the Lord. Devotional service appears before the new devotees to increase their faith.

glorification; prāyam-primarily; viśuddhām-pure; bhaktim-devotion; ācara-do.

To the Lord's beautiful lotus feet always render pure devotional service, which consists mainly of glorifying the holy name.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that glorifying the Lord's holy name quickly brings one to Vaikuṅṭha. Pure devotional service is not mixed with fruitive work (karma), philosophical speculation (jñāna), or anything else.

preṃṇaḥ-of love; antaraṅgam-secret; kila-indeed; sādhanam-method; uttamam-best; manyeta-is thought; kaiścit-by some; smaraṇam-remembering; na-not; kīrtanam-glorifying; eka-on one; indriye-sense; vaci-the voice; vicetane-without thought; sukham-easily; bhaktiḥ-devotional service; sphurati-is manifested; āśu-quickly; hi-indeed; kīrtana-glorification; ātmikā-the self.

Some think that remembering the Lord, not glorifying Him, is the best, most confidential way to attain spiritual love because the devotional service of glorifying the Lord is easily manifested, is done without knowledge, and only appears on one sense: the voice.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is the opinion of Pippalāyana Muni and the other sages in Tapoloka. According to them, because glorifying the Lord is done with one of the working senses (the voice) and not one of the knowledge-acquiring senses, it is done without knowledge. They also say that because glorifying the Lord quickly brings a result, that result, because it is quickly attained, must be inferior.

bhaktiḥ-devotional service; prakṛṣṭā-the best; smaraṇa-ātmikā-in relation to remembering the Lord; asmiṇ-in this; sarvendriyānām-of all the senses; adhipe-in the king; vilole-fickle; ghore-horrible; baliṣṭhe-childish; manasi-in the mind; prayāsaiḥ-with effort; nīte-brought; vaśam-under control; bhāti-is splendidly manifest; viśodhite-purified; yā-which.

The devotional service of remembering the Lord, which appears when the fickle, horrible, childish mind, which is the king of all the senses, is brought under control and purified, is the best.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.23.45 and 11.23.47.

When the voice and the other restless internal and extral senses are controlled, then the mind becomes steady in remembrance of the Lord. Remembrance of the Lord is the result of this endeavor. This is the opinion of they who are attached to meditating on the Lord. They who have faith in meditation employ only the mind in remembering the Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these and the following verses present the opinion of they who are attached to meditation. They think that remembering the Lord is the result obtained by glorifying the Lord. The external senses begin with the ears and the internal senses begin with the mind. The mind may be controlled either by observing a vow of silence or by actively glorifying the Lord.

Although all the Lord's names are equally glorious, by chanting the names that are dear to the devotees one quickly and easily attains his desire.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that there are no gradations of higher and lower in the Lord's names. All are unlimitedly glorious. Some names, however, are especially dear to the devotees. This is described in these words:

sahasra-nāmaḥis tulyaṁ
rāma-nāma varānane

"O beautiful-faced Pārvatī, the holy name of Lord Rāma is equal to a thousand other names of the Lord."

It is said that chanting the holy name is a great treasure of love for Lord Kṛṣṇa. It is the best and most powerful spiritual practice. It is like the best mantra.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the glories of chanting the holy name are described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.2.39-40.

icchā-of desire; vaśāt-by the power; pāpam-sin; upāsakānām-of the worshipers; kṣīyeta-is destroyed; bhoga-enjoyment; unmukham-eager; api-although; amusmāt-from that; prārabdha-begun; mātram-only; bhavati-is; itareṣām-of others; karma-work; avasiṣṭam-remaining; tad-avaśya-inevitable; bhogyam-to be enjoyed.

The karmic reactions of they who worship (the holy name) are destroyed as much as they could wish. Others, however, must still experience their karma.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in the Hari-bhakti-sudhodaya, where the Lord says:

karma-cakraṁ tu yat proktaṁ

mahāśayāḥ-great souls; ye-who; hari-nāma-sevakāḥ-the servants of Lord Hari's holy name; su-gopya-very confidential; tad-bhakti-of His devotional service; mahā-nidheḥ-of the great treasure; svayam-personally; prakāśa-of manifestation; bhītyā-with fear; vyavahāra-of activities; bhaṅgibhiḥ-with deception; sva-doṣa-own faults; duḥkhāni-sufferings; anudarśayanti-see; te-they.

Afraid to reveal the secret treasure of devotional service, the holy name's exalted servants pretend that they themselves are also suffering because of their own fault.

tan-nāma-saṅkīrtana-mātrataḥ-only by chanting the holy names; akhilāḥ-all; bhaktāḥ-devotees; hareḥ-of Lord Hari; syūr-are; hata-duḥkha-duṣanāḥ-free from sufferings; kecit-some; tathāpi-nevertheless; prabhuvat-like the Lord; kṛpa-ākulāḥ-merciful; lokān-to the people; sad-ācāram-good conduct; imam-this; praśāsati-teach.

Simply by chanting the holy name, all Lord Hari's devotees are free of sins and sufferings. However, some devotees who are merciful as the Lord is, teach the people of the world to act rightly.

duḥsaṅga-of bad association; doṣam-the fault; bharata-adayāḥ-beginning with King Bharata; yathā-as; durdūta-doṣam-ther fault of gambling; ca-and; yudhiṣṭhira-ādayāḥ-beginning with Yudhisthira; brahma-sva-bhītim-fear of taking a brahmana's property; ca-and; nṛga-ādayāḥ-beginning with King Nṛga; amalāḥ-pure; pradarśayan-showing; sva-vyavahārataḥ-by their own actions; janān-the people.

As King Bharata and others showed the fault of bad association, as King Yudhiṣṭhira and others showed it is a mistake to gamble, and as King Nṛga and others showed the fearful danger of stealing from a brāhmaṇa, by their own actions, these pure souls teach the people.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that King Bharata became degraded by becoming attached to a fawn.

The Lord's form is real. It is eternal and full of knowledge and bliss. This form of eternity, knowledge, and bliss can be seen only with proper senses. Still, by the power of the Lord's mercy He can be seen even by eyes of matter. Thus, either by one's own power, or His mercy, the Lord may be seen.

prabhoḥ-of the Lord; kṛpā-of mercy; pūra-a flood; balena-by the power; bhakteḥ-of devotional service; prabhāvataḥ-by the power; vā-or; khalu-indeed; darśanam-sight; syāt-is; ataḥ-then; paricchinna-limited; dṛśā-with vision; api-also; siddhyet-may be perfect; nirantaram-always; tat-that; manasā-by the mind; iva-as if; samyāk-perfectly.

By the power of a flood of His mercy, or by the power of devotional service, the Lord may be seen. Even with limited, material eyes He may be seen perfectly and always, as He is seen by the mind.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these words refute Pippalāyana Muni, who said that with the naturally limited material eyes one may sometimes see the Lord, and sometimes not see Him, and only with the subtle mind is one able to see the Lord always and without impediment. The conclusion is that by the Lord's mercy, or by devotional service, one is able to see the Lord always and without impediment.

If (the power of the Lord's mercy or the power of devotional service) is not (present), then it is not possible to see the self-manifest Lord in one's heart. Only when He is worshiped does the intensely blissful Lord give bliss.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord is supremely independent. He appears only by His own wish. Therefore He is called self-manifest.

dr̥gbhyām-with the two eyes; prabhoḥ-of the Lord; darśanataḥ-from the sight; hi-indeed; sarvataḥ-everywhere; tat-tat-prasāda-āvali-labdhiḥ-the attainment of His mercy; ikṣyate-is seen; sarva-adhikam-better than everything; sāndra-intense; sukham-happiness; ca-also; jāyate-is born; sādhyam-the goal; tat-that; eva-indeed; śravaṇa-ādi-beginning with hearing; bhaktitaḥ-from devotional service.

By seeing the Lord with one's eyes, one obtains the Lord's great mercy. This is seen everywhere. By hearing about the Lord and serving Him in other ways one can attain the supremely blissful goal (of seeing Him).

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this and the following two verses declare that seeing the Lord directly is better than seeing Him in meditation. Kardama Muni and Dhruva Mahārāja are examples of devotees who by seeing the Lord obtained His mercy. Pippalāyana Muni may say that Lord Brahmā saw the Lord in a trance of meditation and obtained His mercy in that way. To this it is replied that Lord Brahmā is an exception here. The other ways of serving the Lord mentioned here include glorifying the Lord and remembering Him. As one of the activities of devotional service, remembering the Lord in meditation also leads to the result of directly seeing Him.

sarveṣām-of all; sādhanānām-methods; tat-sākṣāt-kāraḥ-directly seeing; hi-indeed; sat-phalam-the best result; tadā-then; eva-indeed; āmūlataḥ-from the root; māyā-illusion; naśyetaḥ-perishes; prema-love; api-also; vardhate-expands.

Directly seeing (the Lord) is the best result of all kinds of spiritual practices. (By seeing Him) illusion perishes at its root and spiritual love (for Him) grows.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.2.21.

kāyādhavā-ādeḥ-beginning with Prahāda, the son of Kayādhū; hṛdi-in the heart; paśyataḥ-seeing; api-also; prabhum-the Lord; sadā-always; akṣnā-with the eyes; kila-indeed; tad-didr̥kṣā-the desire to see Him; tatra-there; pramāṇam-evidence; hi-indeed; tathā-so; avalokāt-the sight; anantaram-after; bhāva-love; viśeṣa-specific; lābhaḥ-attainemnt.

Although Prahāda and other devotees always saw the Lord in their hearts, they still yearned to see Him directly. The proof of this is that after directly seeing the Lord, their love for Him increased.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is proven by the Hari-bhakti-sudhodaya's description of Prahāda's attaining great love for the Lord by seeing Him on the ocean's shore.

kṛṣṇasya-of Lord Kṛṣṇa; sākṣāt-directly; api-even; jāyate-is born; yat-which; keṣāñcit-of some; akṣi-of eyes; dvaya-pair; mīlana-closing; ādi-beginning; dhyānam-meditation; na-not; tat-that; kintu-however; mudam-happiness; bhareṇawith an abundance; kampā-trembling; ādi-beginning with; vat-like; prema-of love; vikārah-ecstatic transformation; eṣaḥ-this.

(Someone may say that) sometimes the devotees close their eyes (in meditation) when they directly see the Lord. (To this it is answered) that this is not meditation, but it is like trembling or other symptoms of ecstatic love.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that someone may quote the description of the four Kumāras' closing their eyes when they saw Lord Nārāyaṇa in Vaikuṅṭha (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.15.44). However, they did not close their eyes in order to meditate on the Lord, but rather because they were overcome with ecstatic love.

dhyānam-meditation; parokṣe-when invisible; yujyeta-is proper; na-not; tu-but; sākṣāt-directly; mahā-prabhoḥ-of the Lord; aparokṣe-in the presence; parokṣe-in invisibility; api-also; yuktam-proper; saṅkīrtanam-glorifying; sadā-always.

Meditation is proper when the Lord cannot be seen, but not when He can be seen. Whether the Lord is seen or not, glorifying Him is always proper.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that glorifying the Lord when He is not present is described in the account of the rāsa-dance in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (10.33.7). It is also described in Viṣṇu Purāṇa in these words:

jagau gopījanas tv ekaṁ

"(Bereft of His company), the gopīs sang Lord Kṛṣṇa's name again and again."

sādhu kṛṣṇeti kṛṣṇeti

"(Bereft of His company), the gopīs called out: O Kṛṣṇa! O Kṛṣṇa!"

The Lord's beautiful name, which is more dear even than His beautiful Deity form, is auspicious for the world, is easily worshiped, and is full of nectar. Nothing is equal to it.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.14.15.

Śrī Gopa-kumāra said: Drinking this nectar for my ears, I became filled with bliss. I bowed down to them and to Lord Śiva and Goddess Pārvatī, and then I was suddenly in the land of Vraja. At this my intelligence was bewildered.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the statement that Gopa-kumāra was bewildered means that he was either surprised or full of joy.

Chapter Four: Vaikuṅṭha

Śrī Gopa-kumāra said: Wandering alone as I lived in the forest, when I saw the beauty of that land, a beauty never before seen, I forgot everything as if I were under a spell.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this statement shows that the land of Vraja is more glorious than any other place in the material or spiritual worlds. Its beauty is so great it made Gopa-kumāra completely forget the realm of Vaikuṅṭha.

I respectfully bowed before them. They embraced me and again and again reassured me. With a hundred reasons they wished to give me a form like theirs.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that they wished to give him a four-armed form. "A human form is not appropriate in Vaikuṅṭha. In such a form you will not be happy there", is an example of one of the reasons they gave.

Traveling with them to Vaikuṅṭha on a blissful, inconceivable, supernatural path, I became embarrassed when I glanced at the different planets and the coverings of the universe. With folded hands and bent heads, the rulers of the planets eagerly worshiped me with showers of flowers. As they praised me with words of "Glory!" and as they bowed before me at every step, I saw insignificant impersonal liberation before me, and then, going above it, went to Śivaloka.

brahmāṇḍa-of universes; śata-of hundreds; bhūti-opulences; ādhyā-wealthy; sad-a transcendental; yāna-airplane; ārūḍham-riding; adbhutaḥ-with wonderful; gīta-songs; ādibhiḥ-beginning with; mudā-with happiness; āviṣṭam-filled; kānti-splendor; ādyaiḥ-beginning with; sādṛśam-like; prabhoḥ-the Lord.

He was on a transcendental airplane that was rich with the opulences of hundreds of universes. Singing wonderful songs and (glorifying the Lord in) many other ways, he was filled with happiness. His splendid handsomeness and other features were like the Lord's.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word "ādibhiḥ" here means "chanting, acting in dramatic performances, and glorifying the Lord in other ways". The word "kānti" here means that His bodily complexion was dark and His features were like the Lord's. The word "ādyaiḥ" here means that his youthful ornaments, bracelets, handsomeness, and other features were like the Lord's.

All their limbs decorated the decorations they wore. They were glorious as the Lord Himself. Bowing down and reciting prayers, they acted wonderfully. They enjoyed a wonder of great pastimes, as emperors do. They yearned to see the lotus feet of the Lord, the goddess of fortune's husband.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that their handsomeness and other virtues were like those of the Lord of Vaikuṅṭha Himself. Their wonderful activities included chanting and dancing. As an emperor's doorkeepers and other servants eat, drink, and enjoy in royal style, so did they.

tātratyānām-of they who live there; ca-also; sarveṣām-of all; teṣām-them; sāmyaṁ-equality; parasparam-mutual; tāratamyam-gradations of higher and lower; ca-also; lakṣyeta-seen; na-not; virodhaḥ-contradiction; tathāpi-nevertheless; ca-also.

The residents of Vaikuṅṭha are all equal. Then again, among them there are gradations of higher and lower. There is not contradiction in this.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that although the residents of Vaikuṅṭha have different powers and opulences, each, according to his own desire, employs all his powers and opulences in serving the Lord.

Text 45

For them there is no envy nor any other fault. They have thousands of natural, eternal, transcendental virtues.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described by Lord Brahmā in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.15.18-19.

Text 46

prapañca-the material world; antaḥ-gatāḥ-gone within; bhoga-to material enjoyment; parāḥ-intent; viṣayinaḥ-in the realm of the sense objects; yathā-as; bahiḥ-external; dṛṣṭyā-with vision; tathā-so; ikṣyante-are seen; te-they; hi-indeed; mukta-by the liberated souls; arcita-worshiped; aṅghrayaḥ-their feet.

Although in external vision they may be seen as materialists eager for material pleasure, the liberated souls worship their feet.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.15.17 and 3.15.20.

Text 47

Although they never accept material forms, they do playfully manifest many wonderful forms appropriate for the Lord's pastimes.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that they do this to please the Lord.

Text 48

ataḥ-then; te-they; anyonyam-together; ekatvam-oneness; gatāḥ-attained; api-although; pṛthag-vidhaḥ-different; tat-sthānam-that place; saḥ-that; vimāna-ughas-with many airplanes; tātratyam-there; sarvam-everything; īdṛśam-like this.

Although they are different, they all have the same nature. That place, its many airplanes, and everything there, are all like that.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that in Vaikuṅṭha everything is eternal and full of knowledge and bliss. Because everything there is spiritual, it is, in one sense, all one. Still, variety is manifested as a natural feature of the Lord's pastimes. In this way everything there is simultaneously one and different.

Text 49

With power given by the Lord, this place can be understood to a certain extent. It cannot be understood in any other way. The material mind has no power to grasp the truth of it.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that because it is spiritual, it cannot be understood by the material mind.

Text 51

Self-satisfied impersonalists, whose desires are all fulfilled, and who have renounced everything, when they have the association of Vaiṣṇavas give up everything they have learned and attained, and, understanding what is really valuable and what is worthless, enter the path of devotional service. I have personally seen this very clearly.

At a certain time they all left. By the goddess of fortune's order they took me outside, although I was not willing to go.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this was the time for the Lord to take His meal.

The devotees do not take these disguises of the Lord very seriously. In the beginning of devotional service it may be right, but we do not glorify the Lord in that way.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 2.7.53.

Text 105

teṣu-in them; eva-indeed; kecit-some; avadan-said; durbodha-difficult to understand; caritasya-pastimes; hi-certainly; līlā-pastimes; ekā-sole; sā-that; api-also; tat-that; tasya-of Him; na-not; doṣaḥ-fault; kīrtane-in glorifying; mataḥ-is thought.

Then some of them said: The Lord, whose pastimes are difficult to understand, has pastimes like that. There is no fault in glorifying Him in that way.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that pastimes discussed here are pastimes like the Lord's protecting the cows. These pastimes are not like His creation of the material universes. They have no contact with the illusory potency māyā. Someone here may protest: "When the Lord protects the cows sometimes He is stung by brambles as He wanders in the forest. What kind of happy pastime is that?" This objection is answered here by the word "durbodha-caritasya". Because the Lord is the supreme controller, it is not possible to understand His activities perfectly.

Then some great souls rebuked them all and said: Ah! Why do you speak as fools? Out of love for His devotees, Lord Kṛṣṇa will do anything. Glorifying His deeds is a great virtue. It pleases the Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord Himself says:

mad-bhaktānām vinodārtham
karomi vividhāḥ kriyaḥ

"To enjoy pastimes with My devotees I act in many ways."

Then I saw the Lord of Vaikuṅṭha, who is the crest-jewel of the all-knowing, become Kṛṣṇa, the joy of Nanda. I saw Lakṣmī and Dharā become Rādhikā and Candrāvalī and the Lord's associates become the boys of Vraja.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this was not a vision in meditation. Gopakumāra actually saw this.

According to the specific form and nature of the Supreme Lord that they worship meditate on as their beloved, the devotees attain a form like the Lord's. In this way they manifest many different forms and opulences. They have forms like the Lord's incarnations as humans, sages, demigods, and philosophers, and as the Lord's incarnations as Matsya, Kūrma, Varāha, Nṛsiṃha, Vāmana, Śiva, Brahmā, Indra, Śeṣa, Sūrya, Indu, Vāyu, Vahni, and many other forms. They also attain four-handed forms, and still other forms, with the specific garments and features of the Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the devotees' attaining a form like the Lord's is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 2.9.11. The Lord's human forms include Lord Rāmacandra, His sage forms include Lord Kapila, His demigod forms include Lord Satyasena, and His philosopher forms include Lord Paraśurāma.

The form and features of the Lord one worshiped in worshipping Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet one attains when he enters Vaikuṅṭha at the end. All those features of the Lord become dear to him. These nectar mellows of the Lord please him.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the forms and features of the Lord are the Lord's incarnations, such as Lord Rāmacandra and Lord Kapila. By worshipping Them in the material world one is able to see Them in Vaikuṅṭha. The words "at the end" here mean "at the end of one's stay in the cycle of repeated birth and death". The word "rasena" means "by engaging in the different kinds of devotional service, which begin with glorifying the Lord".

All who devotedly chant the eight-syllable mantra and other mantras glorifying the goddess of fortune's husband attain Vaikuṅṭha at the body's end.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described by Parāśara Muni in the Viṣṇu Purāṇa:

gatvā gatvā nivartante
candra-sūryādayo grahāḥ
adyāpi na nivartante dvādaśākṣara-cintakāḥ

They who attain the sun, the moon, and the other celestial planets again return to the lower worlds, but they who meditate on the twelve-syllable mantra never return.

They attain as much happiness as they could wish, a happiness greater than they had known before. Because they taste different kinds of the nectar of devotional service, they are different, being more or less advanced in devotional service.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word "rasa" here means the different kinds of devotional service, which begin with hearing and chanting the glories of the Lord.

The Lord happily appears as Nara and Nārāyaṇa Ṛṣis, Dattātreyā, Paraśurāma, Kapila, and other incarnations, all of them jewels decorating the earth. In Svargaloka and other celestial worlds He appears as Viṣṇu the Lord of sacrifices, and other incarnations you have personally seen. He also appears as Matysa, Kūrma, Mahā-Varāha, Śrīmān Nṛsimha, Vāmana, and many other incarnations, all bearing different names, all with forms of eternity, knowledge and bliss, and all simultaneously different and eternally one.

nānātvam-the state of being different; eṣām-of them; ca-also; kadāpi-sometimes; māyikam-illusory; na-not; jīva-of the individual spirit souls; nānātvam-the state of being different; iva-like; pratīyatām-is considered; tat-His; cit-spiritual; vilāsa-pastimes; ātmaka-own; śakti-potency; darśitam-revealed; nānā-vidha-various; upāsaka-of worshipers; citra-various; bhāva-nature; jam-born.

That these incarnations of the Lord are different persons is an illusion. They are not different persons as the individual spirit souls are different persons. The Lord's potency shows His incarnations to be different persons so He can enjoy different transcendental pastimes. The devotees are different persons because that is their actual nature.

The variety of the Lord's forms is not like the sun's reflections on the water. The Lord's forms are like the sun shining as one in the sky but seen as many by people in different places.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that a person in one place sees the sun as shining near a certain tree and another person in a different place far away sees the same sun as shining near a different tree. In this way the two persons see the same sun to be present in two different places. They see two different suns although only one sun shines in the sky. This example shows how the one Supreme Lord is seen as having different forms and characteristics.

As transcendental knowledge as the bliss it brings are simultaneously the same and different, so the Supreme Lord and His many incarnations are simultaneously the same and different. That is clearly so.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the spiritual nature of the Lord's incarnations is described in the Varāha Purāṇa:

na tasya prākṛtā mūrtir māmsa-medo-sthi-sambhavā

na yogitvād īśvaratvāt
satya-rūpo 'cyuto vibhuḥ

"The Lord's form is not material. It is not made of flesh, fat, and bones. Because He is neither a yogī nor a demigod, the infallible Supreme Lord has an eternal spiritual form."

The Mahā-varāha Purāṇa explains:

sarve nityāḥ śāśvatās ca
dehās tasya parātmanaḥ hānopadāna-rahitā
naiva praktijā kvacit

"The transcendental forms of the Supreme Personality of Godhead are eternal and imperishable. They were not created at a certain point, and they are never to be destroyed. They are not products of the material energy.

evam-thus; vicitra-in different; deśeṣu-places; svapnāt-from a dream; avāpya-attaining; anekadhā-in many ways; dṛśyamānasya-seen; kṛṣṇasya-of Lord Kṛṣṇa; pārśadānam-of the associates; padasya-of the abode; ca-and; ekatvam-oneness; api-also; anekatvam-variety; satyatvam-eternality; ca-and; su-saṅgatam-associated; ekasmin-in one; toṣite-pleased; rūpe-form; sarvam-all; tat-that; tasya-of Him; tuṣyati-is pleased.

As in a dream one may go to different places, so Lord Kṛṣṇa, His associates, and His abode are seen as many although they are also one. The variety and the oneness are both true. When one form of Lord Kṛṣṇa is pleased, then all His forms become pleased.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that by worshiping one form of Lord Kṛṣṇa all His forms are also worshiped.

As Lord Kṛṣṇa (expands in many incarnations) so does Goddess Mahā-Lakṣmī, His eternal beloved, whose form is filled with eternity, knowledge, and bliss.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Viṣṇu Purāṇa:

nityaiva sā jagan-mātā viṣṇoḥ śrīr anapāyinī
yathā sarva-gato viṣṇus tathaveyam dvijottama

"O best of the brāhmaṇas, Lord Viṣṇu's transcendental potency, Śrīmatī Lakṣmī-devī, is His constant faithful companion. She is eternal and she is the mother of the entire material universe. She is all-pervading, just as Lord Viṣṇu is."

devatve deva-deheyam

She is like a great mystic perfection among the other goddesses of fortune. She is the queen of all opulences. As the giver of material opulences, she is neglected by the devotees, the liberated, and they who aspire for liberation.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that because the sense pleasures that come from material opulences obstruct the path of liberation and spiritual advancement, the transcendentalists neglect this feature of the goddess of fortune.

Sometimes she is called Mahā-vibhūti, sometimes Yoga, and sometimes Yogamāyā.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that some of the names of Goddess Yogamāyā are given in the in the Mahā-saṁhitā:

śrī-bhū-durgeti yā bhinnā jīvamāyā mahātmanaḥ ātmamāyā tad-icchā syād guṇamāyā jaḍātmikā

"The goddess that fulfills the Lord's desires, is known as Śrī, Bhū, Durgā, Jīvamāyā, Atmamāyā, Guṇamāyā, and Jaḍātmikā."

The Skanda Purāṇa explains:

māyāmayety avidyety niyatir mohinīti ca
prakṛtir vasanety evaṁ tavecchānanta kathyate

"O limitless Lord, the potency that fulfills Your desire is called Māyāmayā, Avidyā, Niyati, Mohinī, Prakṛti, and Vasana."

Kṛṣṇa, whose form contains all incarnations, is glorious with many opulences, which are greater than all others and which described by the word "bhaga".

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Lord Kṛṣṇa many limitless and extraordinary opulences are described in this verse, which uses the word "bhaga":

aiśvaryasya samagrasya
vīryasya yaśasaḥ śriyaḥ
jñāna-vairāgyayoś cāpi

nārāyaṇāt-from Lord Nārāyaṇa; api-also; avatāra-of an incarnation; bhāve-the nature; samvyājyamānaiḥ-manifested; madhuraiḥ-sweet; manojñaiḥ-beautiful; tat-prema-bhakti-with loving devotion; ardra-melting; hṛt-by the heart; eka-only; vedyaiḥ-to be known; māhātmya-vargaiḥ-with many glories; vividhaiḥ-various; viśiṣṭaḥ-distinguished.

Even if He is considered an incarnation, His many sweet and charming glories, which can be understood only by they whose hearts melt with love and devotion for Him, make Lord Kṛṣṇa better than Nārāyaṇa.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that someone may protest: "Lord Nārāyaṇa is the source of all incarnations. How can Kṛṣṇa be more glorious than He?" This verse answers that protest.

dūra-pārsva-sthatādinā

bhajana-of worship; ānanda-of bliss; sāmye-in equality; api-also; bhedaḥ-distinction; kaścit-by some; prakalpyate-is considered; bāhya-external; āntarīṇa-and internal; bhāvena-by the condition; dūra-far away; pārsva-by the side; sthatā-standing; ādinā-beginning with.

Although the bliss of serving the Lord is the same in all circumstances, some think it different to perform open or confidential service, or to be far from the Lord or standing by His side, or in some other place.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the phrase "some other place" here means to join the Lord in His pastimes in the material world, and sometimes to have and sometimes not to have His association.

Text 196

yadyapy eṣāṁ hi nityatvāt

yadyapi-although; eṣāṁ-of them; hi-indeed; nityatvāt-because of being eternal; sāmyam-equality; bhagavataḥ-of the Lord; bhavet-is; sevyā-of the served; sevakatā-and the servant; api-also; aste-is; nityā-eternal; satyā-real; sva-bhāvataḥ-according to one's own nature.

Although, because they are both eternal, they are like the Lord, their natural relationship with Him, where He is the served and they are His servants is both real and eternal.

Even if He were not the origin of all incarnations, and even if He were the same as all incarnations, who are eternal and full of bliss and knowledge, Śrī Kṛṣṇa would still be distinguished by His very sweet glories.

Some say that Śrī Kṛṣṇa, whose form is eternal and full of knowledge and bliss is the Supreme Brahman and all others are His spiritual, liberated associates.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the "all others" here are the devotees headed by Śeṣa and Garuḍa. The word "liberated" here means "they who have attained Vaikuṅṭha".

By renouncing everything and worshipping the Deity what mistake is done? When the Deity is worshiped one becomes aware of a great gain.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the “everything” here is material piety, fruitive work, yoga, and other things like them.

Why, then, do we hear from the Purāṇas so many statements contradicting this? These statements cannot be rejected as evidence, for they have come from the mouths of great souls.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī gives Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.2.47, 3.29.22, and 3.29.24 as examples of scriptural statements that minimize the importance of Deity worship.

Śrī Nārada said: I have already explained that the Deity forms of the Lord are the same as the Lord Himself. Deity worship is very glorious. They who, aware that the Deity is the Lord Himself, worship the Deity, even though they neglect other duties, and even though their worship is not sincere, do not fall down. They have no faults. Their merits are very great. their devotional service is thought to be the greatest. They attain a very great result.

so.

By seeing the Deity, by worshiping Tulasī, or by once chanting or hearing even the reflection of the holy name, one may attain perfection.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the worship of Tulasī begins with watering her and bowing down to offer respects to her.

They who, seeing the Deity as different from the Lord Himself and thinking the Deity as made of stone or some other material, worship the Deity of Lord Hari, do not respect the Lord's devotees. Disrespectful to all, and proud of their worship, they rebel against the Lord's commandments in the Vedas.

They are the least of all the devotees. Their intelligence is slow. They do not find the fruits of their worship.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that they are described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.2.47 and 9.7.11.

Although the transcendental fruit of their Deity-worship is greater than the fruits of all ordinary pious deeds, they do not attain the real fruit that comes from service to the Lord. For this reason the saintly devotees criticize their method of worship in different ways and in different places.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the real fruits of devotional service are love for Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, attainment of Lord Kṛṣṇa's planet, seeing the Lord, and enjoying pastimes with Him.

bhakti-prabhāvena-by the power of devotional service; योग्यam-proper; vindanti-they find; tat-phalam-the fruit.

After enjoying what they desired, materialistic devotees, by the power of their devotional service, in time attain the real fruit of their service.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that material sense gratification is insignificant in comparison to the result obtained by devotional service.

Text 222

Because in this way one does not immediately attain the fruit of devotional service, the pure devotees criticize the first result of the materialistic devotees' efforts.

The fruits of all other desires are very insignificant in comparison. Liberation is easily attained, but devotional service is not.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 5.6.18.

manye-I think; mahā-preṣṭhajana-the very dear devotees; auvaśyata-being under the control; na-not; duḥkha-of unhappiness; doṣau-the fault; vidadhīta-is placed; kaucana-some; kintu-however; pramodaṁ-happiness; nija-own; bhakta-devotees; vatsalatva-love; ādīn-beginning with; mahā-great; kīrti-glory; guṇān-virtues; tanoti-grants; sā-it.

I think that being under the control of His dear devotees is not a fault for the Lord. Neither does it make Him unhappy. It brings Him happiness. It increases His glories, which begin with His love for His devotees.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that in the previous verses Nārada Muni has been relating the opinions of others. In this verse he gives his own opinion.

sa-prema-bhakteḥ-loving devotion; paripākataḥ-in fullness; syāt-is; kācit-something; mahā-bhāva-viśeṣa-sampat-the opulence of great love; saḥ-that; vai-indeed; narīṇarti-eternally dances; mahā-prahaṛṣa-of great happiness; samrājya-of the kingdom; mūrdha-the head; upari-above; tattva-of the truth; dṛṣṭyā-with the sight.

From the perfection of loving devotion comes great ecstatic love. Gazing at the truth, that love eternally dances in the kingdom of great bliss.

Although externally this ecstatic love may show signs of great suffering, (this suffering is not real, for the Lord) would never allow His dearest devotees to suffer in that way.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these devotees experience great bliss, a bliss that eclipses the happiness of Brahman.

sa-premakā-with love; bhaktiḥ-devotion; atīva-durlabhā-very rare; svarga-ādi-beginning with Svargaloka; bhogāḥ-enjoyment; sulabhāḥ-easy to attain; abhavaḥ-being; ca-and; saḥ-that; cintāmaṇiḥ-a cintamani jewel; sarva-janaiḥ-by all people; na-not; labhyate-is obtained; labhyeta-may be obtained; kāca-with glass; ādi-beginning; kadāpi-sometimes; hātakam-gold.

Loving devotion is very difficult to attain and the pleasures of Svargaloka and other celestial planets are very easy to attain. Common people cannot attain a cintāmaṇi jewel, although they may attain a glass, or sometimes a golden trinket.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that in this example the cintāmaṇi jewel is loving devotion, the glass trinket is the pleasures of Svargaloka, and the golden trinket is impersonal liberation.

loka-bāhyāya dhimate

kadācit-sometimes; eva-indeed; kasmaicit-to someone; tad-eka-ārtha-sprhāvate-who wishes something specific; tam-that; dadyāt-gives; bhagavān-the Lord;

bhaktim-devotional service; loka-to the world; bāhyāya-external; dhimate-intelligent.

Sometimes, to a wise and extraordinary person who wishes it alone, the Lord gives devotional service.

śakyam na tad-bhāva-viśeṣa-tattvam nirvaktum asmābhir atho na योग्यम् bhakti-pravṛtṭy-artha-paraiḥ prabhoḥ sacchāstrair ivājñeṣu viruddhavat syāt

śakyam-is able; na-not; tad-bhāva-viśeṣa-tattvam-the nature of that love; nirvaktum-to be described; asmābhiḥ-by us; athaḥ-then; na-not; योग्यम्-is suitable; bhakti-pravṛtṭi-artha-paraiḥ-by they who are devoted to the activities of devotional service; prabhoḥ-of the Lord; sac-śāstraiḥ-by the transcendental scriptures; iva-as if; ajñeṣu-to the fools; viruddhavat-like the prohibition; syāt-is.

We are not able, nor is it proper for us, to describe the nature of this ecstatic love, in the same way as it is not proper for the scriptures that describe the activities of the Lord's service to describe it to fools.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the nature of ecstatic love is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.2.40.

tad-bhāvotkarṣa-mādhuryam viduḥ tad-rasa-sevinaḥ tatrātyas tvam api jñāsyasi acirāt tat-prasādataḥ

tad-bhāva-of that love; utkarṣa-greatness; mādhuryam-sweetness; viduḥ-understand; tad-rasa-sevinaḥ-they who serve the mellows of devotional service; tatrātyaḥ-there; tvam-you; api-also; jñāsyasi-will know; acirāt-quickly; tat-prasādataḥ-by their mercy.

They who serve the mellows of devotional service understand the sweetness and glory of that ecstatic love. By the Lord's mercy you, staying there, will also quickly understand it.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the phrase “staying there” means “staying in the land of Gokula”.

brūve-I speak.

Śrī Nārada said: Although this great secret should not be told in this place, made talkative by your anxiety, I will speak.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that "in this place" means "here in beloved Lord; bhaja-worship; dṛśā-with a glance.

Not far from here, Lord Rāmacandra's city of Ayodhyā is splendidly manifest.
Far from that, the city of Dvārakā, which is like the beautiful and charming city of Mathurā and is very dear to Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the Yadus, is splendidly manifest. Go there, and with a glance worship your beloved Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Hari-varṇā affirms that Dvārakā is like Mathurā.

sītā-of Sītā; pate-O Lord; śrī-raghunātha-O Lord of the Raghus; lakṣmaṇa-of Lakṣmaṇa; jyeṣṭha-O elder brother; prabhaḥ-O Lord; śrī-hanumat-of Śrī Hanumān; priya-dear; īśvara-O Lord; iti-thus; ādikam-beginning; kīrtaya-glorify; veda-śāstrataḥ-from the Vedic scriptures; khyātam-famous; smaran-remembering; tat-of Him; guṇa-qualities; rūpa-form; vaibhavam-and opulence.

As you meditate on His form, virtues, and opulences, which are all described in the Vedas, glorify Him, beginning with the words: "O husband of Sītā, O glorious Lord of the Raghus, O elder brother of Lakṣmaṇa, O Lord, O dear master of Śrī Hanumān!"

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that some other names used to glorify Lord Rāma are: "O delight of Kauśalyā! O son of Daśaratha! O elder brother of Bharata! O friend of Sugrīva!" Lord Rāma's virtues begin with His shyness and humbleness, and His form, holding a bow in the hands of His strong arms, is very handsome.

As they tugged at my flute, I went with them. Then I saw human beings more handsome than the Lord's associates in Vaikuṅṭha.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the residents of Vaikuṅṭha had four-armed forms like that of Lord Nārāyaṇa. These humans had forms like that of Lord Rāma.

Seeing glorious Bharata comfortably sitting with Śatrughna, many charming human beings, and monkeys headed by Sugrīva, Aṅgada, and Jambavān, and thinking Bharata was Lord Rāmacandra Himself, I began to glorify Him with many prayers. He at once covered His ears, and saying again and again that He is only a servant, forbade me to continue.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Gopa-kumāra said: "O king of kings, O Lord of the Raghu dynasty, O beloved of Sitā, glories to You!" That Gopa-kumāra mistook Bharata for Lord Rāma proves that Bharata is like Rāma, Bharata's wife is like Siā-devī, and Śatrughna is like Lakṣmaṇa.

gopa-bālaka-veśena-with the appearance and dress of a cowherd boy; svakīyena-own; eva-indeed; pūrvavat-as before; kiyantam-how much?; nyavasam-I resided; kālam-time; tatra-there; ānanda-bhara-with great bliss; arditāḥ-overcome.

In the form and garments of a cowherd boy as before, for how long a time did I stay there, overcome with bliss?

Śrīla Gosvāmī explains that the meaning of this rhetorical question is that he stayed in Ayodhyā only very briefly, although while he was there he was overcome with bliss by drinking the nectar of Lord Rāmacandra's lotus feet.

There were other queens also, headed by Queen Rohiṇī, very qualified in all ways and served by maidservants like them.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these were the queens rescued from the palace of Narakāsura. The most important of them was named Rohiṇī, who is mentioned in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.61.18.

kumāra-varḡair api śobhito 'viśat prāsādam ātmīyam athāsanottame nihnutya bhāvam niṣaśāda hr̥ṣṭavat tābhyām-with the two men; amūbhiḥ-with the many women; ca-and; sa-with;

lajjam-shyness; āvṛtaḥ-accompanied; kumāra-varḡaiḥ-by children; api-and;
śobhitaḥ-splendid; aśat-entered; prāsādam-palace; ātmīyam-own; atha-then; āsanottame-on the throne; nihnutya-concealing; bhāvam-His condition; niṣaśādasat; hr̥ṣṭavat-happily.

Glorious with the two men, the many shy women, and a host of children, the Lord entered His palace and, concealing the real condition of His heart, happily sat on the throne.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord was thinking of Gokula.

gopārbha-varḡair iva bhūṣitaṁ tv ahaṁ paśyan samakṣaṁ dhṛta-veṇum ātmano dhyeyaṁ punar harṣa-bhareṇa mohitaḥ

tam-Him; śrī-yaśodā-Śrī Yaśodā; akhila-all; gopa-sundarī-the beautiful gopīs; gopārbha-vargaiḥ-with the cowherd boys; iva-as if; bhūṣitam-decorated; tu-indeed; aham-I; paśyan-seeing; samakṣam-before the eyes dhṛta-holding; veṇum-a flute; ātmanah-of the self; dhyeyam-to be meditated on; punaḥ-again; harṣa-bhareṇa-with great happiness; mohitaḥ-fainted.

Then, first in meditation and then directly before my eyes, seeing the Lord holding a flute and decorated with all the cowherd boys and the gopīs headed by Yaśodā, I fainted in ecstasy.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord became Madana-gopāla. No longer was He the king of Dvārakā. The flute He held in His lotus hand was the same flute He had taken from Gopa-kumāra's hand. Queen Devakī became like Yaśodā, the queens became like the gopīs, Pradyumna, Sāmba, and the other boys became like the cowherd boys. Balarāma's mother, Rohiṇī, remained as before.

svayam samutthāya sa nanda-nandanaḥ karāmbuja-sparśa-balena me 'karot prabodham aṅgāni muhur vimārjayan

kṛpā-bhara-with great compassion; vyagra-agitated; manaḥ-mind; sa-sambhramam-quickly; svayam-personally; samutthāya-rising; saḥ-He; nanda-nandanaḥ-the son of nanda; karāmbuja-of the lotus hand; sparśa-of the touch; balena-by the strength; me-my; akarot-did; prabodham-awakening; aṅgāni-limbs; muhuḥ-again and again; vimārjayan-stroking.

His heart overcome with compassion, the Lord, the son of Nanda, suddenly rose and, stroking my limbs, with the touch of His lotus hand awakened me.

mātrṇam āgrahenaiva
kṛtyam madhyāhnikam kṛtam

vṛtte-done; bhojana-meal; kāle-time; api-also; bhoktum-to eat; iccham-desire; akurvata-not doing; mātrṇam-of the mothers; āgrahena-by taking; eva-indeed; kṛtyam-duty; madhya-mid; ahnikam-day; kṛtam-done.

When it was time for lunch, the Lord had no desire to eat. His mothers made Him perform His midday duties.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that because the Lord was suffering in separation from Gokula, He had no desire to eat. The mothers are plural here because they refer to the many wives of Vasudeva.

kumāra-maṇḍalī-madhya niveśya nijam agrajam pariveśayatā svena
pūrvavad bālya-līlayā

kumāra-of boys; maṇḍalī-of the circle; madhya-in the midst; niveśya--entering; nijam-own; agrajam-elder brother; pariveśayatā-fed; svena-own; pūrvavat-as before; bālya-līlayā-with childhood pastimes.

Then the Lord made a circle of His sons, placed His elder brother, Balarāma, in the middle, and personally fed them as He had done in His childhood pastimes.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.13.11.

Text 31

mahā-prasādam ucchiṣṭam bhuktvā sva-grham ānayat bhagavad-bhāva-vijñō 'sāv uddhavo mām balād iva

mahā-prasādam-mahā-prasādam; ucchiṣṭam-remnants; bhuktvā-eating; sva-grham-to his own home; ānayat-brought; bhagavat-of the Lord; bhāva-the intention; vijñāḥ-knowing; asau-he; uddhavaḥ-Uddhava; mām-me; balāt-by force; iva-as if.

Uddhava ate some of the Lord's mahā-prasādam remnants, and then, knowing the Lord's desire, took me, almost as if by force, to his own home.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the cowherd boy Gopa-kumāra could not become happy in the opulences of the palace, therefore the Lord wanted him to stay with Uddhava, who is very dear to the people of Gokula.

Text 32

tadānīm-then; eva-indeed; yātaḥ-went; aham-I; samyāk-completely; samjñām-awareness; tataḥ-then; akhilam-all; tatra-there; anubhūtam-experienced; vimṛśan-thinking; muhuḥ-again and again; nṛtyan-dancing; amāmsi-I thought; adaḥ-then.

Then I again became fully conscious. Thinking of what I had experienced, I danced again and again. I thought:

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word "then" here means "when he arrived at Uddhava's home".

prasthāya-going; uddhava-saṅgatyā-in Uddhava's company; sva-prabhum-His own Lord; tam-Him; vilokayan-seeing; na-not; aśakam-I was able; harṣa-vaivaśyāt-because of being overcome with happiness; kiñcit-anything; kartum-to do; param-further; tataḥ-then.

Going in Uddhava's company, I would gaze at my Lord, but, overcome with happiness, I could not do anything else.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Gopa-kumāra was so overwhelmed he was not able to serve the Lord.

Text 35

mokṣe-in liberation; sukham-happiness; nanu-certainly; mahattamam-great; ucyate-is said; yat-tat-whatever; koṭi-koṭi-millions of millions of times; guṇitam-multitplied; gaditam-said; vikuṅṭhe-in Vaikunṭha; yuktyā-with a reason; kayācit-some; adhikam-greater; kila-indeed; koṣalāyāṁ-in Ayodhyā; yat-what; dvārakā-of Dvārakā; bhavam-existence; idaṁ-this; tu-certainly; katham-how?; nirūpyam-may be described.

The happiness in impersonal liberation is said to be very great, but the happiness in Vaikunṭha is said to be many millions of millions of times greater. Still greater is the happiness in Ayodhyā, and greater than that is the happiness in Dvārakā. How is it possible to describe the happiness in Dvārakā?

śrī-yādavāḥ-the Yādavas; ūcuḥ-said; vaikuṅṭhataḥ-than Vaikuntha; api-even; uttama-supreme; bhūti-opulences; pūrite-filled; sthāne-in this place; tvam-you; etya-coming; atra-here; sakhe-O friend; asmat-us; anvitaḥ-with; yad-vanya-veśena-with the dress of a person who lives in the forest; sudīnavat-as a poverty-stricken person; vasaḥ-of the garments; manyāmahe-we consider; sādhu-good; na-not; tat-that; kathaṅcana-at all.

The Yādavas said: Friend, you have come to this place, which is more opulent than Vaikuṅṭha, and now you stay here with us. We do not think it is good that you continue to dress as a poor person that lives in the forest.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Gopa-kumāra was still dressed as a resident of the forest.

svargādi-lokeṣu bhavantam īdṛśam vaikuṅṭha-loke 'tra ca hanta sarvataḥ paśyāmy aho kautukam āvr̥ṇoti mām muni-of sages; indra-king; veṣa-appearance; prabhu-of the Lord; pārṣada-of the associates; uttama-O best; svarga-ādi-lokeṣu-in Svarga and the other planets; bhavantam-yiu; īdṛśam-like; vaikuṅṭha-loke-in Vaikunthaloka; atra-here; ca-also;

hanta-certainly; sarvataḥ-everywhere; paśyāmi-I see; ahaḥ-Oh; kautukam-wonder;
āvr̥ṇoti-covers; mām-me.

O king of sages. O greatest of the Lord's associates, I see you like this in Svargaloka and the other material planets, in Vaikuṅṭhaloka, and now here also. This fills me with wonder and curiosity.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the words "like this" mean that in each of these places Nārada manifested the same form of a sage playing the vīṇā. His form never changed.

As Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, who is one, manifests in many forms in many places, so do we, His servants.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that here Nārada says: "We also manifest in many forms in many places".

nānā-various; vidhāḥ-kinds; tasya-of Him; paricchadā-paraphernalia; ye-which; nāmāni-names; līlāḥ-pastimes; priya-bhūmayāḥ-favorite places; ca-also; nityāni-eternal; satyāni-real; akhilāni-all; tadvat-as; ekāni-single; anekāni-multiple; api-also; tāni-them; viddhi-know.

The Lord's paraphernalia, names, pastimes, and favorite abodes are all eternal and real. Know that they are both one and many.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these things are so because they are all eternal and full of knowledge and bliss.

āścaryam-wonderful; etat-this; tvam-you; api-also; īdṛk-like this; eva-certainly; san-being so; pūrva-previous; svabhāvam-nature; tanuṣe-you manifest; atra-here; līlayā-with pastimes; param-great; mahā-āścaryam-very wonderful; iha-here; api-also; lakṣyase-is seen; atṛpta-unsatisfied; ārta-distressed; cetāḥ-heart; iva-like; sarvadā-always; mayā-by me.

It is surprising that even though you are also like that, even in these pastimes you manifest your previous nature. I see that even here you are always unsatisfied and unhappy at heart. This is very surprising to me.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the phrase "previous nature" means "the nature of a cowherd boy", and the phrase "also like that" means "you also have a spiritual form of eternity, knowledge and bliss, as we do". Nāradā is curious to know why, even in Dvārakā, Gopa-kumāra is still dissatisfied.

stham-staying at the side; pratibodhayati-awakens;
kṣaṇam-for a moment.

You are overcome with kindness for the people there. Why did you not enlighten him for even a moment?

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the phrase "the people there" means "the people of Vraja".

His home is very far away and his happiness is also very far from us. We pray for them, but they are very difficult for us to attain.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the home here is the realm of Gokola, which is far from Vaikuṅṭha, and which, because it is very exalted, is very difficult to attain. The happiness here is the happiness of seeing the son of Nanda and enjoying pastimes with Him. Even though Nārada and Uddhava are eternal associates of the Lord, they still pray to attain this realm and this happiness.

Nārada laughed and said: "Even in Vaikuṅṭha you don't think you are a kṣatriya?"

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the castes exist only in the material world, not in the spiritual world, where everything is eternal and full of knowledge and bliss.

As He does there, so here also He protects the principles of religion by following the restrictions of household life, conquering His enemies, worshipping the elders and brāhmaṇas, and acting piously in other ways also.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the "there" is the Dvārakā in the material world. Some of the Lord's other religious actions, beginning with rising for brāhma-muhūrta, are described in the Tenth Canto of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

śrī-nāradaḥ uvāca-Śrī Nārada said; gopāladeva-priya-O beloved of Gopāladeva; gopa-nandana-O son of a gopa; śrīmān-beautiful; itaḥ-from here; dūratarāḥ-far away; virājate-is splendidly manifested; goloka-nāma-named Goloka; upari sarva-sīma-gaḥ-above everything; vaikuṅṭhataḥ-from Vaikuntha; deśa-the place; viśeṣa-specific; śekharaḥ-the crown.

Śrī Nārada said: O beloved of Gopāladeva, O son of a gopa, very far from here a beautiful place named Goloka, the crown of all Vaikuṅṭha planets, is splendidly manifest.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Goloka is described in Brahma-saṁhitā 5.43.

Because it is primarily a land (loka) of cows (go), Mathurā is called Goloka. Although it is a secret place, it is famous everywhere.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Goloka is a secret place because the Lord enjoys secret pastimes there.

Ayodhyā is like Vaikuṅṭha, and Dvārakā is even more opulent. Kṛṣṇa has placed Goloka very far from those two places.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that because Vaikuṅṭha, Ayodhyā, and Dvārakā are very opulent, Kṛṣṇa placed Goloka very far from them.

Situated in the highest sweetness, His happy pastimes with the people there become perfect there, the proper place for them.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that "the people there" are the residents of Śrī Goloka. "His" means "Śrī Kṛṣṇa's", and "there" means "in Goloka".

Seeing the sweetness and glory of the Lord, the saintly persons from the different planets describe, each according to his own idea, the Lord who has descended to Mathurā City, Some sages say He is the hero of Vaikuṅṭha, others He is thousand-headed Lord Ananta, others He is Lord Viṣṇu, others He is Kṣīrodakaśāyī Viṣṇu, and others He is Lord Keśava.

Śīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains because Lord Kṛṣṇa is their source, all the incarnations of God joined with Him when He descended to the material world. The incarnations were therefore absent from their particular planets in the spiritual world, and the residents of those spiritual planets each thought that the Lord of their planet had descended to the material world. That is why the sages had different opinions of the identity of Lord Kṛṣṇa. That Lord Kṛṣṇa is the source of all incarnations is confirmed in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.3.28. Lord Nārāyaṇa the friend of Nara is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 4.1.57, and Lord Kṣīrodakaśāyī Viṣṇu in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 2.7.26.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.5.18:

tata ārabhya nandasya
vrajaḥ sarva-samṛddhimaṇ harer nivasātma-guṇaiḥ
ramā-kṛīḍam abhūn nṛpa

"O Mahārāja Parīkṣit, the home of Nanda Mahārāja is eternally the abode of the Supreme Personality of Godhead and His transcendental qualities, and is therefore always naturally endowed with the opulence of all wealth. Yet beginning from Lord Kṛṣṇa's appearance there, it became the place for the pastimes of the goddess of fortune."*

Any tree there can fulfill all the desires of they who ask. Still, they can never produce great opulences, for that would obstruct the Lord's pastimes.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that there the Lord enjoys pastimes as an ordinary person, and great opulences there would be only an obstruction. The trees, however, do offer many nice flowers, fruits, and other things. They are described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.22.34:

"With their leaves, flowers, fruits, shade, roots, bark, wood, fragrance, sap, ashes, pulp, and sprouts, these trees fulfill all desires."

To a demonness that only pretended to be a devotee, He gave the status of being His mother. In His pastimes, to His friends and relatives, and even to the demons who hate the devotees, He gave liberation.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this demonness, Pūtanā, pretended to act as Mother Yaśodā acted, so Kṛṣṇa gave her a situation in life like Mother Yaśodā's. Pūtanā is praised in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.2.23 and 10.14.35.

He allowed Himself to be bound at the waist to a grinding mortar with a cow-rope. He enthusiastically danced and performed in many ways, asked by the women of Vraja.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these pastimes are described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.9.17-19 and 10.11.7-9.

The Lord's form is the resting place of the charm of childhood. It is eternally worshiped by the pastimes of youth. It eternally rests on His handsome teen-age years. Its transcendental virtues are newer and newer at every moment.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord's childhood is characterized by His delicateness and restlessness, His youth by His many expert skills, and His teen-age years by His handsomeness and other virtues.

Seeing the sweetness of these pastimes, the demigod Brahmā became bewildered. Who can describe them? Why did the Lord search for His friends and calves as if He had become bewildered? Why did He assume the forms of His calves and boys?

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that by assuming the forms of the boys and calves Kṛṣṇa showed His supreme power, and then He also searched for them as if He had become bewildered. This contradiction, that He is simultaneously powerful and bewildered, is the reason for the last two questions in this verse.

tālī-vane-in Tālavana forest; yā-which; āvirabhūt-was manifested; ca-and; līlā-pastimes; yā-which; dhenuka-of Dhenuka; jñāti-the relatives; vimardane-in crushing; ca-also; sāyam-at dusk; vraja-of Vraja; strī-gaṇa-the women; saṅgame-in meeting; api-also; stotum-to glorify; na-not; śaknomi-I am able; abhivādaye-I offer respectful obeisances; tām-that.

In Tālavana He crushed Dhenukāsura's relatives, and in the evening He met the girls of Vraja. I cannot properly glorify the Lord's pastimes. I simply bow down to offer respects to them.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord's meeting the gopīs in the evening is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.15.42-43.

rasaḥ-the rāsa dance; hi-indeed; tasya-of Him; bhagavattva-opulence; viśeṣa-specifically; gopyaḥ-secret; sarvasva-of treasures; sāra-best; paripākamayaḥ-perfect and complete; vyanakti-is manifest; utkr̥ṣṭatā-superiority; mādhurima-sweetness; apara-sīma-ultimate; niṣṭhām-faith; lakṣmyā-by the goddess of fortune; manoratha-of desires; śataiḥ-with hundreds; api-even; yaḥ-which; durāpaḥ-difficult to attain.

The Lord's rāsa dance is a great secret of the greatest opulence. It is the greatest treasure. It manifests the ultimate of intense sweetness. Even with hundreds of desires, goddess Lakṣmī could not attain it.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the glorification of the Lord's flute music now ended, the glorification of the Lord's rāsa dance begins in this verse. That the goddess of fortune could not enter the rāsa dance is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (10.47.60), where Uddhava says:

nāyaṁ śriyo 'nga u nitānta-rateḥ prasādaḥ

"When Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa was dancing with the gopīs in the rāsa-līlā, the gopīs were embraced by the arms of the Lord. This transcendental favor was never bestowed on the goddess of fortune or the other consorts in the spiriual world. Indeed, never was such a thing even imagined by the most beautiful girls in the heavenly planets whose bodily luster and aroma resemble the lotus flower. And what to speak of worldly women who are very beautiful according to the material estimation?"*

ahaḥ-Oh; vaidagdhī-expertise; sā-that; madhura-madhurā-supremely sweet; śrī-bhagavataḥ-of the Lord; samākarṣati-attracts; uccaiḥ-greatly; jagati-in the world; kṛtinaḥ-the pious; kasya-of whom?; na-not; manaḥ-the heart; kula-strīṇām-of saintly girls; tāsām-of them; vana-bhuvi-in the forest; tathā-then; ākarṣaṇam-attraction; athaḥ-then; tathā-so; vāk-cāturyam-eloquence; sapadi-at once; ruditam-said; tābhiḥ-by them; api-even; yat-which.

The heart of what wise and pious person would not be attracted to the Lord's supremely sweet genius? Even as the saintly gopīs wept in the forest, His eloquence charmed them.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Śrīla Śukadeva Gosvāmī describes these pastimes in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam's five chapters of rāsa-līlā.

ślāghe-I glorify; avahitthā-of hiding; kṛtitām-expertise; hareḥ-of Lord Hari; tam-that; tat-kāku-jātāt-from the plaintive appeals; yadi-if; sā-that; sthitā-situated; syāt-may be; vyaktātma-bhāvaḥ-manifest; kṣaṇataḥ-in a moment; saḥ-He; reme-enjoyed pastimes; tāḥ-them; mohayan-charming; kāma-of amorous pastimes; kalā-avalibhiḥwith the many arts.

I praise Lord Hari's expertly disappearing and then, impelled by the gopīs plaintive appeals, appearing again in their midst. Charming them with the arts of love, He enjoyed pastimes with them.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these pastimes are described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.29.46 and 10.90.48.

antardhānam-disappearance; tasya-of Him; tad-vipralambha-separation from Him; līlā-pastimes; dakṣasya-of expertise; aniśam-day and night; kaḥ-who?; na-not; gāyet-sings; yat-what; tāḥ-them; tādṛk-like that; dhairya-peace; gāmbhīrya-depth; bhājaḥ-possessing; anaiṣīt-was; tam-that; tam-that; uktim-statement; ihām-endeavor; daśām-condition; ca-also.

Who will not sing the praises of the disappearance pastime of the Lord, who expertly enjoys the pastime of being away from His beloveds? Although they are naturally very grave and peaceful, the gopīs spoke and acted wonderfully in a very wonderful condition of life.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that an example of the gopīs' words is found in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.30.5. An example of their wonderful actions is their imitation of Kṛṣṇa's pastimes. The wonderful condition they attained was transcendental madness.

bibhemi-I fear; asmāt-of that; hanta-certainly; durbodha-inscrutable; līlāt-whose pastimes; kva-where?; tat-that; tasyāḥ-of that; sāra-best; saubhagya-of good fortune; dānam-the gift; kva-where?; sadyaḥ-at once; antardhānataḥ-from the disappearance; rodana-of weeping; abdhau-in an ocean; anāthāya-not having a master; yātanā-torture; ekākinī-alone; yā-which.

I fear the Lord, whose pastimes are inscrutable. Why did He one moment give Her a gift of the greatest good fortune? Why did He the next moment suddenly disappear and leave Her alone, tormented, without a master, and drowning in an ocean of weeping?

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this verse describes Śrīmatī Rādhā.

May the Lord who, impelled by their suffering and the weeping of their songs, appeared amongst them, flooded them with bliss, and, answering their questions, affirmed that He was their debtor, protect you.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the gopīs' questions begin in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.32.16. Lord Kṛṣṇa affirmed that He was their debtor in these words (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.32.22):

na pāraye 'ham niravadya-samyujām

"My dear gopīs, our meeting is certainly free from all material contamination. I must admit that in many lives it would be impossible for Me to repay My debt to you because you have cut off the bondage of family life just to search for Me.

Consequently I am unable to repay you. Therefore please be satisfied with your own honest activities in this regard."*

They who yearn to drink the honey of Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet know the great glory of they who are able to lick that honey. Brahmā knows the glory of they who were born in Gokula and Uddhava knows the glory of the gopīs. They both yearn to attain that glory.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Brahmā, seeing the good fortune of the people of Gokula, yearned for a fortunate position like theirs. He expressed his desire in these words (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.14.34):

tad-bhūri-bhāgyam iha janma kim apy atavyām yad gokule 'pi katamānghri-rujo-'bhiṣekam

"My dear Lord, I am most humbly praying at Your lotus feet for You to please give me any sort of birth within this Vṛndāvana forest so that I may be able to be favored by the dust of the feet of some of the devotees of Vṛndāvana. Even if I am given the chance to grow just as the humble grass in this land, that would be a glorious birth for me."*

Uddhava, however, seeing the gopīs great love for Lord Kṛṣṇa, yearned to love Him as they did. Uddhava expressed his desire in these words (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.47.61):

āsām aho caraṇa-reṇu-juṣām ahaṁ syām vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauśadhīnām

"The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons, and other family members, who are very difficult to give up, and they have forsaken the path of chastity to take shelter of the lotus feet of Mukunda, Kṛṣṇa, which one should search for by Vedic knowledge. Oh, let me be fortunate enough to be one of the bushes, creepers, or herbs in Vṛndāvana, because the gopīs trample them and bless them with the dust of their lotus feet."*

They who yearn to attain a certain condition can understand the good fortune of they who have already attained it. The gopīs, who yearn to drink the nectar of Mukunda's lips, sing the glories of the good fortune of His flute.

gopyaḥ kim ācarad ayam kuśalam sma veṅur

"My dear gopīs, what auspicious activities must the flute have performed to enjoy the nectar of Kṛṣṇa's lips independently and leave only a taste for us gopīs, for whom that nectar is actually meant! The forefathers of the flute, the bamboo trees, shed tears of pleasure. His mother, the river on whose bank the bamboo was born, feels jubilation, and therefore her blooming lotus flowers are standing like hair on her body."*

The people of Vraja were not enchanted by Kṛṣṇa. It was Lord Kṛṣṇa who was enchanted by them. That is the truth. He even forgot His mission as the Supreme Personality of Godhead and I had to somehow remind Him.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that some thinkers say that with His wonderful pastimes and features Lord Kṛṣṇa enchanted the people of Vraja. This verse refutes that claim by saying that it was Lord Kṛṣṇa who became enchanted. The Lord even forgot His mission of killing Kāmsa and doing many other things, and by offering prayers Nārada had to remind Him. Examples of Nārada's reminders are Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.37.13 and 10.37.15.

Wishing auspiciousness for the Yādavas, how did intelligent Akrūra take the Lord, as if by force, from Vraja to Mathurā City?

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the question posed in this verse is answered in the following verses. By hearing intelligent Akrūra's description of the great sufferings of Devakī and Vasudeva, Kṛṣṇa was convinced to go. This is described in Hari-varṁśa, where Akrūra says:

vṛddhau tavādya pitarau para-bhṛtyatvam āgatau bhartsyete tat-kṛte tena kamsenāsubha-buddhinā

"Your aged parents are now slaves tortured by the sadist Kāmsa."

He can never leave the people of Vraja. He returns to Vraja at every moment. He lives there and enjoys pastimes there eternally.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord leaves Vraja and then returns to Vraja again and again and again in His pastimes.

As, very eager to see what actions pleasing to His heart the people of Vraja do when they are tossed by waves of separation from Him, the Lord sometimes hides in the depth of the forest groves, so in His different pastimes He sometimes hides.

Text 167

manye aham-I think; evam-thus; parama-priyebhyaḥ-to the most dear; tebhyaḥ-to them; pradeyasya-to be given; su-durlabhasya-very difficult to attain; dravyasya-thing; kasyāpi-of something; samarpaṇa-to give; arhaḥ-worthy; vadānya-of the generous; mauleḥ-of the crown; vyavahāraḥ-activity; eṣaḥ-this.

I think this action is a very rare gift the crown of all generous persons gives to they who are most dear to Him.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that some persons may protest that it is not right for the Lord to separate Himself from they who cannot bear even a moment's separation from Him. This verse answers them. The gift here is the most intense love for Kṛṣṇa. It is so rare that none but the people of Vraja are able to attain it. It is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.47.27), where Uddhava tells the gopīs:

sarvātma-bhāvo 'dhikṛto bhavatīnām adhokṣaje virahēṇa mahā-bhāgā
mahān me 'nugrahaḥ kṛtaḥ

"My dear gopīs, the mentality which you have developed in relationship with Kṛṣṇa is very, very difficult to attain, even for great sages and saintly persons. You have attained the highest perfectional stage of life. It is a great boon for you that you have fixed your mind upon Kṛṣṇa and have decided to have Kṛṣṇa only, giving up your family, home, relatives, husbands, and children for the sake of the Supreme Personality. Because your mind is now fully absorbed in Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul, universal love has automatically developed in you. I think myself very fortunate that I have been favored, by your grace, to see you in this situation."*

kintu-howver; tad-vraja-bhūmau-in that Vrajabhūmi; saḥ-He; na-not; sarvaiḥ-by everyone; dṛśyate-is seen; sadā-always; taiḥ-by them; śrī-nand-aādibhiḥ-Śrī Nanda and the others; sārddham-with; aśrāntam-without becoming tired; vilasann-enjoying pastimes; api-even.

Although He enjoys pastimes there with Śrī Nanda and the others eternally and without ever becoming tired, the Lord is not always seen by everyone in Vrajabhūmi.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that someone may protest: "If the Lord enjoys pastimes in the earthly Gokula eternally, then why does no one ever see Him?" This verse answers that protest. In Goloka, in the spiritual world, everyone sees the Lord always. In Gokula, in the material world, everyone sees the Lord during a certain period at the end of the Dvāpara-yuga, but at other times only certain people at certain times are able to see Him.

As in Vaikuṅṭha Garuḍa and the other eternal associates of the Lord are always present, so in Goloka the Lord's eternal, dear friends are always present.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that someone may protest: "Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherd people are residents of Gokula in the material world. How can they simultaneously exist in Gokula in the spiritual world eternally?" This verse answers that question. As Garuḍa and the other associates of the Lord stay in Vaikuṅṭha, but at the same time are also present in the material world, so the cowherd people of Vraja are present in the spiritual and material worlds simultaneously.

By their own wish, with the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the Lord of their life, they eternally enjoy pastimes in both places.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the two places are Gokula in the material world and Goloka in the spiritual world.

Of them, some are liberated paramahamsas and of the paramahamsas some are great souls devoted to the service of the Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the devotees are called great souls because they consider impersonal liberation to be very insignificant and because they are very eager to taste the nectar of serving the Lord. They are described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 6.14.3-5.

Uddhava, overcome with ecstatic love and humbly bowing his head again and again, said: At every moment I offer my respectful obeisances to the women in Nanda's Vraja.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Uddhava could understand Nārada's intention in asking him to speak. Touching his head to the ground, with great love he sang the glories of the greatest devotees.

"The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons, and other family members, who are very difficult to give up, and they have forsaken the path of chastity to take shelter of the lotus feet of Mukunda, Kṛṣṇa, which one should search for by Vedic knowledge. Oh, let me be fortunate enough to be one of the bushes, creepers, or herbs in Vṛndāvana, because the gopīs trample them and bless them with the dust of their lotus feet."*

This verse is a quotation from Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (10.47.61).

O son of a gopa, O friend of the Lord of Vraja, Uddhava is the best of the loving devotees. Because He was fortunate to receive the Lord's mercy, he was able to see the ecstatic love of the gopīs in Vraja. The gopīs gave him such great mercy that he forgot even about Lord Kṛṣṇa. Uddhava is able to understand the actions of the gopīs. He should describe them.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains the Uddhava describes the gopīs in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.47.27.

"Indra, who is the king of heaven and the master of the three worldḥ-the upper, middle, and lower planetary systemḥ-was blessed by the Lord simply for His offering a little water which Kṛṣṇa accepted. Similarly, Bali Mahārāja gave only three feet of land in charity to Vāmanadeva, and he also offered a little water, which Lord Vāmanadeva accepted, and thereby Bali Mahārāja attained the position of Indra. When the gopīs were dancing with Kṛṣṇa in the rāsa dance, they became fatigued, and Kṛṣṇa smeared His head, which is fragrant as a lotus flower, over the pearl-like drops of perspiration on the faces of the gopīs, and immediately they became refreshed."*

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that in this verse (quoted from Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.38.17) Akrūra says that the Lord gives fearlessness to the devotees that surrender to Him. The Lord even gives Himself to these devotees.

sampadyate-is attained; preṣṭha-dear; nāma-of the name;saṅkīrtana-glorification;
ujjvalam-glory.

By engaging in devotional service that largely consists of singing about and meditating on the Lord's Vraja pastimes, one attains that love, which is glorious with the chanting of the dearest Lord's holy names.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that there are nine methods of devotional service, of which two important activities are mentioned here.

Text 219

yayā-b which; vācā-by words; ihayā-by deeds; dainyam-humbleness; matyā-by thought; ca-and; sthairyam-steadiness; eti-attains; tat-that; tam-that; yatnena-by effort; bhajet-worships; vidvān-a wise man; tad-viruddhāni-opposed; varjayet-abandons.

A wise man should try to be humble in his words, deeds, and thoughts. He should shun the opposite of humbleness.

Text 224

dainyam tu paramam premṇaḥ paripākena janyate
tāsām gokula-nārīṇām

dainyam-humbleness; tu-indeed; paramam-supreme; premṇaḥ-of love; paripākena-by the maturity; janyate-is born; tāsām-of them; gokula-nārīṇām-of the women of Gokula; iva-as if; kṛṣṇa-from Kṛṣṇa; viyogataḥ-because of separation.

Humbleness comes from advancement in love for Kṛṣṇa, (as is seen in the example of) the women of Gokula when they were separated from Kṛṣṇa.

Text 225

paripākena dainyasya

dāvānalārciḥ-the flames of a forest fire; yamuna-of the Yamuna river; amṛtam-nectar; bhavet-is; tathā-so; tad api-still; agni-śikhā-glames; iva-as; yadvatam-as; viṣam-poison; ca-and; pīyūṣam-nectar; ahaḥ-oh; sudhā-nectar; viṣam-poison; mṛtiḥ-death; sukham-happiness; jīvānam-life; arti-of pain; vaibhavam-the power.

(In this love) a fire's flames become the Yamunā's nectar and the Yamunā's nectar becomes a fire's flames. Poison becomes nectar and nectar becomes poison. Death becomes happiness and life becomes torture.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that this is the condition of a devotee separated from Kṛṣṇa.

Text 228

yato vivektum na hi śakyate 'ddha bhedaḥ sa sambhoga-viyogayor yaḥ tathedaṁ ānanda-bharātmakaṁ vā-yataḥ-from which; vivektum-to discriminate; na-not; hi-indeed; śakyate-is able; addha-then; bhedaḥ-difference; saḥ-that; sambhoga-of enjoyment; viyogayoḥ-and separation; yaḥ-which; tathā-so; idam-this; ānanda-bhara-great bliss; ātmakam-nature; vā-or; athavā-or; mahā-śoka-mayāṁ-great lamentation; vastu-thing.

It is not possible to distinguish between separation (from Kṛṣṇa) and the happiness of enjoying (with Him) or (to distinguish which is full of bliss and which is full of grief.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that even when the devotees are enjoying in the Lord's association they feel the unhappiness of being separated from Him. This is described at the end of the Tenth Canto in the account of the queens' water-pastimes with the Lord. Also, in either meeting or separation, intense love for Kṛṣṇa brings an intense bliss. Therefore it is not possible clearly to determine what is bliss and what is torment in these pastimes.

sā rādhikā bhagavatī-Goddess Raddhā; kvacit-somewhere; iksyate-is seen; cet-if; premā-love; tadā-then; anubhavam-experience; rcchati-attains; mūrtimān-having a form; saḥ-he; śakyeta-may be able; cet-if; gaditum-to say; eṣaḥ-he; tayā-by Her; tadā-then; eva-indeed; śrūyeta-may be heard; tattvam-the truth; iha-here; cet-if; bhavati-is; sva-own; śaktiḥ-potency.

If somehow Śrī Rādhikā is seen, then the form of that love may be understood. If one is empowered by Her, he can describe it. If you are able to understand it, you can hear of it from him.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that a person who is able to describe that love will be at every moment so overwhelmed with ecstatic joy, lamentation, madness, and other ecstatic symptoms that he will not be able to describe it to any listener. Therefore only Goddess Rādhikā can describe that love.

Text 234

O you who were born in Vraja, to attain your desire you should go to the province of Mathurā at once. You are not like me. You are the object of His mercy.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the province of Mathurā here is Puruṣottama-kṣetra. The last sentence here means that Gopa-kumāra received the mercy of the Lord of Goloka.

Śrīmān Uddhava said: As Puruṣottama-kṣetra is dear to the Lord, so is Dvāarakā City dear. As it is decorated with great opulences and appropriate pastimes, so is Dvāarakā.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that as a great devotee of Lord Dvāarakānātha, Uddhava could not tolerate the suggestion that Dvāarakā might be inferior in any way.

Our Lord, the son of Devakī, manifests His own form at Puruṣottama-kṣetra. Standing motionless, He enjoys pastimes for the pleasure of the people there whose hearts are flooded with love for Him.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the motionless form of the Lord here is dāru-brahma Lord Jagannātha.

Here one attains the same perfection one obtains there. There is no difference. However, by seeing and hearing of the Lord's Vraja-pastimes he will become unhappy there.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that in Puruṣottama-kṣetra Gopa-kumāra will see pictures and plays of the Lord's Vraja-pastimes and hear songs and other descriptions of those pastimes. Yearning to attain the Lord of Vraja, he will become unhappy.

śrī-sarūpaḥ-Śrī Sarūpa; uvāca-said; praśasya-praising; tad-vacaḥ-these words; hṛdyam-pleasing; rāmam-to Balarāma; tāḥ-they; katicit-some; drutam-quickly; āplavya-bathing; preyayām āsuḥ-sent; tayor-of Them; geham-the home; praviṣṭayoḥ-entered.

Śrī Sarūpa said: Praising Mother Yaśodā's pleasing words, some gopīs quickly bathed Balarāma and sent Him (to get Nanda) as Yaśodā and Rohiṇī went into the kitchen.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Sarūpa is Gopa-kumāra's original name in the spiritual world. From now on he will be identified as Sarūpa.

Alerting me with a signal, from far away He tossed into my open hand the flute, which was like the gopīs' rival, for which they begged, and which they tried to grab from His lotus hand.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the signal was the Lord's dancing eyebrow. The gopīs begged, "Give it to me! Give it to me!"

Hearing this cry of pain, and at once coming out, she who had placed all her love in her son alone asked, "What happened? What happened?"

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Mother Yaśodā came out from the kitchen.

Text 95

sutasya-of her son; sa-smitam-with a smile; vaktram-face; vīkṣya-seeing; athaḥ-then; viśyate-entered; gṛham-the house; tābhiḥ-with them; tu-indeed; sa-smita-smiling; trāsam-fear; gītaiḥ-with songs; niṣpadyate-done; asya-of Him; tat-that.

Seeing Her son's smiling face, she went back to the kitchen. Afraid, smiling, and singing songs, the gopīs finished massaging Him.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the gopīs smiled because they knew that Kṛṣṇa only pretended to cry in pain, but they were also afraid that Mother Yaśodā would again come from the kitchen.

Then they fed Him some food they had hidden, and then, with the offerings that are said to be proper to give again and again offering āraṭi to Him, they placed the offerings on their heads.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the gopīs may have themselves brought the hidden food out of love for Kṛṣṇa, or the hidden food may have been arranged by Mother Yaśodā's own desire. The āraṭi-offerings include camphor and a lamp.

śrī-sarūpaḥ uvāca-Śrī Sarūpa said; tat-His; saundaryam-handsomeness; sā-she; ca-and; lāvaṇya-of handsomeness; lakṣmīḥ-the goddess; tat-His; mādhuryam-sweetness; tasya-His; kim-how?; varṇitam-described; syāt-may be; dravyaiḥ-with things; yogyā-appropriate; laukikaiḥ-ordinary; na-not; upamā-comparison; syāt-may be; kim vā-furthermore; anyena-with another; dvārakendreṇa-with the king of Dvārakā; na-not; api-even.

Śrī Sarūpa said: How can His handsomeness, glory, and sweetness be described? It cannot be compared to anything in this world, nor anything beyond it, nor even the king of Dvārakā!

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that "handsomeness" here means "the handsomeness of His body", "glory" means "the glory of His dark complexion", and "sweetness" means "the sweetness of His smile and other features". That His handsomeness cannot be compared to anything in the material world means His eyes and the other parts of His body cannot be compared to lotus flowers or other things, and also that His handsomeness cannot be compared to that of the incarnations of Lord Viṣṇu present in the material world. It cannot even be compared to that of the king of Vaikuṅṭha, the king of Ayodhyā, or the king of Dvārakā.

bhrātaḥ smitaṁ ruṣā mātuḥ tasyāṁ tātasya vismayam tanvan sakhīnām mugdhānām ādhim tasyā dviṣam mudam

bhrātaḥ-O brother; smitaṁ-smiling; ruṣā-with anger; mātuḥ-of His mother; tasyāṁ-in her; tātasya-of His father; vismayam-surprise; tanvan-doing; sakhīnām-of the gopī friends; mugdhānām-bewildered; ādhim-headache; tasyāḥ-of Her; dviṣam-of the enemies; mudam-joy.

His brother smiled, His mother became angry at Rādhā, His father was surprised, Rādhā's bewildered friends felt sick, and Her enemies rejoiced.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Kṛṣṇa's brother Balarāma appreciated the joke, and so He smiled. Rādhā's enemies are Her rivals.

tat-of Her; bhrāṭṛ-of the brother; vaṁsa-in the family; jātasya-born; mama-of me; cikṣepa-threw; bhājane-on the dish; tat-that; sarvaṁ-everything; parama-extremely; svādu-delicious; bhuktvā-eating; aham-I; visimitaḥ-filled with wonder; abhavam-became.

Then He threw it on the plate of me, who was born in Rādhā's brother's family. When I ate that sublimely delicious sweet I became filled with wonder.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Gopa-kumāra was related to Rādhā's brother, Śrīdāmā. The sweet was not actually bitter, but Kṛṣṇa thought it appropriate that one of Rādhā's relatives eat it. It was actually the best of all the foods and out of love Kṛṣṇa gave it to Gopa-kumāra. Why did Gopa-kumāra become filled with wonder? Because that sweet was the most delicious.

Ah, exhausted from having spent all day protecting the cows in the forest, and finding the happiness of sleep, even now my boy does not wake up.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Mother Yaśodā does not suspect that Kṛṣṇa has spent the entire night enjoying the rāsa-dance pastime.

Text 150

imāni-these; sarvataḥ-everywhere; akriyanta-have been; asya-of Him; gātreṣu-on the limbs; paritaḥ-everywhere; dhāvataḥ-running; muhuḥ-again and again.

Terrible thorns in the forest made these wounds everywhere on all His limbs when again and again He ran here and there.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these wounds were made by the the gopīs' fingernails.

svasya-of Him; idam-this; netra-for the eyes; kajjalam-kajjala.

Alas! The black kajjala from His eyes has anointed all His limbs. He is so overcome with sleep that He does not even know.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that these marks of black kajjala were left by the gopīs.

doing.

He does not even know that He is marked here and there with stains of red betelnuts from His lips. He must have broken His necklaces, garlands, and other ornaments as again and again He turned in His sleep.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the red betelnut stains actually came from the gopīs lips and it was the gopīs who broke Kṛṣṇa's necklaces, garlands, and ornaments. Mother Yaśodā thinks Kṛṣṇa broke them as He turned in His sleep.

Even bathing did not wash away the kuṅkuma-colored Yamunā-bank clay that is now the friend of His body.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the kuṅkuma actually came from the gopīs' breasts. Mother Yaśodā playfully calls the kuṅkuma the "friend" of Kṛṣṇa's body because it clings there so tightly.

śrī-sarūpaḥ uvāca-Śrī Sarūpa said; mātā yaśodā-Mother Yaśodā; muhuḥ-again and again; evam-thus; āha-spoke; tāsām-of them; samakṣam-in the presence; vraja-kanyakānām-of the girls of Vraja; tatra-there; āgatānām-arrived; bhaya-with fear; hāsa-smiles; lajjā-and embarrassment; āvirbhāva-appearance; mudrā-the signs; vilasat-shining; mukhīnām-whose faces.

These same things Mother Yaśodā spoke again and again before the girls of Vraja when they came, their faces shining with fear, smiles, and embarrassment.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that gopīs were afraid that Mother Yaśoda had learned the truth of their pastimes with Kṛṣṇa at night, they smiled when they heard her words explaining how thoroughly she misunderstood everything, and they were embarrassed to see the marks they had left on Kṛṣṇa's body. Their faces clearly showed the signs of these different responses.

agre-in front; jyāyān-the eldest; aham-I; pṛṣṭhe-in the rear; tāḥ-the girls; ca-also; anuvrajana-following; chalāt-ona pretext; ākṛṣṭāḥ-attracted; prema-of love; pāśena-by the rope; prasthitāḥ-set out; viraha-separation; asahāḥ-unable to bear.

The older boy was in the front and I was in the rear. Pulled by the rope of love and unable to bear separation from Kṛṣṇa, the gopīs, on some pretext, began to follow behind.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the older boy here is Balarāma, and the "I" is Sarūpa, who is speaking these words.

Even though, seeing many auspicious omens, and seeing that the cows and every other creature were all very happy, he was happy at heart, he was also tormented by separation from his son. He embraced his older son, and then he embraced his younger son, and then he embraced them both again and again. He smelled Their heads and, overcome with love, he shed many tears.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains the Nanda embraced Balarāma and then he embraced Kṛṣṇa.

The residents of Goloka incarnate as eternal associates of the Lord in Vaikuṅṭha. They also appear as reflections among the demigods in the material world.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the appearance of Nanda and Yaśodā of Goloka as Droṇa and Dharā in the world of the demigods is an example of this.

Text 203

desiring to perform; viṣṇoḥ-of Lord Viṣṇu; bhavanti-are; prītaye-for the pleasure; muhuḥ-again and again.

To please Lord Viṣṇu when He wishes to enjoy pastimes there, these demigods descend to the surface of the earth again and again.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Lord Balarāma, who appears in Goloka, incarnates in Vaikuṅṭha as Ananta Śeṣa. He again incarnates as Ananta Śeṣa among the demigods in the material world, and on the earth He again appears as Balarāma. The devotee Śrīdāmā, who appears in Goloka, appears in Vaikuṅṭhaloka as Garuḍa. He again appears as Garuḍa among the demigods in the material world, and on the earth he again appears as Śrīdāmā. Vasudeva and Devakī, who appear in Goloka, incarnate as Sutapā and Pṛṣṇi in Vaikuṅṭha and as Kaśyapa and Aditi among the demigods in the material world. On the earth they again appear as Vasudeva and Devakī. These are some examples of how the residents of Goloka incarnate in different places in the spiritual and material worlds and how, as demigods in the higher material planets, they incarnate on the earth to please the Lord.

kadāpi-sometimes; amśena-by a part; jayante-are born; pūrṇatvena-in fullness; kadācana-sometimes; yathā-kalam-according to the time; yathā-kāryam-according to the work; yathā-sthānam-according to the place; ca-also; kṛṣṇavat-as Kṛṣṇa.

According to the time, place, and mission to be performed, the residents of Goloka appear, sometimes in partial forms and sometimes in fullness. They do this as Kṛṣṇa Himself does.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī gives Lord Varāha, who appeared in Satya-yuga to rescue the earth, as an example of a partial incarnation, and Lord Kṛṣṇa, who appeared at the end of Dvāpara-yuga to enjoy pastimes and reveal the nature of pure devotional love, as an example of the Lord appearing in fullness.

When the Lord incarnates, the residents of Goloka, each attracted by his own rasa with the Lord, also desire to appear, by some pretext, in their own incarnations, and then at they end their incarnations merge into them and become one with them again. This is what the sages say.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī gives Brahmā's benediction (to Droṇa and Dharā) as an example of the pretext mentioned here. When the Lord's pastimes are completed, the incarnation of Nanda Mahārāja merges into the existence of the original Nanda Mahārāja in Goloka, and the incarnations of the other residents of Goloka also merge into their sources in the same way.

kṛtsnam etat param cettham tatradyam viddhy asaṁśayam pūrvokta-nāradoddiṣṭa-siddhāntādy-anusārataḥ

kṛtsnam-complete; etat-this; param-great; ca-also; ittham-in this way;
tatradyam-there; viddhi-know; asaṁśayam-without doubt; pūrva-previously; ukta-said; nārada-by Nārada; uddiṣṭa-explained; siddhānta-conclusion; ādi-beginning with; anusārataḥ-according to.

Without doubting, please understand all this according to the explanations previously spoken by Nārada.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī gives the following doubts as examples: If Goloka is actually superior to Vaikuṅṭha, then why do Kaṁsa and other demons live there? Why do carts and other objects made of wood and other materials, as well as grains of dust and other lifeless things exist in Goloka? Why do Nanda Mahārāja and the other residents of Goloka incarnate as the Lord's associates in Vaikuṅṭha?

These doubts were already answered in the beginning of Chapter Five, and they will be answered again later on in this book. The first doubt is specifically answered in the beginning of this book. The answer to the second doubt is given in Nārada's explanation that everything in Vaikuṅṭha is eternal and full of knowledge and bliss. This is also true in Goloka. Therefore the carts and other objects in Goloka are not lifeless, but are eternal and full of knowledge and bliss. The answer to the third doubt is that in order to assist the Lord in His pastimes, Nanda and the other residents of Goloka incarnate in spiritual forms that are eternal and full of knowledge and bliss. In this way they are among the Lord's eternally dear associates in Vaikuṅṭha.

O best of the residents of Mathurā, please listen and by Lord Kṛṣṇa's power I will tell you something wonderful about Goloka.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that although the glory of Goloka is beyond the sphere of words and the mind, by Lord Kṛṣṇa's mercy it can be described.

api-also; viśuddhaḥ-pure; tādṛk-like that; eva-indeed; saḥ-he.

In the course of their daily activities they constantly associate with Kṛṣṇa. They are all very pure. Each one is like that.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the words "each one is like that" mean that each one, in truth, is most dear to Kṛṣṇa.

Again and again comforted by honest, simple Yaśodā, the women of Vraja, their hearts drowning in an ocean of pain and grief, angrily said to her:

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Mother Yaśodā said to them: "I placed Kṛṣṇa in the hand of Nanda and the hand of Akrūra, who is the son of a great sage. Kṛṣṇa will be returned. Because He was placed in the hands of good people there is no need to fear. They will quickly return Him to me." Mother Yaśoda was simple and honest, and therefore she had faith in the words of crooked Akrūra.

tais tair mahā-śoka-dṛdhārti-rodanair akrūra-nandau bala-ballavānvitau yānādhirūḍham̐ priyam apy arodayan vyamohayanta vraja-vāsino 'khilān

taiḥ taiḥ-with that; mahā-great; śoka-grief; dr̥ḍha-intense; ārti-of pain; rodanaiḥ-with cries; akrūra-nandau-Nanda and Akrūra; bala-ballava-the cowherd boys; anvitau-with; yāna-on vehicles; ādhirūḍham-climbed; priyam-beloved; api-also; arodayan-made to cry; vyamohayanta-made to faint; vraja-vāsinaḥ-the residents of Vraja; akhilān-everyone.

With these cries of intense grief and pain they made Akrūra, Nanda, the gopa boys accompanying them, and their beloved Kṛṣṇa standing on the chariot, cry, and they made all the people of Vraja faint.

tā vikṣya labdhāntya-daśā iva svayam sañjīvayan yāna-varād avaplutas tābhir vṛtaḥ kuñjam agāt alakṣitam

svasthyam-an auspicious condition; kṣaṇāt-in a moment; prāpya-attaining; saḥ-He; gopikā-of the gopīs; gatiḥ-the goal; tāḥ-them; vikṣya-seeing; labdha-attained; āntya-daśāḥ-death; iva-as if; svayam-personally; sañjīvayan-bringing to life; yāna-varāt-from the chariot; avaplutaḥ-descended; tābhiḥ-by them; vṛtaḥ-surrounded; kuñjam-to the forest grove; agāt-went; alakṣitam-unseen.

Composing Himself, and seeing that the gopīs had become as if dead, He who is the gopīs' goal brought them again to life, descended from the chariot, and, unseen by anyone, went with them to the forest.

Text 278

kaṁsa-dūtaḥ tataḥ svastho

śrīmad-akrūraḥ uvāca-Śrīmān Akrūra said; nirbhartsyete-are insulted; duṣṭa-kāmsena-by the demon Kāmsa; nityam-always; dīnau-poor; vṛddhau-aged; khadgam-a sword; udyamya-taking; hantum-to kill; īsyete-are able; ca-and; trāsa-fear; śoka-and grief; ārti-sufferings; magnau-plunged; bhaktau-two devotees; yuktau-engaged; jātu-ever; na-not; upekṣitum-ignored; tau-they.

Śrīmān Akrūra said: Wicked kāmsa insults your poor, aged parents again and again! Again and again he raises his sword to kill them! They are plunged in fears, lamentation and pain! They are Your devotees! It is not right to ignore them!

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Vasudeva and Devakī, Kṛṣṇa's parents, are afraid of Kāmsa. They lament because they cannot see their son, and they suffer because they hear from Kāmsa many lies about their son.

mad-vartmāntar-datta-netrā mahārtāḥ śokottāptā mā hatāśā bhavantu trāstāḥ kamsād deva-viprādayaś ca

sarve-all; ananya-without another; āmbanāḥ-depending; yādavāḥ-Yādavas; te-the; mat-of me; vartma-the path; antaḥ-on; datta-placed; netrāḥ-whose eyes; mahā-ārtāḥ-tormented; śoka-grief; ottāptāḥ-suffering; mā-don't; hata-destroyed; āśāḥ-hope; bhavantu-may be; trāstāḥ-frightened; kamsāt-from Kāmsa; deva-the demigods; vipra-and brāhmaṇas; ādayaḥ-beginning with; ca-and.

All the Yādavas placed their eyes on my path! They suffer greatly! They have no other shelter! They are overcome with grief! Let not their hopes be destroyed! Let not the demigods, brāhmaṇas, and others continue to fear Kāṁsa!

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the words “placed their eyes on my path” mean that the Yādavas know of Akrūra's journey and mission and they are anxiously awaiting its outcome. The words “They have no other shelter” mean that Kṛṣṇa is their only shelter.

vṛndāvanam-to Vṛndāvana forest; gopa-with the gopas; vilāsa-pastimes; lobhātout of the desire; tvayi-when You; prayāte-go; saha-with; mitra-vṛndaiḥ-Your friends; sāyam-the evening; samāyāsyasi-You will return; khalu-indeed; avaśyam-for certain; iti-thus; āśayā-with the hope; ahaḥ-the day; gamayema-we pass; kṛcchrāt-with difficulty.

When, desiring to enjoy gopa pastimes, You go to Vṛndāvana Forest with Your friends, only by hoping that certainly You will return in the evening, can we somehow, painfully, pass the day.

something; duṣṭam-bad; ananvayam-that; īkṣitam-to see; sa-ruditam-with crying;
ca-also; bhayāt-out of fear; bahu-greatly; śocati-laments.

If someone sometimes would remember or speak of the Lord's absence from Vraja, the person would think: "I was frightened and lamented greatly because I saw a very bad dream."

These pastimes, where the Lord's lotus feet are served by His personal associates, are eternal, spiritual, and full of knowledge and bliss,

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord's pastimes appear like those of an ordinary human being. This is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.8.31. Śrī Viṣṇu Purāṇa also explains:

manuṣya-dehinām ceṣṭām

ity evam anuvartataḥ lila jagat-pates tasya
chandataḥ sa pravartate

"By His own wish the Lord of the universes enjoys pastimes like those of a human being."

mahat-of the great souls; saṅgama-of the association; māhātmyam-the glory; eva-indeed; etat-this; paramādbhutam-very wonderful; kṛtārthaḥ-successful; yena-by which; vipraḥ-brāhmaṇa; asau-the; sadyaḥ-at once; abhūt-became; tatsvarūpavat-in his original form.

Made successful by the very wonderful glory of association with a great soul, the brāhmaṇa at once attained his original spiritual form.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that by the great mercy of the Lord one attains the association of a devotee. The value of associating with a devotee is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.7.19:

yat-sevayā bhagavataḥ
kūṭa-sthasya madhu-dviṣaḥ rati-rāso bhavet tīvraḥ pādayor vyasanārdanaḥ

"By serving the feet of the spiritual master, one is enabled to develop transcendental ecstasy in the service of the Personality of Godhead, who is the unchangable enemy of the Madhu demon, and whose service vanquishes one's material miseries."*

The Vaśiṣṭha-śāstra explains:

sadā santo 'bhigantavyā yadyapy upadiśanti na
yā hi svaira-kathās teṣām upadeśā bhavanti te

śūnyam āpūrṇatām eti
mrtir apy amṛtāyate āpat sāpad ivābhāti vidvaj-jana-samāgamāt

"One should always associate with devotees. Even if they do not teach you directly, their conversations amongst themselves will teach you. Association with wise devotees makes what was empty full. It turns death into immortality. It turns calamity into good fortune."

Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (5.12.12) explains:

rahūgaṇaitat tapasā na yāti ne cejyayā nirvapanād gṛhād vā na cchandasā naiva jalāgni-sūryair

vinā mahat-pāda-rajo-'bhiṣekam

"My dear King Rahūgaṇa, unless one has the opportunity to smear his entire body with the dust of the lotus feet of great devotees, one cannot realize the Absolute Truth simply by observing celibacy (brahmacarya), strictly following the rules and regulations of householder life, leaving home as a vānaprastha, accepting sannyāsa, or undergoing severe penances in winter by keeping oneself submerged in water or surrounding oneself in summer by fire and the scorching heat of the sun. There are many other processes to understand the Absolute Truth, but the Absolute Truth is only revealed to one who has attained the mercy of a great devotee."*

The value of association with devotees is also explained in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.23.55, 3.25.25, 4.9.11, 4.24.57-58, 5.12.13, 5.13.21, 7.5.31, 10.51.53, 11.26.31-34, 11.12.1-2, 11.19.33-34, 3.13.4, 4.9.10, 4.9.12, 11.13.36, 5.5.2-3, 11.14.17, 11.2.55, 1.3.18, 11.2.29, 10.47.24, 4.22.39, 10.2.33, 10.87.29, 3.5.39, 11.17.39, and in Bhagavad-gītā 7.28, 10.10, 13.18, 18.54-55, śrī-bhagavān-the Lord; uvāca-said; māthura-in Mathurā; anuḡrhitā-accepted;

ārya-O saintly person; vipra-of brahmanas; vaṁśa-in the family; abdhī-in the ocean; candramāḥ-O moon; kṣemaṁ-auspiciousness; śrī-jana-for the people; śarman-O auspiciousness; te-of you; kaccit-whether?; rājati-shines; sarvataḥ-in all respects.

The Supreme Lord said: O Janaśarmā, kindness of Mathurā, O saintly one, O moon rising from the ocean of the brāhmaṇa's families, is everything well with you?

Note: The brāhmaṇa is here placed in his eternal position as a cowherd boy, and the Lord addresses him by his name in the spiritual world: Janaśarmā. From now on he is known as Janaśarmā.

kṣemaṁ-auspiciousness; sa-parivārasya-with associates; mama-of Me; tvat-of you; anubhāvataḥ-by seeing; tvat-of you; kṛpā-by the mercy; ākṛṣṭa-attached; cittaḥ-heart; asmi-I am; nityaṁ-always; tvat-your; vartma-path; vikṣakaḥ-looking.

By seeing you, I and My friends have become happy. My heart is drawn to your mercy. I always gaze at your path.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the words "I always gaze at your path" mean that Kṛṣṇa anxiously waits for them, thinking "When will they come?":

In this way the Lord was merciful to the brāhmaṇa and made him a personal friend, like Himself. Then Janaśarmā attained his desires.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the Lord made him one of His gopa friends. By attaining his original spiritual form, the brāhmaṇa's desires were fulfilled. That the devotees desire an attainment like this, and not material things, is described in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.14.14, 11.20.34, 9.4.67, 10.16.37, and 10.83.41-43.

"The damsels of Vṛndāvana, the gopīs, are super goddesses of fortune. The enjoyer in Vṛndāvana is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa. The trees there are all wish-fulfilling trees, and the land is made of transcendental touchstone. The water is all nectar, the talking is singing, the walking is dancing, and the constant companion of Kṛṣṇa is His flute. The effulgence of transcendental bliss is experienced everywhere. Therefore Vṛndāvana-dhāma is the only relishable abode. " * * * liberation. I am most humbly praying at Your lotus feet for You to please give me any sort of birth within this Vṛndāvana forest so that I may be able to be favored by the dust of the feet of some of the devotees of Vṛndāvana. Even if I am given the chance to grow just as the humble grass in this land, that will be a glorious birth for me. But if I am not so fortunate to take birth within the forest of Vṛndāvana, I beg to be allowed to take birth outside the immediate area of Vṛndāvana so that when the devotees go out they will walk over me. Even that would be a great fortune for me. I am just aspiring for a birth in which I will be smeared by the dust of the devotees' feet. I can see that everyone here is simply full of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. They do not know anything but Mukunda. All the Vedas are indeed searching after the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa."*

"My Lord, sometimes I am puzzled as to how Your Lordship will be able to repay, in gratitude, the devotional service of these residents of Vṛndāvana. Although I know that You are the supreme source of all benediction, I am puzzled to know how how You will be able to repay all the service that You are receiving from these residents of Vṛndāvana. I think of how You are so kind, so magnanimous, that even Pūtanā, who came to cheat You by dressing herself as a very affectionate mother, was awarded liberation and the actual post of a mother. And other demons belonging to the same family, such as Aghāsura and Bakāsura, were also favored with liberation. Under the circumstances I am puzzled. These residents of Vṛndāvana have given You everything: their bodies, their minds, their love, their homes. Everything is being utilized for Your purpose. So how will You be able to repay their debt?"*

yat-whose; pāda-paṁśuḥ-dust of the lotus feet; bahu-janma-in many births; kṛcchrataḥ-from undergoing severe austerities and penances as a way of practicing yoga, meditation, etc.; dhṛtātmabhiḥ-by persons able to control the mind; yogibhiḥ-by such yogīs (jnana-yogis, dhyana-yogis, raja-yogis, etc.); api-indeed; alābhyaḥ-cannot be achieved; saḥ-the Supreme Personality of Godhead; eva-indeed; yādṛg viṣayaḥ-has become the object of direct vision, face to face; svayam-personally; sthitaḥ-present in front of them; kim-what?; varṇyate-can be described; diṣṭam-about the fortune; ahaḥ-therefore; vrajaukasām-of the inhabitants of Vrajabhūmi, Vṛndāvana.

"Yogīs may undergo severe austerities and penances for many births by practicing yama, niyama, āsana, and prāṇāyāma, none of which are easily performed. Yet in due course of time, when these yogīs attain the perfection of controlling the mind, they will still be unable to taste even a particle of dust from the lotus feet of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. What then can we describe about the great fortune of the inhabitants of Vrajabhūmi, Vṛndāvana, with whom the Supreme Personality of Godhead personally lived and who saw the Lord face to face."*

payamsi-milk (coming from the body); yāsām-of all of whom; apibat-Lord Kṛṣṇa drank; putra-sneha-snutāni-that milk coming from the bodies of the gopīs, not artificially but because of maternal affection; alam-sufficiently; bhagavān-the Supreme Personality of Godhead; devakī-putraḥ-who appeared as the son of Devakī; kaivala-ādi-like liberation, or merging into the Brahman effulgence; akhilārtha-daḥ-the bestower of all similar blessings; tāsām-of all of them (of all the gopīs); aviratam-constantly; kṛṣṇe-unto Lord Kṛṣṇa; kurvatīnām-making; sutekṣaṇam-as a mother looks upon her child; na-never; punaḥ-again; kalpate-van be imagined; rājan-O King Parīkṣit; saṁsāraḥ-the material bondage of birth and death; ajñāna-sambhavaḥ-which is to be accepted by foolish persons ignorantly trying to become happy.

"The Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa, is the bestower of many benedictions, including liberation (kaivalya) or oneness with the Brahman effulgence. For that Supreme Personality of Godhead the gopīs always felt maternal love, and Kṛṣṇa sucked their breasts with full satisfaction. Therefore, because of their relationship as mother and son, although the gopīs were engaged in various family activities, one should never think that they returned to this material world after leaving their bodies."*

Great sages and saintly persons are also trying to be absorbed in meditation upon the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, who is Mukunda Himself, the giver of liberation, but the gopīs, having lovingly accepted the Lord, are automatically accustomed to this habit. They do not depend on any yogic practice. āsām aho caraṇa-reṇu-juṣām ahaṁ syām vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauśādhinām yā duṣṭyajam sva-janam ārya-patham ca hitvā bhejur mukunda-padavim śrutibhir vimṛgyam āsām-of the gopīs; ahaḥ-oh; caraṇa-reṇu-the dust of the lotus feet; juṣām-devoted to; ahaṁ syām-let me become; vṛndāvane-in Vṛndāvana; kim api-anyone; gulma-latauśādhinām-among bushes, creepers, and herbs; yā-they who; duṣṭyajam-

very difficult to give up; sva-janam-family members; ārya-patham-the path of chastity; ca-and; hitvā-giving up; bhejuḥ-worshiped; mukunda-padavīm-the lotus feet of Mukunda, Kṛṣṇa; śrutibhiḥ-by the Vedas; vimṛgyam-to be searched for.

yāsām hari-kathodgitām

punāti bhuvana-trayam

vande-i offer obeisances; nanda-vraja-strīṅām-of the women in nanda's vraja; pāda-of the feet; reṇum-to the dust; abhikṣnaśaḥ-at every moment; yāsām-of whom; hari-of lord hari; kathā-the topics; udgītam-sung; punāti-purifies; bhuvana-worlds; trayam-the three>

"i constantly pray to be honored by the dust of the gopīs' lotus feet. The gopīs' chanting of the transcendental pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa has become celebrated all over the three worlds."*

gopyaḥ kim ācarad ayam kuśalam sma veṇur damodarādhara-sudhām api gopikānām bhunkte svayam yad-avaśiṣṭa-rasam hradinyo hr̥ṣyat-tvaco 'śru mumucus taravo yathāryaḥ gopyaḥo gopīs; kim-what; ācarat-performed; ayam-this; kuśalam-auspicious activities; sma-certainly; veṇuḥ-the flute; damodara-of kṛṣṇa; adhara-sudhām-the nectar of the lips; api-even; gopikānām-which is owed to the gopīs; bhunkteenjoys; svayam-independently; yat-from which;-avaśiṣṭa-remaining; rasam-the taste only; hradinyaḥ-the rivers; hr̥ṣyat-feeling jubilant; tvacaḥ-whose bodies; aśrutears; mumucuḥ-shed; taravaḥ-the trees; yathā-exactly like; aryaḥ-old forefathers.

"My dear gopīs, what auspicious activities must the flute have performed to enjoy the nectar of Kṛṣṇa's lips independently and leave only a taste for us gopīs, for whom that nectar is actually meant! The forefathers of the flute, the bamboo trees, shed tears of pleasure. His mother, the river on whose bank the bamboo was born, feels jubilation, and therefore her blooming lotus flowers are standing like hair on her body."*

jayati jana-nivāso devakī-janma-vādo yadu-vara-pariṣat svarir dorbhir āsyann adharmam sthira-cara-vṛjina-ghnam su-smita-śrī-mukhena vraja-pura-vanitānām vārdhayan kāmadevam

jayati-eternally lives gloriously; jana-nivāsaḥ-He who lives among human beings like the members of the Yadu dynasty and is the ultimate resort of all living entities; devakī-janma-vādaḥ-known as the son of Devakī (no one can actually become the father or mother of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Therefore devakī-janma-vādaḥ means that He is known as the son of Devakī. Similarly He is also known as the son of Mother Yaśodā, Vasudeva, and Nandas Mahārāja); yadu-vara-pariṣat-served by the members of the Yadu dynasty of the cowherd men of Vṛndāvana (all of whom are constant associates of the Supreme Lord and are the Lord's eternal servants); svarir dorbhiḥ-by His own arms, or by His devotees like Arjuna who are just like His own arms; āsyann-killing; adharmam-demons or the impious; sthira-cara-vṛjina-ghnam-the destroyer of all the ill-fortune of all living entities, moving and not moving; su-smita-always smiling; śrī-mukhena-by His beautiful face; vraja-pura-vanitānām-of the damsels of Vṛndāvana; vārdhayan-increasing; kāmadevam-the lusty desires.

"Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is He who is known as jana-nivāsa, the ultimate resort of all living entities, and who is also known as Devakī-nandana or Yaśodā-nandana, the son of Devakī and Yaśodā. He is the guide of the Yadu dynasty, and with His mighty arms He kills everything inauspicious, as well as every man who is impious. By His presence He destroys all things inauspicious for all living entities, moving and inert. His blissful smiling face always increases the lusty desires of the gopīs of Vṛndāvana. May He be all glorious and happy."*
